KARSTEN CALLS FOR INQUIRY INTO ICC'S APPROVAL OF FRISCO DEAL

Says Decision to Let Railroad Control Central of Georgia Despite Law Violation Is 'Amazing.'

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 22—A congressional investigation of the Interstate Commerce Commission was demanded today by Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis, who denounced the ICC decision to let the Frisco Railroad acquire control of another line despite a finding that the Frisco had violated federal law.

Karsten termed the decision, handed down by the ICC's finance division, "one of the most amazing documents ever issued by a federal regulatory agency." He called for an immediate inquiry by the House Interstate Commerce and Government Operations Committees.

The finance division of three commissioners, acting for the 11-man commission, found that the Frisco had acquired stock control of the Central of Georgia Railway in 1955 without obtaining prior authorization from the ICC, as required by the Interstate Commerce Act. Nevertheless, it authorized the Frisco to go ahead and take control.

Letters to Committees.

In letters to Representatives Oren Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, and William L. Dawson (Dem.), Illinois, chairman of the Interstate Commerce and Government Operations committee, respectively Karsten declared:

"Unless Congress takes action, in the future we can expect more brazen abuses of power than this outrageous example.

"The action of the Interstate Commerce Commission is one of the most flagrant abuses of power I have ever seen. There has been a tendency in recent years for regulatory agencies to take the law into their own hands, and that is exactly what the ICC did in this instance.

"Congress established these agencies in the public interest. Instead of protecting and safeguarding the public interest, they are becoming servants of special privilege. They openly defy acts of Congress and take it upon themselves to alter the law to fit the circumstances.

"I believe we have reached the point where Congress can no longer tolerate such actions by the ICC."

In St. Louis, Clark Hungerford, president of the Frisco, issued a statement saying that the railroad was pleased with the ICC decision. But he had nothing to say about the finding that the Frisco had violated the law.

Asked Permission Later.

Karsten said the ICC decision, issued last Friday, made it clear that the Frisco had acquired working control of the Central of Georgia through a series of stock purchases before it applied for ICC permission to do this.

The investigation, he said, should seek to determine whether the Frisco delayed its application "to avoid public notice in order that the stock of the Central of Georgia Railway Co. could be bought more cheaply."

It also should inquire whether the Frisco obtained permission to sell bonds "by misrepresenting the facts," he continued.

The ICC report stated that Frisco's purchase of stock in the Georgia line "was financed in large measure with proceeds obtained from the sale of $19,500,000 first mortgage bonds, issuance of which was author-

Compromise Figure Is $2,368,150,000 Less Than Originally Requested by President Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP) — House - Senate conferees agreed today on a compromise $33,759,850,000 appropriations bill to finance the nation's huge defense establishment for the new fiscal year.

The total was $197,125,000 above the amount voted by the House and $774,379,000 less than the Senate approved.

All told, it was $2,368,150,000 less than the $36,128,000,000 originally requested by President Eisenhower.

The House had cut that request back to $33,562,725,000 but the Senate added $971,504,000.

The heavy rollback in Senate increases reflected Administration statements last week that the military could get along with less than it originally anticipated.

Speedy House action was expected on the compromise measure. Senate prospects were clouded somewhat by the civil rights debate.

The conferees increased funds for the Army by $25,125,000 over the original House figures. Navy appropriations were raised $65,000,000 over the House bill and the Air Force $107,000,000.

The Senate had made its biggest individual increases in items for Air Force aircraft and related procurement, Air Force operation and maintenance, and Army maintenance and operations.

FIVE-DAY ST. LOUIS AREA FORECAST: TEMPERATURES TO AVERAGE NEAR NORMAL

TEMPERATURES are expected to average near normal for the season in the St. Louis area tomorrow through Saturday, the Weather Bureau said today in its five-day forecast.

The forecast is: Temperatures for the next five days will average near normal for the season with slightly cooler weather about Wednesday but generally little day-to-day changes. Fair weather will prevail most of the time except for a few periods of scattered thundershowers activity primarily during the first two days. Afternoon highs will be around 90 and morning lows, nears 70.

$43,000 SHIPMENT OF ZOO ANIMALS DUE BY SUNDAY

The St. Louis Zoo's $43,000 shipment of African animals, including a pair of white rhinos, is expected to reach the Port of New York Wednesday and should arrive here by truck before Sunday, Director George P. Vierheller announced today.

Vierheller will fly to New York this evening so that he can be on the dock when the rhinos, a pair of African elephants and two young hippos come in aboard the S.S. Lavac. They will be loaded in crates and transported here in two vans.

Hermann Ruhe, who has accompanied the animals from Africa, will fly back to St. Louis with Vierheller. Heiner and Lutz Ruhe, of the firm of animal dealers, will ride the trucks to St. Louis and care for the beasts en route.

The Ruhes have told Vierheller the white rhinos are so tame that a man can ride on their backs, but if anybody does any rhino-riding in St. Louis, it will not be Vierheller, he said. The male rhino is reported to be six feet tall and 11 feet long.

MAN 'CLEANING' LINE CUTS OFF GAS TO 75 HOMES

Laclede Gas Co. inspectors were stumped last night when they attempted to find the cause of a sudden break in gas service to 75 families in the 2700 and 2800 blocks of Burd avenue. They called on the police bombing and arson squad for assistance.

A systematic check of homes in the neighborhood began. Finally, police entered a basement in the 5500 block of Maffitt avenue and found a man forcing air into a pipe leading to the gas main, using the compressor unit of a paint sprayer.

The man, who had dismantled his gas meter, explained he was attempting to "clean out the line." He expressed surprise when informed that adding oxygen to natural gas could result in a mixture dangerously explosive.

Police said the air created a back pressure in the main and prevented gas from flowing to homes in the neighborhood. The man with the compressor was not arrested. Service, which was cut off at 7 p.m., was restored at 1:30 a.m.

AMERICANS WORK 1½ DAYS A WEEK FOR TAX COLLECTOR

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—An American with an $85-a-week salary works slightly more than 1½ days of the five-day-week to pay taxes, Tax Foundation, Inc., reported yesterday.

Shortly after lunch on Tuesday — when he has finished working for the federal, state and local tax collectors — the average American worker starts to earn his living.

ALDERMAN RODDY IS ARRESTED ON GAMING CHARGE

Alderman Joseph P. Roddy was under $1000 bond on a gambling charge today, following his arrest by county police as the operator of a "wheel of fortune" on which cash prizes were paid at a Seventeenth Ward Democratic picnic in Wellston yesterday.

Asked at county police headquarters if he knew that operation of the gambling wheel was a law violation, Roddy said he did not. He was charged in a warrant with possession of a gambling device and furnished bond for an appearance before Magistrate Norman Anderson Aug. 27.

County Detectives Austin Duke and Harold Brown, alerted that gambling might be expected at the political picnic on the grounds of American Legion Post 154, 1900 Kienlen avenue, circulated through the late afternoon crowd. Shortly before 6 p.m. word was passed that "the wheel is about to start," the officers reported.

Wheel on Wall.

A "wheel of fortune" was affixed to a wall of a building and Roddy donned an apron with cash pockets. Salesmen pushed through the crowd selling 25-cent chances on a $5 cash prize. Forty chances, $10 worth, were sold for an unidentified "good cause" at each turn of the wheel. The wheel bore the names of the 48 states with only 40 possible winners, leaving eight blanks in favor of the "house."

Officers Duke and Brown bought chances three times, with Roddy spinning the wheel. On the third spin they saw the alderman pay a woman $5 for a winning chance, the officers reported. They identified themselves, placed Roddy under arrest and took the wheel along for evidence. The device had been rented from a carnival supply firm for the Democratic picnic.

Anti-Charter Signs.

Roddy, in his second term in the Board of Aldermen, is an opponent of the proposed new city charter. Signs opposing the charter were displayed prominently at the Wellston picnic grounds, which is just outside the St. Louis city limits.

Wellston police said they visited the picnic earlier in the day and saw no evidence of gambling. Roddy, a warehouse employe of a department store, lives at 4529 Gibson avenue.

An investigation of the reported operation of a "poker wheel" with cash awards to winners at a Second Ward Democratic barbecue at Second and Cornelia streets Saturday night has been ordered by Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell.

Penrose district police visited the grounds during the evening, reporting that the 1000 persons present were eating barbecue and enjoying themselves. The officers made no report of gambling.

About 10 p.m. a man suffered minor injuries in a fall near the barbecue and Patrolmen Charles Loepker and Robert Connell were dispatched to the scene. They reported the man refused medical attention, but that a second man became abusive and was arrested. Connell and Loepker, questioned by Capt. Girard Dorsey, district commander, on

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1957.

LONDON, July 22 — Faced with the prospect of a $70,000 telephone bill this year, Queen Elizabeth is going to make a series of recordings to be played to Prince Charles and Princess Anne at bedtime while she is in the United States this fall.

The recordings will take the place of some of the many costly long distance calls Queen Elizabeth customarily makes to the children when she goes away on long trips.

The Queen is disturbed about the telephone bill at the palace which has more than doubled since she came to the throne five years ago. An increase in telephone rates was announced by the government last week.

The Queen has had pay telephones installed in Buckingham palace for the servants so that they won't be able to charge private calls to the royal account.

NEW CHARTER WOULD INCREASE CITIZENS' ROLE, TUCKER ASSERTS

Mayor Says Proposed Instrument Provides for Greater Participation in Municipal Government.

The proposed new city charter would permit increased citizen participation in municipal government, instead of leaving all problems to elective officials, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker said today.

"Citizens of our community who have no desire for elective public office, but who are willing to devote their time and talents to directing the destinies of the city government, are provided an excellent chance under the new charter," Tucker said.

The proposed new code will be submitted to St. Louis voters for approval in a special election Aug. 6.

John J. Dwyer, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, who announced his indorsement of the charter proposal last week, said today the Democratic precinct captains of his home ward, the Fourth, have begun campaigning for the new code.

Consulted Captains.

Dwyer disclosed that prior to his public indorsement of the charter, he had met with the 30 precinct captains, 10 at a time, to learn their views. About two-thirds of the voters in the Fourth Ward are Negroes.

"I told them that if there were anything discriminatory or disadvantageous to minorities, I'd be the first to be against it," Dwyer said. "I asked them what objections, if any, they had to it. Some showed signs of having been saturated with 'anti-charter' statements. But after we got the facts threshed out, everybody was ready to go out and work for the new charter."

Mayor Tucker, in discussing the increased citizen participation in government called for in the proposed new charter, said that six of the 10 major city departments would receive guidance from citizens' boards and commissions.

They are: The traffic commission, which would examine the rules and plans proposed by the new traffic official, the Director of Traffic; the board of health and the board of hospitals, for the Department of Health and Hospitals; the board of parks and recreations; the board of children's welfare services and the board of adult welfare services for the Department of Welfare, and the board of standardization.

'More Effective.'

"Too often in the past we have used citizens on committees and boards," Mayor Tucker said, "only to see their opinions outweighed by a greater number of paid public officials serving on the same boards or commissions. Although in many cases these citizens have provided our city government excellent guidance and assistance, I believe they will be more effective under the new charter."

Modern city government, to operate efficiently, needs the advice of citizens who are experts in various fields, Tucker said.

"Since citizens who serve on these committees and commissions have no political ax to grind, their advice and counsel will be of invaluable assistance," the Mayor said. "Whatever success St. Louis has achieved in recent years has been due to citizen effort to shake our city out of the doldrums."

The proposed charter "recognizes this citizen leadership and provides a far greater opportunity for our people to assist their government," Tucker said.

'The People's Charter.'

"That is why we call the new charter 'the people's charter.' It gives more emphasis to the will and the needs of the citizens, rather than placing the government entirely in the hands of the politicians."

The Rev. James E. Cook, pastor of Antioch Baptist Church and executive director of the Pine Street Y.M.C.A., spoke in support of the charter yesterday from the pulpit of the church, 4213 North Market street.

WOMEN REJECTED IN MERCHANTS EXCHANGE VOTE

Members of the Merchants' Exchange today defeated a proposition under which the 121-year-old institution's bylaws would have been changed to admit women to membership.

Women won a moral victory, however. The vote was 54 in favor of admitting them to 34 against, but the preponderance was less than the two-thirds majority required for passage.

The proposition would have removed from the exchange's bylaws the words "male persons" and substituted "individual" in a provision setting up qualifications for membership.

Walter J. Krings, exchange secretary, announced the decision without comment. The election was held after a member of the exchange requested that a woman member of his concern be admitted to membership.

NOMINEE FOR TVA BOARD KNOWN IN KANSAS AS FOE OF RURAL CO-OPS

Arnold R. Jones, in His Term on Commission, Helped Give Private Power Strangle Hold Over Public Firms.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

As a member of the Kansas Corporation Commission, Arnold R. Jones helped make Kansas the only state where private power companies at will can take customers from rural systems.

During his three years on the commission, which is equivalent to the utilities commission in most states, he also helped make it possible for private power to offer co-operatives cheap wholesale rates, with assurance that the commission would reject them.

The result is that private power has a stranglehold on rural electric development and is able to maintain its high rate structure.

This charge against Jones was made by a co-op lawyer. It was confirmed by a commission engineer who was serving then and still is.

Week's Inquiry.

These facts on Jones' hitherto unpublicized public record were unearthed in a week's inquiry in Kansas during which this reporter checked many files and interviewed numerous persons with varying political affiliations.

Some additional facts and views found were these:

1. The United States Senate, which must confirm Jones, may have a difficult time investigating a possible conflict of interest in his service on the commission and representation of firms appearing before it. Two burnings of records, one by his private accounting firm, might impede such an inquiry.

2. Conflict of interest, such as brought on the Dixon-Yates inquiry has never been officially barred by the Kansas commission on which Jones served.

3. Jones's claim to being "non-controversial" may have been based on the fact he had support of the President's brother, Milton Eisenhower, as well as the Kansas Old Guard Republican machine. But there are many others, progressive Republicans and Democrats, who oppose him bitterly.

4. His Kansas G.O.P. supporters cheer his appointment because they obviously hope he will do a thorough overhaul on TVA.

5. A great majority of faculty members at Kansas State College say he created a vast amount of red tape as dean of financial administration and was ruthless in official dealings.

6. He was demoted from the deanship to professor of accounting just a short time before he was given the job of assistant director of the Budget Bureau in Washington. Critics say he was demoted because of faculty protest; friends say he asked for the job change.

'Most Capable.'

When Mr. Eisenhower named Jones as his second selection for the TVA board (Brig. Gen. Herbert D. Vogel, board chairman, was the first) he said of him:

"He seemed to be the most capable disinterested man that I could find. . . ."

Jones's appointment came at a time when his home state was in the throes of a revolt against Old Guard Republicans which liberal forces hoped, among

H. SAM PRIEST REPORTS THEFT, POLICE ACT FAST

H. Sam Priest, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, got prompt action from police when he reported the theft of his daughters bicycle last night.

Three hours and 45 minutes later Kraft saw a boy riding a bicycle answering the description at Union boulevard and the Hodiamont tracks. He arrested the boy and the bicycle was identified as the stolen one. The boy was held for juvenile authorities.

AUDITORS REPORT G.M. MISSTATED COST ON U.S. JOB

Tell House Committee Government Paid Unreasonably High Prices as Result.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP) — Government auditors reported today General Motors Corp. "overstated" or "misstated" cost figures on a $375,000,000 Air Force contract. They said this "resulted in unreasonably high prices being paid by the Government."

Their testimony before a House Armed Services subcommittee was called "shocking" by Chairman F. Edward Hebert (Dem.), Louisiana.

The auditors further told the subcommittee General Motors has refused to refund any part of its contract profits totaling 12.6 per cent, despite three separate pleas by the Air Force to do so "on principle."

In Detroit a spokesman said General Motors had "no immediate comment."

Hebert said the situation was "bordering on actual fraud."

Representative Porter Hardy (Dem.), Virginia, asserted, "It looks to me like General Motors is trying to be bigger than the United States Government," and added: "If this is not complete dishonesty in negotiations, then I don't know the meaning of the word."

GAO Requests Ignored.

The audit report on the 1952-55 contract was read to the subcommittee by Lawrence J. Powers, director of the defense accounting division of the General Accounting Office.

He told the subcommittee General Motors has ignored GAO requests for cost records on another Army ordnance contract being handled through the Cadillac division of General Motors.

(The United Press pointed out that General Motors, in a statement included in the GAO report, rejected the GAO charges. G.M. termed its profits reasonable. It also noted that its defense profits, on an over-all basis, still are subject to renegotiation.

(General Motors denied it had misled the Air Force on costs. It said it had furnished the Air Force, in advance of the repricing talks, with copies of all its purchase orders amounting to $25,000 or more.)

Hebert told Powers the subcommittee would subpena both General Motors records and its top executives, from president Harlow Curtice on down, if necessary to obtain the figures.

"This is very suspicious. I don't know what they're trying to cover up," Hebert said.

The General Motors contract

BRITAIN CHARGES REBELS IN OMAN GET 'OUTSIDE' AID

Press Says Saudi Arabia Is Inciting Uprising —New Mideast Crisis Threatened.

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd charged today that "outside" forces are behind a tribal rebellion in a remote Arabian peninsula area. The tribal uprising is threatening a new Middle East crisis.

Lloyd told the House of Commons that forces opposed to the British-supported Sultan of Muscat and Oman "have clearly received assistance from outside territories." He did not elaborate. But the British press has been charging that the uprising has been incited by Saudi Arabia, a friend of the United States.

Lloyd said "small-scale precautionary movements" of British forces already have taken place in response to a plea by the Sultan for support.

Saudi Arabia Gets U.S. Arms.

Saudi Arabia has received arms from the United States, but Lloyd said he had no knowledge that arms used in the rebellion "are of American origin."

"We know there are modern arms which must have come from territories outside Muscat," he added.

Lloyd made his statement after British government leaders, including top defense officials and Middle East advisers, met with Prime Minister Macmillan to consider the crisis.

Already Britain has taken preliminary steps to meet Sultan Said bin Taimur's appeal for help.

A government spokesman said "small, precautionary troop movements" have been ordered to the area which may be rich in oil.

Three British infantry companies in Kenya also were alerted for possible movement to the area and there were unconfirmed reports that aircraft were alerted in both Cyprus and Iraq. Two British frigates were standing by off Muscat.

Briton Heads Sultan's Troops.

Col. Pat Waterfield, retired, the British commander of the Sultan's small forces, has been on leave here, but flew back to Muscat where the temperature was reported to be 130 degrees.

Unconfirmed reports reaching Bahrein in the Persian gulf said rebels had cut a road leading to Odaiba airfield in the sultante. The airfield, 15 miles from Muscat, is a supply base for operations of Oman Petroleum Developments, Ltd.

Everything Is Air-Conditioned For Eisenhower Except Links

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP) —President Eisenhower has a cool time of it these hot weekends when he flies to his Gettysburg (Pa.) farm.

About a half-hour before he arrives at the airport a truck carrying a portable 40-ton air conditioning unit pulls up alongside his waiting two-engine plane. Through a hose it pumps ice-cold air into the small plane. At a signal that the President has left the White House for the airport the pump is unplugged and the truck pulls away—leaving the plane cool for the full 30-minute ride to Gettysburg.

The President actually is in the hot outdoor temperature only the time it takes him to walk the few steps from his air-conditioned office to his waiting air-conditioned limousine; from the limousine to the plane; and in Gettysburg from the plane to another waiting air-conditioned car and out of that to his air-conditioned farm house. (Note: Once in Gettysburg, he usually forsakes the air-conditioned atmosphere as quickly as he can for the golf course.)

PREPARES WAY FOR TEST ON LIMITING FIGHT TO VOTING ISSUE

Unanimous Action Would Repeal Law —Support Gains for Curbing Use of Injunctions.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP) — The Senate voted today to amend the Administration's civil rights bill to repeal a post-Civil War statute authorizing the use of federal troops to enforce court orders.

Both supporters and opponents of the House-passed civil rights measure joined in support of the amendment, adopted on a 90-0 roll call vote.

The action apparently cleared the way for a test—probably tomorrow—on whether to strip the measure of all enforcement powers other than those for the protection of minority voting rights.

This will come on a revised amendment by Senators Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, and George D. Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, to take out of the bill a provision under which the Attorney General could move on his own initiative to seek injunctions to enforce racial integration in southern schools and public places.

Support Building Up.

Senate sentiment obviously was jelling swiftly in support of the Anderson-Aiken proposal. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, predicted that unless some such change is made, the Senate may pass no civil rights bill at all.

The move to repeal the old statute was made by Senators William F. Knowland (Rep.), California and Hubert Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, both backers of civil rights legislation.

Knowland and Humphrey moved to strike down the old law in response to contentions by the bill's critics that Congress was being asked to link the statute of reconstruction days to enforcement of civil rights in the South.

The vote, first reached on any amendment, was significant only as a positive sign that supporters were retreating from their original effort to win Senate passage of the House bill without major changes.

Saltonstall Support.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Republican Senators, announced he will support the Anderson-Aiken amendment.

Senator Alexander Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, announced that he also will vote for that amendment.

Smith called this "not a compromise, but constructive selectivity." "Let us accomplish first things first—the right to vote," he said.

Saltonstall told the Senate in a speech that he was particularly concerned about a provision of section 3 that would let the Attorney General —with or without the request of local officials—launch civil rights enforcement suits on his own initiative. He said the effect would be to "violate the theory of home rule."

"Certainly it weakens the authority of and respect for state officials," he added. "I speak feelingly on this."

He said that as Governor of his state he had experiences with what he termed over-concentration of power in the Federal Government.

Knowland and Northern Democratic supporters of the Administration's bill have thus far failed to agree on any compromise to be offered as a substitute for the Anderson-Aiken proposal.

Senator Patrick McNamara (Dem.), Michigan said he knew of no fresh compromise efforts along this line.

Aiken predicted his and Anderson's amendment will carry when the eSnate gets down to voting on it, possibly tomorrow.

An Associated Press canvass of 92 of the present 95 Senators disclosed 64 Senators willing at this time to express an opinion on the question "Do you believe enforcement provisions of the bill should be limited to the field of voting rights?" Of the 64 taking a stand, 40 said yes, 24 no.

In a similar poll, 67 were willing to take a stand on the question "Do you favor a jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill?" The answer there was 41 yes, 26 no.

If all Senators voted—which rarely occurs — 48 affirmative votes would be required for adoption of an amendment. Nearly a third of the Senate in each case withheld their views, and this group could be the deciding factor on either question.

CLINTON JURY BEGINS HEARING CLOSING PLEAS IN TRIAL OF 11

Both Sides Given Four Hours—Case Grew Out of Violence Resulting From School Integration Order.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 22.—Closing arguments in the trial of 11 racial segregationists charged with criminal contempt as the result of riots at Clinton, Tenn., where integration of the high school was ordered last year, began today in United States district court before an all-white jury of 10 men and two women.

District Attorney John C. Crawford Jr. opened his presentation, as the trial went into its third week, by declaring that he and his assistants had shown that the 10 defendants living in or near Clinton had been guilty of conspiracy with Frederick John Kasper, Washington organizer of White Citizens Council chapters, in violating an injunction prohibiting interference with orderly integration of Clinton high school.

Prosecutor's Contention.

"We don't have to prove they took a typewriter and wrote out an agreement in order to prove concert of action," the prosecutor asserted. "Their association with one another and the way they acted in concert with another is sufficient to prove them guilty . . . These associations show a common design to achieve their objective—to get the Negro children out of the high school."

Crawford asked the jurors: "Do you believe in law and order?"

Continuing, he said: "None of the testimony about the assault on the Rev. Paul W. Turner has been disputed. How brave a man does it take to strike another whose arms are pinioned behind him? This is what Clyde Cook did . . . .

"We must recognize that a court order is an order, and as the crier said when he opened this court today, 'God save the United States and this honorable court.' The only way is to continue respect for the court when it issues an order.

"I leave the case in your hands to render such verdict as the proof and the law as given by the court warrant."

Ross Barnett of Jackson, Miss., two-time candidate for Governor, opened defense arguments with a Dixieland appeal to the emotions of the all-white jury.

After asserting that the Government had failed to prove the defendants had notice of the injunction, Barnett launched into a denunciation of integration and a defense of White Citizens' Councils.

He declared the councils had nothing to do with the present lawsuit and that their purpose was "to promote harmony and good will among the races."

Referring to Tennessee White Youth, teen-age version of the councils, Barnett said: "Their mothers and fathers are training them right. Let them have a White Citizens' Council; let them learn to speak their minds.

"The Bible tells us to segregate. It teaches us not to intermix the seed. Just because the Supreme Court of the United States has handed down a decision does not mean that our lips are sealed."

Reference to Lincoln.

Continuing his reference to the Supreme Court, Barnett went on:

"Until recently we had great men on the Supreme Court, who based their decisions on precedent and not on sociology. Abe Lincoln said he would not abide by a Supreme Court decision in the Dred Scott case.

"There are some who say we should be calm, but the left-wingers will be pleased if we heed the call to be calm. There are too many moderates. We need more citizens' councils and other organizations to provide for the needs of the people."

Pointing out that Tennessee laws, like those of Mississippi, provide for separate but equal school facilities for Negroes, Barnett declared: "Those who say we should integrate gradually are enemies of the Anglo-Saxon race."

He said he had talked by telephone over the weekend with Senator James Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, in Washington and that Eastland, referring to pending civil rights legislation, "told me to tell the jury that it's a plight up here."

Both the prosecution and the defense have been alloted four hours to present their arguments. The jury is expected to begin its deliberations tomorrow after receiving final instructions from the trial judge.

The trial is before United States District Judge Robert L. Taylor who ordered integration Jan. 4, 1956, and issued an injunction last Sept. 6 after the town of 4000 population, where Kasper had made inflammatory speeches, had become the scene of violence which brought 600 Tennessee National Guardsmen to the scene at the order of Gov. Frank G. Clement.

Pastor Beaten.

When the Rev. Mr. Turner and others escorted six of and the minister, pastor of the Clinton First Baptist Church, was waylaid and beaten. Judge Taylor then issued writs of attachment for the defendants, charging violation of the injunction.

The case has attracted widespread attention because it is the first jury trial resulting from a federal court's use of criminal contempt charges against persons interfering with integration of a school which had been ordered by the court. Southern Senators are attempting to remove from pending civil rights legislation a provision denying jury trial to injunction violators. Civil rights supporters contend that Southern juries would free them.

The week after Kasper had been freed of a charge of sedition and inciting to riot by a jury in Anderson county criminal court on Nov. 20, Crawford pointed out, members of the White Citizens Council began picketing the high school. Members of Tennessee White Youth, an organization of high school students who got a charter with the aid of Kasper and Cook, one of the defendants who attacked the Rev. Mr. Turner, wore badges to school reading: "Keep white schools white."

Training Session for Charter Workers

29 CHARGES FILED AGAINST YOUTH IN 3 TRAFFIC CHASES

John J. Valentine, who allegedly eluded police in three traffic chases, will face 29 charges tomorrow when he appears before Police Judge Robert G. Dowd.

Police reported that Valentine, an 18-year-old plumber's helper living in the 5100 block of Shaw avenue, got away from them twice the night and early morning of April 6-7, in south St. Louis. As a result of these two chases he was charged with with violating 18 major stops and four electric signals and with three separate speeding violations.

One of the officers recognized Valentine. He was arrested later and released on bond. He admitted his guilt, police said, saying he had become "scared" when he saw police chasing him.

Last Friday, Patrolman Harry Holcomb was breaking up a disturbance in the 5400 block of Chippewa street when he saw Valentine drive swiftly out of an alley. Valentine refused an order to stop, Holcomb said, crashed into a parked automobile and fled on foot.

Result: Additional charges of speeding, failure to slow down driving from an alley, refusing to obey a traffic officer and leaving the scene of an accident.

New Charter

Louis has operated too long under "the fix" form of government where you have to know somebody to get a job,"

The pastor sharply disagreed with anti-charter forces which contend Negroes and neighborhood interests are best represented by the present system of electing one alderman from each of the 28 wards.

The clergyman observed that successive aldermanic boards elected under the present system have failed to enact civil right bills that have been presented to them. The new charter provides for a "balanced" aldermanic board of 15 members, seven to be elected from ward areas, and seven others plus the board president to be elected by city-wide vote.

Slums Laid to System.

"The slums that we are in are a product of the system we have produced," the Rev. Mr. Cook said.

Another neighborhood leader, Andrew Brown, appearing in a television panel discussion on the new charter yesterday, also declared he had found that people who are interested in the welfare of neighborhoods are the ones who are campaigning for the new charter.

Brown, former president of the West End Community Conference, appeared as the pro-charter speaker on the panel show on Station KTVI, sponsored by the Teamsters Joint Council 13, which is fighting the charter proposal. Sidney Zagri, the Teamsters community relations director and a leader of the anti-charter forces, was panel moderator.

Brown's comments were in reply to David M. Grant, the third member of the panel and a charter freeholder who opposes the code he helped to draft.

Grant repeated arguments he has made in previous speeches, that "big business" will be best served by the new charter, and that the proposed code "will not be responsive to the needs of the little fellow, who will get it in the neck." Grant said the proposed 15-man aldermanic board would be a "House of Lords and a House of Commons—only there would be more Lords."

Brown Cites his Findings.

Brown replied that under the present system, neighborhood groups like his had discovered "there are now about two or three commoners on the Board of Aldermen, and about 25 Lords," when it came to supporting needed neighborhood projects.

Tension developed in the hard-fought charter campaign began to show Saturday when Zagri publicly warned theater operators not to use a pro-charter movie short. The Teamster official said he understood that pro-charter forces had asked a motion picture theater chain to run the film. He said theater owners might find it better business not to do it.

Edwin J. Spiegel, chairman of the Citizens Charter Committee, said Zagri's information was wrong. Although several theater operators have offered to show the film and "trailers," Spiegel said, the committee long ago decided against such campaigning. Audiences paying to see a movie should not be asked to sit through a film for which they did not bargain, Spiegel said, no matter how meritorious the cause.

A 15-minute film, "Charting a Course," will be shown at rallies and meetings sponsored by the Citizens Committee, Spiegel said.

Zagri and Alderman Joseph P. Roddy (Dem.), Seventeenth ward, were among anti-charter speakers at a meeting held at the Teamsters' Hall, 4141 Forest Park boulevard, by a rooming house operators' organization. Roddy later was arrested after he spun a gambling wheel at the Seventeenth Ward Democratic picnic in Wellston.

Volunteer precinct workers supporting the new charter began a door-to-door campaign today. They were brief in a meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Conrad Sommer, 5327 Waterman boulevard. Mrs. Sommer, who was vice chairman of the freeholders board that drafted the charter, is co-chairman of the Citizens Charter Committee's volunteer group.

The Board of Election Commissioners reported a total of 1472 absentee ballot applications have been received.

Absentee ballots can be obtained and voted at the Election Board Office, 208 South Twelfth street, through Aug. 5, the day before the election. If mailed in, they must be postmarked before 6 p.m. election day and received by the board office not later than 6 p.m. Aug. 7.

$4000 FIRE AT MARKET

A two-alarm fire yesterday caused an estimated $4000 damage to Fixler Bros. Super Market, 2601 Gamble avenue, fire department officials reported.

DRIVER FLEEING POLICE IN ALTON DROWNS IN RIVER

He had Dived Under Barge to Escape Capture After Traffic Violation.

William Dallas Patton of Wood River, drowned yesterday in the Mississippi river at Alton as he attempted to elude an Alton police officer who was pursuing him for a traffic violation.

Patton's body was recovered from beneath a barge in shallow water about 20 feet from shore. He had dived under the barge to elude Earl Wallace, 205 Marshall street, Alton, who had waded into the water after Patton. Wallace had joined his cousin, Patrolman Homer Wallace, in the pursuit.

Hits Another Auto.

Patrolman Wallace said he began pursuing Patton, a stock keeper for McDonnell Aircraft Corp., when he saw Patton's automobile drive on after striking another machine at Cut street and Broadway in Alton.

Wallace, who was riding a motorcycle, said Patton reached speeds between 70 and 80 miles an hour during the one-and-a-half mile chase along Broadway.

During the pursuit along Broadway, Wallace fired two warning shots in the air. At Ridge avenue, where Patton turned south toward the river, Wallace pulled alongside the speeding machine and touched Patton on the arm, signaling to him to stop. Wallace said he was almost knocked off his motorcycle by Patton's sharp-turning car.

Joined by Cousin.

About this time, Wallace was joined in the chase by his cousin, Earl Wallace, who was driving in his car.

As Patton ran toward the river, Patrolman Wallace fired one shot in the air and another at the fleeing youth, who was 21 years old. The bullet struck Patton in the left knee but he continued running, jumped into the river and began swimming toward a barge.

Earl Wallace waded into the river. When he grabbed at Patton, the youth dived under the water, heading toward the barge. He did not reappear.

Patton, who had been employed by McDonnell since January, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Patton of Cave In Rock, Ill. The town is about 180 miles southeast of St. Louis. He was in the Army from May 1953 until May 1956, serving in Korea. Alton authorities said Patton was never arrested.

A man who was fishing when Patton disappeared into the river corroborated the Wallaces' account of the chase from the levee to the river.

West Alton Resident Struck When Auto Rolls Into Missouri Near Lewis Bridge.

Grover C. Windes, of West Alton, Mo., was killed Saturday when struck by a driverless automobile as it plunged down a Missouri river embankment near the Lewis Bridge.

Windes and his nephew, John Henry Van Buren, also of West Alton, had parked the car on the embankment near the bridge to inspect a boat owned by Windes, St. Charles county deputies reported.

Van Buren managed to leap out of the way of the automobile, but Windes suffered a crushed chest and other injuries as the car plunged into shallow water at the edge of the river. He was pronounced dead at Memorial Hospital in Alton. He was 64 years old.

Van Buren's 3-year-old daughter remained in the parked car, but she escaped injury as the automobile rolled down the slope into the river.

Marine Cpls. J. E. Donaldson, 22, 4226B Pleasant street, and Thomas W. Robertson of Springfield, Ill., were fatally injured yesterday when the car in which they were riding struck a tree on United States Highway 101 near the El Toro (Calif.) Marine Air Station.

BLAIR DISCHARGED FROM HOSPITAL, RIDES ON LINKS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 22—Gov. James T. Blair of Missouri, who underwent a prostate gland operation at the Mayo Clinic here last Monday, was discharged from Methodist Hospital yesterday but is to remain in Rochester a few days longer for out-patient treatment.

He watched his son, James T. Blair III, play a round of golf yesterday. The Governor rode in an electric cart. Today he went for a drive with his brother, Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair of Jefferson City.

The Governor and his family are staying at the Kahler Hotel. He has a visitor from Missouri—Wilbur F. Daniels of Fayette, Democratic state chairman.

orders of Inspector James Thompson, said they saw no gambling.

North St. Louis Democratic politicians attended the barbecue, an annual affair for raising funds for ward activities.

Sheriff Martin Tozer told a reporter that he visited the barbecue for about 45 minutes and saw no gambling. "All I saw was people eating and having a good time," the sheriff reported. He said he is "not sure" he saw John L. (Doc) Lawler, Second Ward Democratic committeeman, at the affair. Lawler, who could not be reached for comment, was reported to have attended.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE IN DEATH OF FIGHT VICTIM

Manuel Lee Moore of State Park place, near Collinsville, was held today in the Madison county jail at Edwardsville without bond on a murder charge in the death of Elmer L. Woodruff Friday on an East St. Louis cafe parking lot.

Police said Woodruff, also of State Park place, 29 years old, was killed when Moore, 21, struck him in the head in a fight. A warrant issued Saturday accused Moore, a salesman, of striking Woodruff with a heavy implement.

John G. Mudge, assistant Madison county state's attorney, said Moore told authorities he struck Woodruff with his fist.

FOUND GUILTY OF DRIVING WHEN DRUNK, FINED $100

Bobby Street, 22 years old, of the 3800 block of West Florissant avenue, was fined $100 by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd today on a charge of driving when intoxicated, and $5 for violating a stop sign at Scott and Euclid avenues last June 4.

He testified that he had had two drinks of peppermint schnapps, for a stomach ailment, and two cans of beer.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE IS CHARGED BY FTC

Accused of Requiring Retailers Not to Handle Competitors' Products.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 22. — International Shoe Co. of St. Louis and a wholly-owned subsidiary, Shoenterprise Corp., were charged by the Federal Trade Commission today with unlawfully requiring retailers not to handle shoes sold by competing manufacturers.

A commission complaint alleged that International had entered into exclusive contracts with some shoe retailers in violation of Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commision Act, which prohibits unfair practices where the effect may be to hinder or prevent competition.

The companies, both of which have headquarters at 1509 Washington avenue in St. Louis, were given 30 days in which to file answers to the complaint. A hearing before an FTC examiner was scheduled for Oct. 14 in St. Louis.

Describing International Shoe Co. as the world's largest manufacturer of shoes, the complaint said one effect of the alleged contracts with retailers was "to prevent International's (retail) customers from buying from others."

The complaint said the contracts require that "International's prior approval must be obtained before competing lines are bought" by the retailers. The FTC listed other effects to the contracts as follows:

1. Competing manufacturers are prevented from selling shoes to retailers who buy International shoes.
2. Competitors are "foreclosed" from "a substantial share of the retail market in certain local areas."
3. International gains "exclusive selling rights to a substantial share of the market."
4. The contracts "further International's already-dominant position in the industry and tend to create a monopoly."

The complaint said International's total sales in the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1955, were $262,413,803. The company sold to approximately 17 wholesalers, 32,406 independent retailers, 207 chain customers and 21 retail outlets in which it had an interest, the FTC said.

The subsidiary, Shoenterprise, is "engaged primarily" in granting loans to shoe retailers to set up businesses, the complaint said. A condition of these loans, it added, is that the retailer sign a "restrictive contract" promising to sell only International shoes.

RUSSIA PROPOSES DECIDING H-BOMB TRUCE PERIOD, DATE TO BEGIN IT

Planning Would Go On While Enforcement Was Set Up — Delay Would Mean Fixing Later Starting Time.

LONDON, July 22 (AP) — Russia urged the United Nations disarmament subcommittee today to agree on a period for the suspension of hydrogen bomb tests and to fix a date for the suspension to begin.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the five-nation subcommittee working committees should be set up to plan how such a suspension could be enforced as soon as agreements on the two points can be reached, according to British sources.

Zorin, replying to a question by British delegate Allan Noble, said Russia does not propose the suspension going into effect before a system of enforcement is set up.

The Russian said if the working committee was unable to agree on a system of enforcing the moratorium in time for it to begin Dec. 30, then a new date should be fixed.

Noble had asked whether Zorin proposed that the control system he worked out before or after the hydrogen bomb test suspension began.

The subcommittee has been deadlocked over the length of any H-bomb test suspension. The Western powers—United States, France, Britain and Canada—want to begin with a 10-month suspension, which could be extended if everyone is satisfied with the way it works out. Russia wants the suspension to be for two to three years, and has called on the Western nations to name some period other than 10 months.

French delegate Jules Moch told the subcommittee that in addition to agreeing on the date and duration of a test suspension the subcommittee would have to agree on measures to bring a halt to the production of nuclear weapons.

The subcommittee also heard Zorin renew an appeal that the suspension of hydrogen bomb tests be divorced from other measures and settled independently. The West has said this issue would have to be settled within the framework of a more general disarmament treaty.

Today's subcommittee meeting lasted only 40 minutes. No meeting will be held tomorrow since the British House of Commons will be holding a debate on disarmament policies. The next subcommittee meeting was fixed for Wednesday.

U.S. QUESTIONED ABOUT POLICIES TOWARD VATICAN

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP) —A predominantly Protestant organization said yesterday it had asked the State Department to detail this country's policies toward the vatican.

Protestants and other Americans United for Separation of Church and State said it wrote the department's legal adviser, Loftus E. Becker, asking:

1. Whether the United States has recognized the Vatican as a soverign foreign state.
2. Whether, if such recognition has been granted, Roman Catholic bishops have been exempt from registration as foreign agents.

The organization said recognition of the Vatican would "certainly come as news to the American people." But it said a July 12 dispatch circulated by Religious News Service quoted "high ranking officials" of the State Department's legal division as saying this country has recognized the Vatican "since the Lateran treaty of 1929."

Stanley Lichenstein, research director of the organization, wrote Becker that he hoped the officials "were inaccurately quoted or speaking unofficially."

DULLES TO DETAIL U.S. AIMS IN TELEVISION TALK TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP) —President Eisenhower was reported today to have "cleared and approved a radio-television address by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles outlining the Government's position on disarmament. The State Department reported the President's personal approval of the address at a news conference.

Officials said the 30-minute speech tonight would reply to Soviet distortions and propaganda attacks on American disarmament policy.

Dulles's speech will be carried by television station KTVI (channel 2) and radio station WIL at 8 p.m.

EGYPT'S FIRST PARLIAMENT IN 5 YEARS OPENS

CAIRO, July 22 (AP)—Abdel Latif el Baghdadi, minister of municipalities and planning today was elected speaker of Egypt's new Parliament. President Gamal Abdel Nasser formally was to inaugurate the nation's first Parliament since 1952 with a speech later today.

Baghdadi, a member of the old Revolution Council, was picked for the speaker's post by a vote of 332 to 7.

A guard of honor was on hand and a 21-gun salute was prepared for the President, but a striking feature of the opening of the 350-member national assembly was the absence of the pomp and glitter of parliamentary openings in the days of King Farouk.

Egypt's last Parliament was elected in 1950 and dissolved by Farouk early in 1952. For five years Nasser has ruled Egypt without a Parliament. In Farouk's days the chamber was made up largely of wealthy feudal lords and merchants. Nasser's assembly has a more middle-class appearance, including a few trade unionists, a clique of army officers and a smattering of professional people. It includes two women.

JAPANESE COURT SENTENCES U.S. AIRMAN FOR ROBBERY

OSAKA, Japan, July 22 (UP) —An 18-year-old American airman has been sentenced to two and one-half to four years at hard labor by the Osaka district court on conviction of charges of robbery and illegal possession of firearms.

Airman Third Class Lewis R. Bryant, of Denham Springs, La., had been found guilty of holding up a Japanese taxicab driver with a pistol and robbing him of 1300 yen ($3.60) at Osaka on Feb. 22.

The court took into consideration Bryant's age and compensations he made to the victim and pronounced the "interdeterminate" sentence. Bryant must serve a minimum of two and one-half years.

LANA TURNER IS GRANTED DIVORCE FROM LEX BARKER

HOLLYWOOD, July 22 (UP) —Movie actress Lana Turner was granted an interlocutory divorce from movie actor Lex Barker today after she testified he had an "uncontrolable temper" and hit her in the face during a breakfast table argument.

Miss Turner said her husband engaged in frequent arguments with her "and had an uncontrollable temper which he showed too many times." On one occasion during an argument at the breakfast table Barker hit her in the face, she told the judge. They were married Dec. 24, 1953, and separated last February.

A community property agreement had been reached earlier and the actress was given permission to resume use of her maiden name, Lana Turner, when the divorce becomes final.

Failure to Heed Haircut Order To Cost Airman 4 Months, $200

FUCHU, Japan, July 22 (AP) —A 20-year-old American airman who objected to getting a "white sidewall" haircut was convicted of disobeying orders today and sentenced to four months at hard labor.

The airman, Donald Wheeler of Cortez, Colo., also was fined $200 in pay and reduced to basic airman — private — from airman third class.

Wheeler contended that he had "challenged" an order to get a "white sidewall" haircut because he had received a regulation Air Force trim only the day before the order was given. A "white sidewall" removes the hair from the ears to the crown, leaving only a fringe on top.

'Disobedience of Lawful Order.'

After the court-martial board returned its verdict, Wheeler asked:

"Can you imagine anybody going to jail for not getting a haircut?"

The charges against Wheeler did not mention haircuts and the Air Force contended the action involved only "disobedience of a lawful order of his superior officer."

Summing up before the court-martial board, the Air Force prosecutor, Lt. William D. Prigden of Kingstree, S.C., told the court-martial that Wheeler imagines himself to be "a martyr," but that "he did nothing less than disobey an order."

Murray Sprung of New York, Wheeler's civilian attorney, argued that "under our system, he (Wheeler) has a right to question an order . . . including the type of haircut he wanted to get."

Sprung said the sentence was more severe than he had expected. Maximum penalty could have included forfeiture of two-thirds pay for six months, six month's imprisonment and a bad conduct charge.

Automatic Review.

The conviction and sentence will be reviewed automatically by higher Air Force authorities. The review could reduce the sentence or order a new trial.

The Air Force also disclosed Wheeler had been convicted by a court-martial last February of failure to report to his place of duty. On that count he was reduced from airman second class to airman third class and forfeited $50 in pay.

The "white sidewall" haircut order challenged by Wheeler was given him when he was a member of the now disbanded Far East Command honor guard in Tokyo. The guard served at flag-raising ceremonies and other military functions. Air Force officers testified the shaving of the hair above the ears of honor guard members was intended to give them a uniform appearance.

105 DOOMED IN HUNGARY

VIENNA, July 22 (UP)—Communist Hungarian "peoples courts" have sentenced 105 persons to death since last October's revolution, reports from Budapest said today.

The last two death sentences were announced by a Budapest court Saturday night when Ferenc Hovath and Syoergy Spamberger were found guilty of "participating in an attempt to murder Soviet soldiers."

NEUBERGER SAYS HELL'S CANYON BILL IS BEATEN

First Outright Admission From Advocate —Blames Republican Hostility.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP) —A long-time champion of the proposed federal Hell's Canyon dam admitted today that the project has "failed in House committee."

Senator Richard L. Neuberger (Dem.), Oregon, said "Republican hostility" was "mainly responsible for the defeat of Hell's Canyon."

Neuberger's statement was the first outright admission from a Hell's Canyon advocate that the controversial legislation has been beaten.

The Senator made the comments in a statement in which he noted that there has been "some criticism" of Representative Al Ullman (Dem.), Oregon, "because the Hell's Canyon bill has failed in House committee."

Neuberger said the criticism had come from Ullman's opponents in his home Second District in Oregon.

Called Hypocrisy.

"This criticism is the height of hypocrisy," Neuberger said. "Republican hostility is mainly responsible for the defeat of Hell's Canyon. For these people to assail Al Ullman is the moral equivalent of a person who has shoved your brother over a cliff, then turns around and condemns the family physician because he is unable to save your brother's life."

Neuberger said that Ullman, a member of the House Interior committee and author of one of several Hell's Canyon bills, has led "one of the most courageous, persistent and unflagging fights ever carried on for a beneficial project."

But Neuberger added that "he had against him the private-utility lobby, the Republican National Committee and the massive influence of the White House itself."

"He also had against him certain elements in the Second Oregon district, who would rather score a political point than secure 1,000,000 kilowatts of low-cost firm power for new payrolls in Oregon," he said.

Ullman Still Hopeful.

Neuberger's statement was regarded coldly by other Hell's Canyon supporters.

Ullman himself said that Neuberger is "welcome to his opinion, but we're still holding out hope."

"A lot of people had thought it was going to die in the Senate, but they were fooled," Ullman said.

The Senate passed a Hell's Canyon bill late last month but similar legislation has been tied up in the House Interior committee ever since. The committee meets again Wednesday when opponents of the high dam, who have the votes to kill the project, are expected to try again to administer the final death blow.

Meany to Present Charges Against Textile Workers Union

Says Senators Have Turned Up Evidence for AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Group.

WASHINGTON, July 22. — (UP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said today he will present cahrges against the United Textile Workers union before the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices committee.

Meany told Senate rackets investigators that they have dug up evidence which will enable him to reopen the case against UTW President Anthony Valente and Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Klenert.

Klenert admitted to the rackets committee last week that he and Valente used union funds to purchase private homes.

Meany said Klenert and Valente gave him a "phony report" of their union's finances in 1952. He said he brought evidence of misuse of union funds to the attention of the ruling body of the textile union—its executive board—but the board backed Klenert and Valente.

At that time, Meany said, there was nothing more he could do as an officer of the OFL.

Meany said that at the time of the Klenert-Valente report it was the policy of the AFL not to interfere with internal affairs of its member unions.

But with the AFL-CIO merger in 1955, he said, the constitution of the labor federation was changed to give it more power over member unions—power which was implemented last January in a detailed code of ethics. Meany said he thinks the code is retroactive.

He said the rackets committee, through its subpena power, has uncovered information he could not obtain in 1952.

By the United Press.

Committee chairman John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, has said that Meany, then AFL secretary-treasurer, caused Valente and Klenert to return to the union money used to purchase homes for themselves. Both have denied any irregularities.

The UTW executive council met here over the weekend and said the union itself previously had investigated the charges against the two top officers and had found them to be "erroneous." The council also formulated what it called a "widespread and constructive" ethical practices code for the union.

After the meeting, called to consider new financial safeguards over the union's funds, the textile union council issued a statement saying:

"It was noted that when these charges originally arose in 1952 the executive council made an investigation and found the politically motivated accusations to be erroneous.

"A report of these findings was filed with the American Federation of Labor in 1953 and the full story was made known to the UTW membership.

"Reports from the field reaching the international executive council expressed overwhelming support by the membership in the officers of the UTW."

Klenert testified he and Valente used $57,000 of union funds for their home purchases as a subterfuge to tie up the money in case a dissident union faction were to take over the treasury. The money was to be used for organizing, Klenert said.

The committee will open next Tuesday its long-planned investigation of New York gangster Johnny Dio's labor union connections.

McClellan has said the name of James R. Hoffa of Detrait, Midwest Teamster union boss, probably will figure in the New York City inquiry and that Hoffa himself may be called as one of the more than 100 witnesses to be summoned.

Hoffa was found not guilty Friday of charges that he had bribed a New York lawyer-investigator, John Cye Cheasty, to get a job with the committee staff and turn secrets from its files over to Hoffa.

Dio, also known as John Dioguardi, has been charged with masterminding the plot to blind labor columnist Victor Riesel with acid. He was indicted on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice in that connection.

SYRIA LIFTS MARTIAL LAW

DAMASCUS, July 22 (UP)—Martial law was lifted today for the first time in eight months in Syria except in the Kupaitra and Zawiya districts near the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

Martial law had been imposed last November after the British-French-Israeli invasion of Suez.

507 MISSOURI AUTO DEATHS; 70 BELOW THIS TIME IN '56

JEFFERSON CITY, July 22 (AP)—The State Highway Patrol reported today that so far this year the number traffic deaths stand at 507, which is 70 fewer than at the same time in 1956.

There were 16 traffic deaths in the state last week, compared with 26 for the same week a year ago. The toll for July now stands at 33, far below the 60 total for the first 21 days of July 1956.

NINE AMERICANS ON AIR SEARCH IN ITALY KILLED

Tenth Is Badly Burned —Crew Was Hunting Missing Sister Craft With 11 Aboard.

TREVISO, Italy, July 22 (AP) —Nine American Navy flyers were killed and a tenth was gravely burned yesterday when their Navy Neptune bomber crashed in flames while searching for a missing sister ship.

The P-2V patrol bomber sideslipped in gusty winds and crashed 5200 feet up on Mt. Pra near the Alpine resort of Sestriere not far from the French frontier.

The plane was one of 20 United States and Italian aircraft hunting for another Navy P-2V which disappeared Friday with 11 aboard.

A party of Italian mountain climbers saw the search plane fall. They pulled two living airmen from the flames that had burned away most of their clothes. The eight others already were dead. One of the survivors died soon afterward. The other was taken to a local hospital, suffering from burns of the face, chest and arms.

The plane crashed at noon, three hours after taking off from the United States air base at Aviano, near Udine, to join other American and Italian planes in the search.

The search planes were looking for a Neptune which left Casablanca Friday morning en route to Treviso near Venice. The plane made the 1400-mile flight without incident and was sighted over Padua Friday afternoon descending in a rainstorm for its landing at Treviso 30 miles away. Then radio contact was lost.

Italian air-search center officials expressed fear the plane had overshot Treviso in the rain and might have gone down in the Adriatic off Venice.

Rains and winds have hampered the search.

Atomic Blast Postponed.

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., July 22 (AP)—Detonation of the ninth atomic shot of the summer test series was postponed again today because of unfavorable weather conditions. The blast was postponed for the same reason yesterday. The shot now is off until at least Tuesday morning.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN DITCH IS UNIDENTIFIED

Efforts to identify a woman whose nude body was found Saturday in a drainage ditch on the Meramec river near Flamm City were being made today by Jefferson county authorities and the State Highway Patrol. Flamm City is about 10 miles south of St. Louis in Jefferson county.

Sheriff Leo Church and Coroner James C. Rehm both expressed the belief the woman met with foul play. Bruises were discovered on the body about the head and arms and there were scratches on the wrists, apparently made by fingernails, Rehm said.

The woman was described as about 38 to 43 years old, weighing about 120 pounds, with black hair streaked with gray. The Highway Patrol reported the woman had undergone several abdominal operations and had an upper dental plate and a partial lower plate.

An autopsy indicated she died by drowning, Rehm said. Results of other laboratory tests are expected today. The autopsy was conducted by the coroner's office in St. Louis.

Church said his investigation so far has disclosed nothing and there was little to go on. He and Rehm based their beliefs the woman met with foul play largely on the fact she was nude and no items of clothing have been discovered where the body was found. The woman was wearing only canvas shoes when the body was found by fishermen.

Rehm theorized the woman was knocked unconscious and taken to the drainage ditch in an automobile. No one whose description matches the dead woman's has been reported missing in the area, authorities reported.

An inquest will be held tonight at the Heiligtag undertaking establishment at Imperial. The body is held there.

WOUNDED BY POLICEMAN AFTER REFUSING TO HALT

An ex-convict was wounded early yesterday when he refused to halt after Patrolman Paul Freeman observed him carrying a case of soda away from the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. loading dock at 2930 North Market street.

Officer Freeman said he ordered the man to halt. When the man dropped the soda and began running, Freeman fired once in the air and four times at him. The man disappeared in the darkness.

About 35 minutes later a man identifying himself as David Lewis, 24 years old, a Negro, living in the 3500 block of Cass avenue, appeared at Homer G. Phillips Hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound of the right leg. He declined to say how he was wounded, but Freeman identified him as the man at whom he fired.

RAILWAY EXPRESS DRIVERS BACK AT WORK AFTER STRIKE

Railway Express Agency truck drivers returned to work today, ending a strike that began last April 21. Drivers were back on the job likewise in six other cities where walkouts occurred at the same time.

The first men started their rounds here as scheduled at 5 a. m. A small amount of goods which had been undelivered since the start of the strike was cleared out and deliveries were shortly on a current basis, a company official reported.

Shipments to the cities affected were embargoed at the time of the walkout, and that prevented accumulation at the terminals. A new contract with the Teamsters Union provided a 15-cent increase retroactive to Jan. 16, 1956, and 7-cent increases Nov. 1 this year and next year.

YOUTH WITH STOLEN TOOLS IS HELD FOR INVESTIGATION

A 16-year-old boy was held for investigation by East St. Louis police today after he was arrested with tools and a portable battery charger stolen from a filling station at 601 Missouri avenue early yesterday.

The boy, a Negro, was arrested at Eighth street and Broadway, three blocks from the filling station, by Constable Charles Little of Centreville Township.

Police had discovered a broken window in the station in a routine check and called the owner, Kenneth Van Hounton, who said the tools, worth $100, and the $249 battery charger were missing. The boy was arrested a few minutes later.

WOMAN REPORTS ASSAULT BY MAN ARMED WITH KNIFE

An 18-year-old woman was criminally assaulted early yesterday by an armed man who entered her apartment in the 5800 block of Page boulevard, she reported to police.

She said the man, a Negro, held a knife at her throat and threatened to kill her if she resisted. She was treated at City Hospital for shock.

Police said the man apparently entered the apartment by removing a screen from a rear door.

EISENHOWER FLIES BACK TO 100-DEGREE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP)—President Eisenhower flew back to stifling hot Washington today from a warm-weather weekend at his Gettysburg (Pa.), farm. The President was accompanied in his twin-engined plane by his physician, Dr. Howard M. C. Snyder.

Washington's temperature was expected to reach a high of near 100 today. It soared to 101 yesterday for the hottest day here in three years.

CARGO FOR ISRAEL AWAITS EGYPTIAN DECISION AT SUEZ

CAIRO, July 22 (AP)—An Egyptian official said today the Danish freighter Brigitte Toft—carrying cargo to Israel—is getting the same treatment as any other ship seeking to pass through the Suez sanal.

The official told reporters a decision on whether its cargo will be allowed to clear will be made after customs inspection. The vessel reportedly is carrying rice to Israel. Officials said the ship arrived in Suez this morning.

One official said normal procedure is to let limited quantities of cargo pass through the canal to Israel if addressed to individual Israeli importers and carried by a non-Israeli ship.

If the cargo is addressed to the Israeli Government or army, he added, it may be confiscated.

Rights Debate

(The United Press said opponents of the bill claimed a minimum of 50 votes—a clear majority—to kill section 3.)

Substitute Sought.

Administration leaders and northern Democrats tried and failed last week to find some mutually acceptable substitute for section 3 of the bill, but both Knowland and Humphrey said there was a possibility that a basis for agreement might yet be found.

The White House was reported urging Republican Senate leaders to renew their efforts to reach an agreement with the northern Democrats before the Anderson-Aiken amendment is brought to a vote.

Concession by Ellender.

Senator Allen Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, one of the Southern Senators fighting to kill the whole bill, said the voting rights section "will probaby remain as it is" in spite of attempts to require jury trials.

Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.), Georgfa, the Southerners' leader said he would be "surprised" if a jury trial were not put in that section.

Separate jury trial amendments already have been offered by Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, and Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, and others are likely to take shape when the Senate moves on to this phase of the fight over the legislation.

In a recorded radio interview with Representative Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.), New York, yesterday, Attorney General Herbert Brownell repeated his opposition to a jury trial amendment.

"It would do away with the traditional experience we have had in the country that when a court orders a thing to be done, then the court should have the power to enforce it," he said.

Brownell also made clear that the Administration wants to retain in the bill at least limited federal sanctions to enforce school integration and other civil rights.

He said he would not favor any compromises aimed at "taking away or modifying civil rights that are guaranteed to all of our citizens by the Constitution."

He denied, however, that there was any intent on the part of the Administration to "force" school integration.

Warning From Celler.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (Dem.), New York, of the House Judiciary Committee issued a statement warning the Senate against adopting weakening amendments.

As head of the House conferees in any attempt to adjust differences in the final Senate version, Celler said "I shall refuse to participate in the acceptance of any crippling amendments."

Celler described as "just plain nonsense" charges that the House and the Administration had not made known or did not discover and make known various features of the legislation while it still was in the House.

"The bill was raked fore and aft, every phase of it was made known at the hearings, in the reports and in the debates on the floor," he said.

Auto Safety Belt Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—A House subcommittee will begin public hearings Aug. 5 on the value of automobile safety belts with the hope of "determining the true value of a seat belt in an accident."

ized by us . . . upon representations that funds were needed for other purposes."

Hungerford Statement.

Frisco President Hungerford said the railroad, having spent more than $153,000,000 on improvements since 1947, advised the ICC that it wanted to issue the bonds "to replenish its treasury cash, and in that connection stated it had in view the making of a number of other improvements."

A freight yard at Capleville, Tenn., which cost $9,503,573 has been placed in operation; $1,238,571 has been spent on a yard at West Tulsa, Ok., and 4000 freight cars have been purchased instead of the 2000 originally contemplated, he reported.

"The proceedings in connection with the sale of the bonds also show that at that time the Frisco had already purchased nearly a third of the Central of Georgia stock at a total cost of $9,652,064," Hungerford declared.

"We think that the decision in the control case will go far toward clearing the way for Frisco and Central of Georgia to proceed with plans to bring improved service to the territories served by them. Our aim is, and always has been, to bring about better rail service for the growing traffic in the West, Southwest and Southeast, and to meet the needs of the rapidly increasing industrial expansion in these areas."

John L. Bradford, ICC examiner who handled the case in its initial stages, said Frisco told the commission it needed money to make capital improvements, and gave no indication that the funds raised by selling bonds would be used to buy Central of Georgia stock.

'Example of Secretiveness.'

Noting that the application to issue bonds was filed before the application to acquire control of the Georgia line, Karsten said the investigation should determine whether the bond sale "was another example of secretiveness by Frisco in order to avoid public notice and keep down the price of Central stock."

Another question the congressional investigation should seek to answer, Karsten said, is whether a voting trust set up by Frisco "was valid or whether it was simply a subterfuge."

The Frisco contended that any violation of the law hinged on the question whether a certain block of Central of Georgia stock could be voted. If this stock, which is not owned by Frisco, could be voted, then the Frisco holdings constituted less than 50 per cent of the shares outstanding; if it could not be voted, then Frisco had more than a majority.

A Frisco spokesman said as soon as the railroad learned that the question had been raised it placed its stock in a voting trust so that the railroad had no power to vote it.

Examiner's Recommendation.

After conducting a hearing on the Frisco's application to control Central of Georgia, Bradford last fall recommended that the Frisco be required to divest itself of the unlawfully acquired control entirely, or that the Illinois Central and Seaboard Air Line Railways be permitted to share control equally with the Frisco.

Although the recommendation of a hearing examiner usually is followed by the ICC, in this case Bradford's recommendation was rejected by the finance division.

The Illinois Central and Seaboard Railroads, which opposed Frisco's application to control Central of Georgia, could appeal the panel decision for reconsideration by the full commission. As yet the opponents have not decided whether to continue their fight.

The decision reversing the ICC examiner's recommendation noted that the Frisco had violated the Interstate Commerce Act by acquiring control of another carrier without first obtaining ICC authorization. But it stated: "This violation, while not to be condoned, is not necessarily a bar" to granting the Frisco's application "as will be consistent with the public interest."

The Frisco now owns about 64 per cent of the Central of Georgia's 337,236 shares of common stock and 170,417 shares of preferred. The ICC authorized Frisco's purchase of all additional shares tendered to it within 60 days at prices of $56 per share for common stock and $82 for preferred.

When the stock market opened today the common stock sold for $52, a rise of 3¾ points over Frday's closing quotation.

Oman Revolt

of the rebellion were serious. Some observers saw a conflict of American and British policy. The care with which the Macmillan government approached the situation made clear that difficult policy issues were involved.

Saudi Arabia is a leading power in persuading other Arab states to accept the Eisenhower doctrine against Communism in the Middle East. King Saud of Saudi Arabia, who draws big American oil royalties, is regarded as a friend of the United States.

Religious Leader in Command.

The rebellion was set off when Imam Ghaleb Ben Ali, religious leader of Oman, seized control three days ago of some 5000 square miles of territory governed by the Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

The Sultan immediately appealed for help from Britain, with whom his government has had treaty relations since 1839.

Britain does not have formal protectorate relations over Muscat and Oman, such as is held over the neighboring and fabulously rich oil sheikhdoms of Kuwait and Qatar.

But British officers lead the Sultan's private army of 400 men; and the sultanate, like Kuwait and Qatar, is protected by the Trucial Scouts—an irregular military organization also led by Britons. The Imam is reported to have a force of about 1500 tribesmen.

British officials fear that to deny protection to the Sultan might open the way for outside forces to try to overthrow the sheikhs of Kuwait and Qatar.

Sending British troops into the dispute, however, might stir up cries of "colonialism" again just when some Arab states appear to be drifting away from Egyptian President Nasser's leadership.

In 1955 the British-led private army of the Sultan drove the Imam out of the country and sent him fleeing into Saudi Arabia.

The Sultan's forces then went on to occupy a disputed oasis at Buraimi, which is also claimed by Saudi Arabia. This was followed by a close alliance between Saudi Arabia and the Nasser government, which was maintained until these two countries split over the Eisenhower doctrine against Communism.

Some British sources suggest the present rebellion was incited by Egyptian sources.

The Imam's representative in Cairo, Mohamed el Harsy, claimed that his forces had gained control of Nizwa, Oman's ancient capital. It lies in a mountainous area about 100 miles southwest of Muscat that is almost inaccessible to modern ground forces.

NEW YORK CENTRAL SHARE IN RAIL LINE OWNERSHIP OK'D

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 22—Permission for the New York Central Railroad to share equally with 10 other railroads in ownership of the Illinois-Missouri Terminal Railway Co. was given by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

The purchase by the other lines was approved in April 1956, but action on the New York Central application was postponed because of litigation on whether Alleghany Corp., which controls the NYC, was subject to the ICC or the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Last April the United States Supreme Court held that Alleghany was under ICC jurisdiction and thereby opened the way for the railroad's request to take part in the Terminal purchase.

LAW'S DEMANDS TOO COSTLY, ROOMING HOUSE OWNERS SAY

Members of the St. Louis Rooming House Owners Association have found that it would cost from $1700 to $5000 per unit to make changes necessary to comply with a new regulatory city ordinance, it was reported at a meeting yesterday.

The meting, at 4141 Forest Park avenue, was attended by more than 700 persons, including several members of the Board of Aldermen.

Most of the owners who figured the cost of changes in their property said they could not afford it, and many were reported to have said they would leave St. Louis if they could sell. The association is seeking to have the ordinance amended, with less strinient requirements.

KILLER SAM CARENZA'S PLEA TO VACATE SENTENCE DENIED

Sam Carenza, who is serving a life sentence in the Missouri Penitentiary for the 1947 murder of Otto Kopp, a Manchester druggist, failed today in his effort to have the sentence vacated on the basis of new evidence and a claim that he was convicted with false testimony.

The petition was dismissed by Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller at Clayton, on motion of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Hayward, who noted that Carenza had made a similar plea, without success, in Cole county circuit court in July 1950.

Carenza was in court for today's proceeding.

KIDNAPED IN WASHINGTON, FREED HERE, NAVY MAN SAYS

Richard E. Houchins, a Navy air technician, reported to St. Louis county police today that he was kidnaped Saturday night in Washington D.C. by four men and two women who drove his automobile to a point near Lambert-St. Louis Field and released him.

Houchins, 25 years old, said he was held up as he parked his machine, a white Cadillac convertible, near a Washington restaurant. His abductors drove to St. Louis on U.S. Route 50, Houchins said, and stole a tire from an Ohio filling station at gunpoint. All four men in the party were armed, he added.

No attempt was made to take $15 from Houchin's wallet, the sailor said. He was on liberty from the Anacostia Naval Station when the reported abduction took place. The liberty ended at 7 a.m. today.

DRIVER CONVICTED OF BEING DRUNK, GIVEN 10-DAY TERM

Thomas Muncher, 2400 block of South Broadway, was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse today by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd who found him guilty of driving when intoxicated.

Muncher also received a five-day sentence, to run concurrently with the 10-day term, for careless driving. The charges grew out of an accident July 20 in which Muncher's automobile struck a car driven by Raymond Pullen of Imperial, Mo., at Broadway and Barton street.

Police testified Muncher was drunk. He pleaded not guilty.

CATHOLIC CHURCH TO IGNORE SOUTH AFRICAN RACE BAR

JOHANNESBURG, July 22 (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church in South Africa said yesterday it will disregard the government's segregation law barring Negroes from churches in white areas.

A statement read from all Catholic pulpits in the country said:

"No other authority than the hierarchy has competence to decide on the admission of persons to Catholic places of worship. Catholic churches must and shall remain open to all, without regard to racial origin."

'PANTS SNATCHER' STRIKES AGAIN IN BELLEVILLE

Two Belleville residents, Robert DeBarr, 2212 West Main street, and Wesley Davis, 109 South Thirteenth street, reported yesterday their trousers had been taken from bedrooms as they slept. The thief entered through unlocked rear doors, police said.

DeBarr's trousers contained his wallet with $80. Davis lost his wallet and $17. The "pants snatchings" were the first reported in several weeks.

26 PEDESTRIANS AMONG 42 MOTOR FATALITIES HERE

Of 42 persons killed in automobile accidents in St. Louis so far this year 26 were pedestrians, nine were drivers and seven were passengers, police statistics showed today. Twelve of those killed when walking were 65 years of age or older.

The victims included only two children, both of whom were killed last week.

Thirty-three of the 51 drivers involved in fatalities were in the 25 to 44 age group, and all but two of the drivers were men.

APPEALS COURT SAYS COSTELLO MUST BE TRIED

NEW YORK, July 22 (UP)—The United States Court of Appeals ruled today that gambler Frank Costello must stand trial on a Government action seeking his denaturalization and deportation from this country.

The appellate court acted on an appeal by the Government after a federal district judge last September dismissed the charges against Costello on the ground that evidence against him was obtained by illegal wiretaps.

The Government sought to strip Costello of his American citizenship on the contention that when it was granted in May 1925, he denied violations of the national prohibition law.

The Government also alleged that Costello failed to pay federal and state income taxes, had conspired to bribe Coast Guard and prohibition agents and had concealed the fact that he was convicted in 1915 on charges of carrying a concealed weapon.

When the charges against Costello were brought before District Judge Edmund L. Palmieri last September, he granted a motion for dismissal by the defendant's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, after evidence was presented purporting to show the Government's case was "tainted" with wiretapping.

Palmieri denied a motion for an adjournment by the Government which said it could prepare evidence to show there had been no wiretaps in 1925 and 1926.

The appeals court held today the Government should have been permitted to file a new affidavit, rather than have its case dismissed.

"We think the judge should have made some test of the Government's ability to meet its burden of proof with untainted evidence," the ruling said.

TVA Nominee

other things, might unshackle rural electric systems.

Gov. George Docking, a Democrat, was elected last November after a bitter G.O.P. primary. He was the first governor of his party in 19 years.

One of his administration's first moves was an investigation of the Corporation Commission. The initial phase, just completed, disclosed $350,000 in fees it paid special attorneys in 10 years' time.

Of Jones's appointment by the President, Docking said:

"This is part of another effort by the Administration to channel all the profits from experiments paid for by the people into the hands of a few large corporations. It is an ominous sign."

Much of the statewide support for Docking last November came from farmer and consumer groups aroused by traditional Corporation Commission practices.

The three-man agency, in addition to powers normally assigned a state utility regulating body, has full powers over Kansas's giant oil and gas industry. Also it regulates the sale of all corporate securities in Kansas and administers state blue sky laws.

Kansas's 37 rural electric co-operatives will be given a hearing in September on their complaint against a commission regulatory policy called the "dual certificate policy," which exists in Kansas alone among the 48 states. They charge this policy permits the power companies to raid their customers, hinder their growth and force high rates.

It was adopted in the form of a series of restrictive regulations, the first of which became effective two years before Jones joined the commission.

The restrictions gradually were broadened under Jones and associates until co-operatives were left with the right only to serve farmers of the state living inside territories assigned the rural systems.

Under Jones, the commission forbade the co-operatives to serve any industry, large or small. It also instituted a county-by-county prohibition against service by the co-operatives to the rapidly developing oil fields.

'Life, Death Battle.'

Perry Miller, manager of Kansas Electric Co-operatives, Inc., statewide association of rural power systems, said:

"This policy has cut so deep we are now in a life and death battle to abolish it or be destroyed."

Miller said that in all other states, except Indiana where a less restrictive form of the Kansas policy now is inoperative because of court injunction, the co-operatives have a right to serve all classes of consumers."

Gordon Lowery, general counsel for the co-operative associations, added: "In Tennessee and other states the co-operatives are able to serve farmers at lower rates because of the extra volume of business they get from industry and commerce.

"In Kansas private power companies can take our industrial and commercial consumers at will, because of the commission rule," he said.

Lowery said the six big Kansas power companies all have territories alloted them that are coextensive with the territories of all co-ops in their area.

"They can serve the commercial and industrial load from the beginning, if they want to, or leave them to us for a few years," he continued. "Then at any time these consumers are sufficiently profitable, the private companies can extend their lines and take them away from us."

Publishing Executive Dies.

NEW YORK, July 22 (UP)—Jack Goodman, vice president of Simon & Schuster, Inc., died last night. Mr. Goodman joined the company 25 years ago and was the firm's executive editor when he died. He was 47 years old.

BISHOP CLOSES CHURCH IN ROW OVER MELISH

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—An Episcopal bishop ordered the closing of a feud-ridden Brooklyn church yesterday to prevent its "being used as a battleground."

Bishop James P. DeWolfe called for the closing of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity until the courts settle a bitter dispute within the congregation.

The church has been divided over the alleged pro-Communist activities of the Rev. William Howard Melish, its former rector. He has denied any Communist link.

The closing of the 116-year-old church "until further notice" was announced at the 11 a.m. service by the present rector, the Rev. Dr. Herman S. Sidener. A court order recently removed the Rev. Mr. Melish from the pulpit and upheld Dr. Sidener as rector. The ousted cleric is appealing the decision.

At Dr. Sidener's first service July 7 pro- and anti-Melish church members contested over collection plates. At a "coffee hour" in the parish house that followed the July 14 service, Dr. Sidener was reported knocked to the floor by a pro-Melish member.

FTC CHARGES DRUG CONCERN MISREPRESENTS MEDICINE

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP)—The Federal Trade Commission yesterday charged Wolverine Laboratories, Inc., of Detroit, with misrepresentaing that Alpha tablets are effective in treating arthritis and rheumatism.

The commission complaint charged the product is not a new drug, as claimed by the company's advertising. Nor it said, is the medicine an adequate, effective or reliable treatment for all kinds of arthritis, rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia.

At most, the FTC said, the tablets will give only "temporary relief from minor pain," It also branded as "untrue," a company claim that the alfalfa in the product is of value in treating these ills. The company was granted 30 days in which to answer the complaint.

$42,000,000 Profit.

The GAO audit stated that General Motors made a profit on costs of 19.9 per cent, and an over-all profit of 12.65 per cent, or $42,000,000.

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, in a letter accompanying the audit report, stated: "This report shows that the contractor realized a profit of $17,459,200 in excess of the profit contemplated in price-redetermination negotiations, and that this additional profit resulted in part from inadequate analysis and evaluation by the Air Force for the contractor's pricing proposals."

The Comptroller General said the audit disclosed over estimates of $8,322,000 on prices quoted the Government but "which were not considered in the negotiations."

"After completion of contract performances," Campbell said, "the Air Force requested, on at least three occasions, General Motors Corp. to consider making a voluntary refund on this contract, but the contractor declined to make any refund or otherwise adjust contract prices."

The Comptroller General said further information on the contract is being sought from the Air Force, and that "there is serious question as to the legal validity of the negotiated prices."

FOUR KILLED IN COLLISION

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Herman of Plainview, Minn., Harry J. Wedge of Plainview and Andrew G. Smerud of Rochester.

The Highway Patrol said Smerud was alone in one vehicle and the other victims were riding in a car driven by Herman.

RUSSIA'S ATOM PROGRESS LAGS, AEC MAN SAYS

CLEVELAND, July 22 (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission official said today the Russians are way behind schedule in their efforts to generate electricity from atomic energy.

W. Kenneth Davis said the Russians had been "naive about their proposed program" for power generation, and that the program is lagging. He added: "It seems likely that during the past year the Russians have come face to face with the real difficulties of their announced program and have had to revise its size downwards, extend its schedule, and even drop some of the proposed types of reactors."

He said the Russian power program "looks more and more like the United States program."

Davis, director of the AEC's division of reactor development, made the remarks in a speech at the midwest regional conference of the Council of State Governments.

Doubts Justified.

"Only a year ago," Davis said, "much was being made of the announced plans of the U.S.S.R. to have 2 to 2½ million nuclear electrical kilowatts of capacity in operation by 1960. The commission, and particularly Chairman Strauss, was criticized for expressing doubt that such a program could and would be accomplished by the Soviets.

"Recently we have received confirmation that our doubts of a year ago were quite justified. . . . it now appears that the Russians are lagging in technology and may hope to obtain guidance through United States advances which, of course, are available throughout the world."

Davis recalled that the Russians claimed they would have the world's first full-scale nuclear power plant in operation by August 1956.

"This station is apparently not a complete figment of the imagination," Davis added, "but still appears in the U.S.S.R. plans — with completion not promised now even by 1960!"

"What is the source of these drastic reductions in the scope of the nuclear power program in the sixth five year plan?" Davis asked.

Formidable Difficulties.

"There seems to be good reason to believe that these changes arose because in 1956 the Russians had not gotten far enough into their program to even realize what the difficulties in development and manufacture really would be. In other words they were naive about their proposed program. . . .

"The Russians must be finding that there are very formidable technical difficulties in building even the simplest of nuclear power plants—that it is not sufficient to announce plans or to make simple flow diagrams of power reactors."

Davis estimated the nuclear power industry in the United States would have "about 1,000,000 kilowatts of nuclear power stations in operation five years from now, about 7,500,000 in 10 years, 43,000,000 in 15 years, and 133,000,000 in 20 years—about the same capacity as the total electric generating capacity in the United States at the present time.

"However, by that time, 1977, the nuclear capacity will still be about one quarter of the total electric generating capacity."

WELDON SPRING URANIUM PLANT STRIKE CONTINUES

A strike of 150 employes of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Works new uranium plant at Weldon Spring in St. Charles county, continued today with picketing. It began last Thursday.

The company's two St. Louis plants, which have about 1100 employes, were operating as usual following a stoppage that occurred Friday when picket lines were set up by the Independent Union of Chemical Plant Workers.

A union spokesman said today the pickets were withdrawn from the city plants in the hope that the Weldon Spring dispute over wages can be settled at a meeting of negotiators scheduled for tomorrow.

The Weldon Spring plant has not yet been put into full operation. The dispute is over wages.

SHOT BY SON, PARALYZED, GIVES BIRTH TO BOY

CHICAGO, July 22 (UP)—A policeman's wife, paralyzed when she was shot by her 3-year-old son, gave birth to a healthy boy and then underwent a two-hour operation for removal of the bullet. Mrs. Patricia O'Connor, 30 years old, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today.

Mrs. O'Connor was paralyzed in both legs and her left arm and partly paralyzed in her right arm in the shooting Saturday night.

Mrs. O'Connor, her husband, Joseph, 30, and their two children, Brian and Beth, 2, were riding when O'Connor stopped for a newspaper. His service revolver fell from a coat pocket onto the car seat and Brian picked it up, aimed and fired. The bullet entered his mother's left shoulder and lodged in her spine. Doctors said they did not know yet if removal of the bullet would end the paralysis.

EARL GIVES UP COMMONER

LONDON, July 22 (UP) — Family pressure has forced a cousin of Queen Elizabeth to give up the commoner he loves, the Sunday Pictorial said.

CANOPY FALLS FROM PLANE

PHILADELPHIA, July 22 (AP) — A metal and plastic plane canopy from a Pennsylvania Air National Guard jet interceptor plane fell into a residential neighborhood in suburban Havertown yesterday.

The canopy narrowly missed several homes and was buried in a mound of dirt in the midst of a new housing development. It landed about 50 feet from the nearest dwelling.

VINSON REJECTS MARINE TRAINING INQUIRY DEMAND

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP)—Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem.), Georgia, of the House Armed Services Committee said today he has rejected a demand for a congressional investigation of new charges of brutality at the Parris Island (S.C.) Marine training base.

Vinson said he is convinced the Marines are taking action to "completely eradicate" abuses previously disclosed at Parris Island.

The American Civil Liberties Union charged last night there was "widespread" brutality at the base from Jan. 1 to May 1, 1956. It called on the House and Senate Armed Services Committees to investigate. All instances cited were prior to the highly-publicized "death march" of April 6, 1956, in which six Marine recruits drowned.

Request Turned Down.

Vinson turned down the request in a letter to Ernest Angell, chairman of the ACLU's board of directors, which Vinson made public today.

"I do not condone acts of brutality or acts which are degrading to the individual within our military services," Vinson wrote.

"There can be no question but that abuses of this nature existed in the Marine Corps training procedures prior to and at the time of the Parris Island incident. But I cannot agree that this situation remains unimproved."

Vinson said he believes Gen. Randolph McM. Pate, Marine commandant, "is continuing to take appropriate remedial action to completely eradicate from the Marine Corps training such abuses."

He said such misconduct "did not develop overnight" and "by the same token you could hardly expect to eradicate it overnight." However, he said, he believes "substantial and timely progress" is being made.

Not In the Public Interest.

"In the absence of persuasive evidence to the contrary I must conclude that the reopening of this subject by way of congressional investigation at this time is not in the public interest," Vinson said.

© New York Times News Service.

858 Men Questioned.

The statements from former Marines were made in replies to questionnaires sent to all 858 male Marines discharged at Parris Island between Jan. 1 and May 1, 1956.

The questionnaires were sent and replies received by Mrs. Alma Coughlin of Alexandria, Va., the mother of Jerry L. Thomas, one of the six Marines recruits drowned at Parris Island on April 8, 1956, in the "death march" ordered by former Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon.

A spokesman for the Civil Liberties Union here said the organization had collabortaed with Mrs. Coughlin. Replies from those discharged under other than honorable conditions had been disregarded, he said.

The report said that a statistical breakdown of the 124 replies showed that:

Recruits Struck With Fists.

Eighty-four per cent saw recruits struck with fists.

Eighty-five per cent saw recruits kicked.

Eighty-four per cent saw recruits struck with swagger sticks.

Altogether, the report said, 85 per cent of the former Marines swore that incidents such as those cited were daily occurrences they witnessed while stationed at the base.

JUSTICE WARREN SUGGESTED AS '60 DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Representative Frank Thompson (Dem.), New Jersey proposed yesterday that the Democrats nominate Chief Justice Earl Warren as their 1960 presidential candidate. He said Warren is "as much a Democrat as he is a Republican."

Thompson said a ticket composed of Warren and either Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey or Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts "would symbolize the very best of American ideals and, from the practical standpoint, it would be unbeatable."

In a newsletter to his constituents, Thompson said Warren, three-time Republican of California, has led the Supreme Court "back to the road of constitutional liberalism reminiscent of F.D.R.'s days."

Thompson said men are often judged by the sort of friends and enemies they have. "Warren is well qualified by either method," he said, and declared that "to those who would deny American citizens their civil liberties and civil right, Warren has become an anathema."

MESSAGE ON POLISH HOLIDAY

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP)—President Eisenhower today sent good wishes to the people of Poland on their national holiday.

In a brief message addressed to Aleksander Zawadzki, president of the Polish Council of State, Mr. Eisenhower said, "On the occasion of the official holiday of Poland, I am ahappy to convey my personal greetings to Your Excellency and to extend to the people of Poland the very good wishes of the people of the United States.

15 AMERICANS LEAVE FOR SOVIET YOUTH FESTIVAL

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Fifteen students, teachers and musicians left by plane last night en route to Moscow, to attend a Soviet youth festival July 28 to Aug. 11. The State Department has called the festival "an instrument of Communist propaganda."

Barbara Perry, 22-year-old secretary of the United States Youth Festival Committee, which organized the tour, said she was not a Communist. "I voted for Eisenhower in the last election," she said.

The group departed after defection of one member, 16-year-old San Francisco pianist Maureen Lundroth.

Miss Lundroth said, "I made my decision when I found out all about the festival." Her mother had telephoned her not to go after reading the State Department's comment.

A party of 400 French young people going to the festival sailtd from Le Havre yesterday. A surprise late addition to the party was Maurice Thorez, secretary general of the French Communist party.

8 YOUTHS KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS CAR

SOMERSET, Ky., July 22 (AP)—A day of pleasure riding in a rattletrap car ended in death on a railroad crossing for five boys and three girls yesterday.

The boys, ranging in age from 12 to 17, had been riding around in the 1941-model car all day.

Wrestling for Wheel.

The dead were Charles Allen, 13, his two sisters, Frances, 14, and Josephine, 15; Betty Bray, 15; James Richards, 16. James Calhoun, 12; Charles Simmons, 16; and Ronald Davis, 17. All were from Somerset.

The nation's worst recorded car-train crash occurred in Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 17, 1956, when 12 persons were killed.

Sheriff Gilmore Phelps quoted 15-year-old Donald Hawk as saying he had been riding with the other youngsters, but became frightened when some of the boys began wrestling to see who would drive.

Phelps said witnesses told him the car approached the crossing at about 35 miles an hour with a flat tire and a broken tie rod.

Car Bursts Into Flames.

The car, dragged nearly half a mile by the train, burst into flames. Five of the youths were pinned inside. Three were thrown clear.

Coroner Kenneth Gibbs said the train's crewmen told him the freight was doing about 50 miles an hour when it hit the car.

Phelps said officers who arrived at the scene immediately after the crash found the red warning lights on the crossing still flashing.

The boys had gone swimming earlier in the day and spent several hours "just driving around," Phelps said.

The three girls had been picked up after a church meeting just before the accident.

ST. LOUISAN DROWNS IN JEFFERSON COUNTY

Fred D. Elders, 20-year-old automobile plant worker, drowned yesterday when he and his bride of two weeks stepped into deep water when wading in a pond on the farm of J. B. Horn, a relative, near House Springs, Jefferson county.

The bride, Norma June, 17, was rescued by her brother, Melvin P. Minks, 2848 Salena street, who was nearby.

Police said the pair, who lived at 3001 McNair avenue, had been walking in shallow water toward a raft before the tragedy. Neither was able to swim, but Elders struggled to assist his wife until Minks could reach the scene. The water was about 12 feet deep.

Elders's body was recovered a short time later. A verdict of accidental drowning was entered by Dr. James Rehm, Jefferson county coroner.

Elders is survived also by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Elders, 1829 Sidney street, five brothers and two sisters.

The body of Earl E. Smith, 520 South Charles street, Belleville, was recovered today from the Kaskaskia river near Baldwin, Randolph county, Illinois, where he drowned Saturday after falling into the stream from a motorboat.

Smith, 21 years old, was to have appeared in Circuit Judge Quentin Spivey's court at Belleville today for sentencing following his plea of guilty last July 8, along with three companions, to burglary and larceny charges.

Smith, at liberty on bond, had been staying at the Kaskaskia river clubhouse of a brother-in-law, John Ahlers of Belleville.

Ahlers told police he last saw Smith when the two conversed briefly from separate boats. A few moments later Ahlers said he looked toward Smith's boat from some distance and saw it was empty. Other witnesses said Smith apparently fell out when trying to start the motor. He started to swim to shore but was dragged under by the swift current, witnesses reported.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith of the Charles street address, and 11 brothers and sisters.

TRAIN HITS CAR IN INDIANA, EAST ALTON MAN KILLED

Edward S. Seimer of East Alton was killed yesterday when a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train struck his skidding automobile and carried it more than 800 feet at Peru, Ind.

A passenger in the machine, Arthur Hoover of Denver, Ind., was seriously injured. Frank Morten, engineer, said Seimer applied his brakes in an attempt to stop as the car skidded more than 100 feet.

Seimer, 55 years old, was a machinist and had been employed at a chemical plant in Peru.

Reds Fire on Quemoy.

TAIPEI, Formosa, July 22 (AP)—Communist guns on Tateng island fired 84 shells at Quemoy in a 10-minute bombardment yesterday. The Nationalist Defense Ministry reported no damage or casualties. It did not say whether the Nationalists retaliated.

Civil Defense Agency Assailed As Negligent About Fallout

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP)—A House committee accused the Government today of gross negligence for failing to provide safeguards against deadly radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons.

It called for construction of a multi-billion-dollar shelter system to protect most of the population against blast, heat and radiation from any nuclear attack.

In a report to the House the Government Operations Committee said it had testimony that such a system could be built and equipped for 20 billion dollars.

It said building highways needed to evacuate big cities—in accordance with official Government policies which the committee said won't work — alone would cost more than that.

10 Republicans Dissent.

Ten of the 13 Republicans on the committee dissented from the shelter recommendation on the ground further study is needed. In a separate report the minority said, "There is no benefit in taking steps simply for the sake of taking steps and then possibly find that we have wasted our substance in a Maginot line type of false security."

The committee majority approved the report of a subcommittee which held hearings on fallout, evacuation, shelter construction and other civil defense problems last year and this.

The subcommittee said there was "overwhelming evidence" that development of super-hydrogen bombs, with their vast fallout spread, had rendered obsolete the Federal Civil Defense Administration's plans to evacuate big cities and target areas under threat of atomic attack.

Although the first super-H-bomb was exploded at Bikini in March 1954, the report said the Federal Civil Defense Administration as late as January 1956, was insisting evacuation was the only answer to giant-size atomic weapons.

Officially the plan still has not been abandoned although Val Peterson, who recently resigned as Civil Defense director, told the subcommittee at hearings this year he had recommended a shelter construction program to the White House.

FCDA Called Negligent.

"The subcommittee believes that the FCDA has been grossly negligent at the possible expense of our national security if it is only now taking in consideration the hazards of radioactive fallout," the report said.

Without specifically indorsing a particular shelter plan, the committee cited a proposal by experts of the Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory to build shelters of varying strength and protective value. These would be available to most persons both in and outside big cities and target areas.

In remote areas protection would be afforded only against fallout, which witnesses said might blanket the country in a mass atomic assault. They said people might have to stay in such shelters for days after an attack.

For those in more densely populated areas shelters against both fallout and fire-storm would be built. In the most heavily populated areas, where direct hits might be expected, heavy underground shelters would be provided against blast, heat and radiation.

E. ST. LOUIS CAFE HELD UP

Watt's Grill, 2434 State street, East St. Louis, was robbed of $38 yesterday by a well-dressed man who walked behind the counter and threatened to shoot the attendant, Mrs. Evelyn Barry. He did not display a weapon.

The restaurant has been robbed three times in the last month, police said.

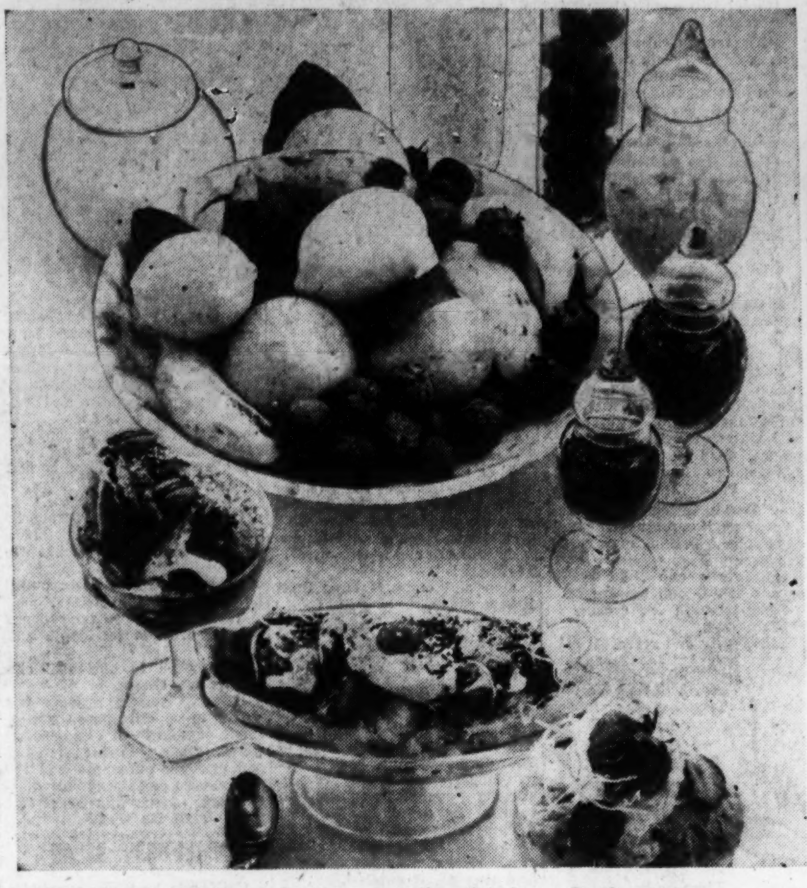
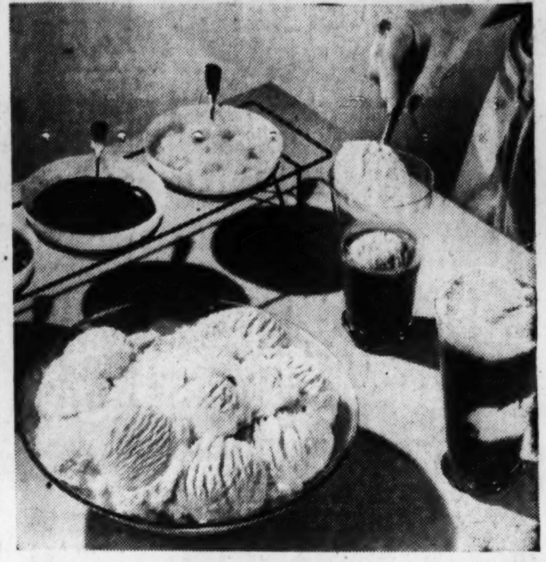
It's Fun to Make Your Own Ice Cream Sodas, Sundaes at Home

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.





"WHAT kind will you have?" has been a familiar phrase at soda fountains for years, with Americans all across the land happily making their choices of sodas and sundaes. But within the past few years these words have become a household phrase, too. With a home freezer in so many homes, most families keep a supply of favorite flavors of ice cream on hand at all times. And adults and youngsters have found that it's fun to make their own delectable concoctions.

Given a supply of ingredients and a good imagination, almost anyone will discover he possesses a bit of inventive genius. Super-sundaes and tall-fellow sodas to suit the fancy of the moment can be put together in a jiffy; a competitive spirit usually develops among the members of the family to see who can come up with the most impressive "spectacular."

With America on a great ice cream binge, it's well to think a moment about storing the frozen delicacy at home. If you have only an ice cube tray for storage, remove the ice cream or sherbet from the carton and place in an ice cube tray, cover closely with foil and turn the temperature control as low as possible.

The ideal way to store ice cream at home is, of course, in a freezer at a temperature of 0 degrees or below. Fruit ice cream and high butter fat ice cream should be stored at two or five degrees below zero, if possible.

When serving the half-gallon cylinder-shaped cartons, dip the ice cream across the surface uniformly but not deep in spots; smooth off the surface and cover with aluminum foil pressed against the ice cream to prevent air contact, which produces a waxy surface.

For rectangular-shaped half-gallons, cut through the carton to obtain the desired amount, then cover the surface of the ice cream with foil and place the carton, cut side down (preferably on the bottom of the freezer) to make a close protective covering.

Don't expect even the best freezer to keep original, top quality of ice cream over 30 days, so it is wise to date packages to be sure you use first purchases before you begin on more recent ones.

Chances are you will want to work out your own flavor combinations for sundaes, but here are some well worth trying.

Rainbow Sundae.

Three pints vanilla ice cream.

Red, orange and green food coloring.

Raspberry sauce.

Spoon ice cream into three bowls. Allow to soften. Tint ice cream in one bowl pink, second bowl orange and third bowl green, using food coloring. (Or tint to match table decorations for a party).

Top with colorful

Raspberry Sauce:

Three-fourths cup water.

Two cups fresh raspberries, mashed.

Three-fourths cup sugar.

One and one-half teaspoons cornstarch.

One tablespoon cold water.

Bring water to a boil. Add raspberries and sugar. Mix thoroughly. Dissolve cornstarch in one tablespoon water. Add to mixture. Cook for about 10 minutes, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and fruit blends completely. Chill and serve.

Hawaiian Sundae.

Two pints vanilla ice cream.

One can pineapple pieces (approximately nine ounces).

One can crushed pineapple (approximately nine ounces).

Form ice cream into six balls. Roll each ball in coconut. Place ice cream balls on flat sherbet dishes. Arrange pineapple pieces around ice cream balls. Serve with crushed pineapple and top with maraschino cherries.

Pretty Peach Melba.

One cup water.

One cup mashed bananas.

One cup mashed fresh raspberries.

Three-fourths cup sugar.

One and one-half teaspoons cornstarch.

One tablespoon cold water.

Eight peach halves.

One quart vanilla ice cream.

Bring one cup water to a boil. Add bananas, raspberries and sugar. Mix thoroughly. Dissolve cornstarch in one tablespoon water. Add to first mixture. Cook for about 10 minutes, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and fruit blends completely. Cool.

Place one peach half, cut side up, in a sherbet dish. Fill with ice cream. Pour sauce over peach and ice cream.

Prefer a Soda?

There are only a few simple steps to follow for professional results when making an ice cream soda at home. First you need tall glasses, straws and long-handled spoons. Then you need chilled sparkling water or carbonated beverages, a variety of flavors and fruits and plenty of ice cream.

To make an ice cream soda that is as bubbly and frothy as the best, just be sure that the bottled soft drink is well chilled and freshly opened (the small-sized bottle of carbonated beverage is ideal for this reason).

The procedure is very simple. Into a tall soda glass first put crushed fresh or frozen fruit or sirup, stir into this a spoon of ice cream, whipped cream or one-half cup light cream. Fill the glass three-fourths full with chilled carbonated beverage, then float into the carbonated mixture two dippers or two full tablespoons of ice cream and more carbonated beverage to fill to the top.

Here are a few tried-and-true

DRAMATIC FROZEN DESSERTS TO SERVE WITH A FLOURISH

There are certain times when nothing will quite take the place of a dramatic dessert—one that is frankly "showy" and intended as a conversation piece.

Often these attention-getters actually are quite simple to prepare, but they make an impressive appearance and need to be served with a flair.

Just such a dessert is Chocolate Mint Angel Pie. Peppermint and chocolate are a happy flavor twosome; it's appropriate that a pie in which they are united should be called by a heavenly name.

Chocolate Mint Angel Pie.

Three egg whites.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

One-half cup sugar.

One-fourth cup crushed peppermint stick candy.

Two tablespoons crushed peppermint stick candy.

One quart chocolate ice cream.

Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Add sugar two tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in the one-fourth cup crushed peppermint candy. Spread in a well greased nine-inch pie plate, building the sides up well. Sprinkle the two tablespoons of candy over the top and bake in a preheated 275 degree oven for one hour.

Remove from oven and cool. When ready to serve, fill with scoops of chocolate ice cream and cut into wedges.

An ice cream dessert that is sure to be greeted with admiring exclamations is the type that is baked in the oven; it always seems to amaze everyone.

Brownie Alaska.

Brownie Cake:

Three-fourths cup sifted flour.

One-half teaspoon double-acting baking powder.

One-half teaspoon salt.

One cup chopped pecans.

One-third cup shortening.

One cup sugar.

Four eggs, separated.

One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Two one-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.

One-fourth cup water.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add nuts and stir. Cream together the shortening and sugar. Add egg yolks, vanilla, chocolate and water. Beat well. Stir in flour-pecan mixture.

Pour into seven by 11-inch pan lined with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 25 minutes. (Do not overbake). Allow to

THIS MENU BASED UPON GOOD BUYS

By CATHERINE BRENT
Home Economist, St. Louis Food Marketing Service.

The following menu has been prepared based upon foods which are plentiful in St. Louis markets at the present time. It is an example of the way in which "best buys" may be used in our daily meals.

MENU OF THE WEEK
Corn-Chicken Casserole*
Broiled Tomato Halves
Julienne Snap Beans
Iced Tea — Milk
Fresh Sliced Peaches With Scoop of Ice Cream

Corn-Chicken Casserole.

Because this recipe is so delicious made with our home-grown corn, we are printing a quantity recipe which will prepare enough to serve immediately and also freeze for other meals. This recipe may be cut in half or thirds without changing the product.

25 Portions, Two-thirds Cup Each

One cup butter or margarine.

Two and one-fourth cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Two tablespoons finely chopped onion.

One and three-fourths quarts chopped cooked chicken.

One and one-half quarts cooked whole-kernel corn.

Three-fourths cup chopped pimento.

Melt the butter or margarine, blend in the flour, and stir in the broth. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper and grated onion. Blend well. Combine sauce, chicken, corn, cheese and pimento.

To Serve Immediately. Place enough of the mixture for one meal in a greased casserole, top with dry bread crumbs mixed with butter or margarine and bake uncovered at 350 degrees (moderate oven) about 20 minutes, or until the crumbs are golden brown.

To Freeze. Cool the food quickly. Pack in freezer containers, leaving one-half inch head space. Seal and freeze immediately.

To Prepare For Serving. If food is frozen in an ovenproof container, uncover and top with dry bread crumbs mixed with butter or margarine.

If the food is transferred to a baking dish for reheating, add the crumb topping after about 30 minutes baking or when the food has thawed enough to press into shape of the baking dish. Bake at 400 degrees (hot oven) about one hour for pints, one hour and forty-five minutes for quarts, or until food is heated through and crumbs are golden brown.

LOW-CALORIE SHAKE

Milk shakes need not be loaded with calories. To make a cool, refreshing shake, freeze skim milk until icy in refrigerator tray. Combine with equal measure of apricot whole fruit nectar, and whiz it up on the electric blender.

Add a bit of sugar and lemon juice if desired.

Frosty Lemonade Ice

Light and cool is this frosty new Lemonade Ice, accented with just a hint of rum flavoring. This ice can be made easily in your refrigerator, since it is a water-type ice and need not have the smooth texture of ice cream. Pile it high in parfait or sherbet glasses and top each with a maraschino cherry. To Make: Combine two-thirds cup sugar and three cups water in a saucepan and bring to boiling point; simmer five minutes, remove from heat. Stir in one six-ounce can frozen concentrate for lemonade. Cool mixture to lukewarm; add one teaspoon rum extract. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze until mushy, then stir thoroughly. Stir once again during freezing process. Freeze until firm. Yield: four servings.

SUNSET ICE CREAM COMBINES FRUITS IN LEMON CUSTARD

Cooler than a trade wind through Hawaiian palms is this smooth summer dessert. "Sunset Ice Cream" is a tart lemon custard frozen with crushed pineapple and raisins. Use either light or dark raisins in this recipe.

Sunset Ice Cream.

One-half cup light or dark raisins.

Two eggs.

One-third cup sugar.

One-half teaspoon grated lemon rind.

One cup crushed pineapple.

Pour boiling water over raisins, let stand five minutes, drain and chop very fine or grind. Cool.

Mix egg yolks, sugar, lemon rind and juice. Cook over boiling water just until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly to keep it smooth; chill.

Pour into refrigerator tray, place in freezing compartment, with control set at lowest temperature, and freeze until firm. Stir two or three times during freezing process. Reset temperature control ot normal. Yield: Six servings.

FROZEN STEW

Doubling a recipe when preparing beef stew is time and money saving for any homemaker.

When serving stew which has been frozen, it is well to reheat the stew very slowly in the oven, on top of the range.

Have Games on Hand.

If you want to be sure never to have a dull moment at your backyard parties, invest in equipment for some of the out-of-door games such as archery, badminton, volleyball or that old favorite—horseshoes.

FRESH LEMON BARBECUE SAUCE FOR POULTRY, MEATS

It's the sauce that gives the flavorful touch to barbecued meats or chicken. Here is another one to add to your repertoire; it also may be used as a marinade for meats.

Fresh Lemon Barbecue Sauce.

One clove garlic minced.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine and salad oil.

Two tablespoons brown sugar.

One teaspoon salt.

One tablespoon celery salt.

One-half teaspoon cayenne pepper.

One-half teaspoon powdered dry mustard.

One-third cup fresh lemon juice.

Two tablespoons cider vinegar.

One tablespoon horseradish sauce.

One cup water.

Saute onions and garlic in butter or bargarine and oil until onions are transparent.

Add sugar, salt and spices. Mix well. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes.

BROILED ORANGE SLICES

Cut two fresh oranges into one-fourth-inch slices. Place in a shallow baking dish and sprinkle with a mixture of two tablespoons melted butter or margarine and one-half teaspoon pure vanilla extract.

Broil until lightly brown. Yield: 4 servings.

FRUITED ICE RING

Desserts

Meringue Topping:

Four egg whites.

Six tablespoons powdered sugar, sifted.

Beat egg whites until they stand in peaks when beater is raised. Add powdered sugar gradually. Continue beating until meringue is very stiff.

To Assemble at Serving Time: Place Brownie Cake on foil-covered cutting board. Cover with one quart peppermint stick ice cream, firmly frozen, bringing it to within one-inch of the edge of Brownie Cake. Entirely cover the ice cream with meringue. Seal the sides of the cake with the meringue.

Place Alaska in a hot oven (450 degrees). Bake about four minutes, or until meringue is a golden brown. Cut into squares and serve immediately.

FROSTY VANILLA ORANGE MOLD

One package vanilla dessert (freezing mix).

One and three-fourths cups light cream.

One package orange sherbet (freezing mix).

One cup water.

One cup milk.

One tablespoon orange curacoa, optional.

VANILLA: Prepare the vanilla dessert (freezing mix) according to package directions for making rich ice cream. After second whip, pour into refrigerator and partially freeze until just hard enough to line mold. Orange curacoa, if used, should be folded in after the second whip.

ORANGE: Prepare the orange sherbet according to package directions. Return to refrigerator tray and store in freezing compartment to keep chilled.

CHILL MOLD: Cover inside of mold with frozen vanilla ice cream dessert making a layer approximately one inch thick. Fill center with orange sherbet to within one inch of top. Cover with vanilla dessert.

Set in freezing compartment or home freezer two to three hours until completely frozen. Unmold and serve with

Orange-Wine Sauce:

One tablespoon cornstarch.

One-half cup sugar.

Dash salt.

One-half cup white port, muscatel or other dessert wine.

One-half cup orange juice.

Two teaspoons grated lemon rind.

One tablespoon lemon juice.

One cup diced fresh orange segments, well drained.

Combine cornstarch, sugar and salt in a saucepan; gradually add wine and orange juice, stirring until mixture is perfectly smooth. Add lemon peel. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture boils, thickens and becomes clear. Remove from heat. Add lemon juice and orange segments. Cool, then chill before serving. Yield: approximately two cups sauce.

Strawberry Soda.

Two tablespoons frozen strawberries (defrosted).

Two tablespoons ice cream or light cream.

Carbonated water.

One or two scoops strawberry ice cream.

Pour fruit sirup, then light cream or ice cream into a glass and stir to mix. Fill glass three-fourths full with chilled carbonated beverage, add ice cream, then more carbonated beverage to fill to the top.

Raspberry Soda.

Two tablespoons frozen raspberries.

Two tablespoons ice cream or light cream.

Plain soda or fruit-flavor carbonated drink.

One or two scoops raspberry ice cream.

Pour fruit sirup, then ice cream or light cream into a glass and stir to mix. Fill glass three-fourths full with chilled carbonated beverage, add ice cream, then more carbonated beverage to fill to the top.

Peach Cream Soda.

One-fourth cup crushed sweetened ripe, frozen or canned peaches.

Plum Soda.

Three tablespoons plum sirup (from canned plums).

Two tablespoons light cream or ice cream.

One or two scoops vanilla ice cream.

Pour fruit sirup, then light cream or ice cream into a glass and stir to mix. Fill glass three-fourths full with chilled carbonated beverage, add ice cream, then more carbonated beverage to fill to the top.

Black and White Soda.

Three tablespoons chocolate sirup.

One spoonful ice cream.

One or two scoops vanilla ice cream.

Pour sirup into glass, then add a spoonful of ice cream and blend into sirup. Slowly fill glass three-fourths full with chilled carbonated beverage, add ice cream. If glass is not full add more carbonated beverage to fill to the top.

SOMETHING HOT, SOMETHING COLD FOR SUMMER MEAL

Something hot and satisfying, something cold and refreshing . . . that's what it takes for a perfect summer supper. For the "something hot" there are piping hot individual meat pies, ready-to-bake from the freezer. Add the following dress-up touches to make them extra special:

Slice a few spiced peaches and arrange on top of baked turkey pies. You'll enjoy the flavor contrast, and the pies will look pretty enough for a party.

You'll wonder why you hadn't thought of this: Spread chicken pies, after they come from the oven, with whole cranberry sauce mixed with a little grated orange rind.

Coolness comes by contrast. Introduce your piping hot main course with a frosty soup. Add a cool-as-a-cucumber salad, hot bread, and an iced beverage . . . and you have hot-weather mealtime perfection.

Sardine Deviled Eggs.

Slice six hard cooked eggs lengthwise and scoop yolks into a bowl. Mash with a fork, and mix one-third cup sandwich spread or mayonnaise, two teaspoons prepared mustard, salt, pepper, and a small can of drained sardines cut into pieces. Stuff the mixture into the whites, sprinkle with paprika if desired.

SOME AMBROSIAL ICE CREAM SAUCES

It is, of course, the sauce that makes the sundae, so here are some with which to experiment at your home "soda-fountain."

Butterscotch Ice Cream Sauce.

One-fourth cup butter or margarine.

One and one-half cups light brown sugar.

Two-thirds cup corn sirup.

Four drops vinegar.

One-third cup cream.

One-fourth teaspoon vanilla.

Combine butter, brown sugar and sirup in a saucepan. Stir and cook until it forms a soft ball in cold water (235 degrees F.). Remove from heat. Stir in vinegar. Slowly add cream, stirring constantly. Stir in vanilla. Serve hot or cold.

This sauce may be kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator. Reheat over low heat before serving, if desired.

Peanut Butter Sauce.

One cup sugar.

One-half cup water.

Two-thirds cup light corn sirup.

One-half teaspoon salt.

One-fourth cup peanut butter.

Combine sugar, water, corn sirup, and salt in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook over low heat until a small amount of sirup, dropped into cold water, forms a very soft ball (220 degrees F.). Remove from heat. Cool without stirring until sirup has reached room temperature. Add peanut butter and blend until smooth.

This sauce may be kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Mocha Sauce.

One-half cup sugar.

One tablespoon cornstarch.

One-eighth teaspoon salt.

One cup regular strength coffee.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

Blend sugar, cornstarch, and salt in a saucepan. Stir in coffee and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil three minutes. Remove from heat and stir in butter.

This sauce may be kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Foamy Mint Sauce.

Two egg yolks.

One-half cup powdered sugar.

One-fourth teaspoon mint flavoring.

One-half cup whipping cream, whipped.

Beat together egg yolks, sugar and mint flavoring. Fold in whipped cream. Chill. Stir before using.

Bittersweet Hot Fudge Sauce.

Yield: One cup.

One-half cup chocolate bits.

Two one-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate.

One-half cup milk.

One-third cup sugar.

Melt chocolate bits and squares in a saucepan over low heat. Stir constantly. Do not burn. Gradually stir in milk. Stir until sauce becomes smooth and satiny. Stir in sugar. Sauce will become thicker if removed from heat five to ten minutes before serving. Serve hot over ice cream.

This sauce may be stored in a covered jar in the refrigerator and reheated by adding a teaspoon of hot water and stirring until softened.

Chocolate Ice Cream Sauce.

One-fourth cup cocoa.

Three tablespoons light corn sirup.

Three-fourths cup sugar.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

One-half cup milk.

Three tablespoons butter or margarine.

One-fourth teaspoon vanilla.

Cook cocoa, sirup, and water over low heat until well blended. Stir in sugar, salt, milk and butter. Boil gently for 10 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Cool.

This sauce may be stored in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

SUMMER MAIN COURSE THAT COOKS QUICKLY

Simple and short-cooking, sausage links wrapped in sliced ham are a nourishing hot weather main course. They require about 20 minutes cooking — time enough to prepare a vegetable, crisp salad and beverage to complete the meal. Serve a quick-mix pudding or ice cream for dessert.

Place four pork sausage links per serving in a skillet with a few tablespoons of water. Cover the pan and cook over low heat five minutes.

Wrap a thin slice of ham around two of the pre-cooked links and fasten securely with skewers or picks. Place each on roll on a peach half or pineapple slice.

Arrange on a broiler rack and broil three inches from the source of heat until the meat is browned, about 10 minutes. Serve two bundles per person.

TOURING TIP

Keep the whole family happy when auto-touring this vacation. Always carry a large thermos jug filled with chilled grapefruit juice for thirsty moments. The clean tart flavor is refreshing and the vitamin C content is vital in hot weather.

New Idea for Sodas

A brand-new way of making ice cream sodas at home is to use simple, flavorsome sirups made with fruit-flavored gelatin. Just take a tablespoon of fruit-flavored gelatin and dissolve it in two tablespoons of very hot water and the sirup is ready for "soda jerking."

Lime-Pineapple Soda.

One tablespoon lime-flavored gelatin.

Two tablespoons very hot water.

Three-fourths cup (six ounce bottle) carbonated water.

Three heaping tablespoons canned crushed pineapple and juice.

One-fourth to one-third cup vanilla ice cream.

Dissolve gelatin in very hot water in a tall glass. Add a small amount of carbonated water, mixing to blend. Then add crushed pineapple and ice cream. Add remaining carbonated water, stirring to blend and partly melt ice cream.

CALIFORNIA SALAD

California hostesses specialize in wonderful green salads. The crispest of greens, an oil and wine vinegar dressing, freshly ground pepper go into them.

Sick-a-Bed Dessert.

Custards are all too often a familiar sight on the convalescent tray. They can be a welcome sight when you bake them with a molasses topping. Just pour a tablespoon of real molasses in the bottom of the custard cup before adding the custard mixture, and bake as usual.

Label Sandwiches.

When you're wrapping sandwiches to go on a picnic, it's a big help to label them according to fillings. Or use some of the sturdy new transparent wrappings available in most department stores.

POSTAL PAY RISE BILL FORCED OUT OF COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UP)—Both backers and opponents predicted overwhelming House approval today for an Administration-fought pay rise for the 518,000 postal workers.

The pay bill, providing increases of $546 a year, was forced onto today's House calendar when a majority of members signed a petition to bring it out of the Rules Committee.

The whole House must first formally approve the discharge procedure before voting on the bill itself.

Plan Token Fight.

Administration supporters, privately agreeing with the forecast, planned to wage only a token fight against the measure and count on a presidential veto to keep it from taking effect. These forces believe a veto would be sustained since it takes a two-thirds majority to override. Some, however, think the House could override a veto.

The bill would increase the average postal worker's salary of $4340 by about 11½ per cent. All workers would get a flat $546 increase except rural carriers and fourth-class postmasters. Their boost would amount to 12 per cent with a $546 top.

The increase, costing $280,000,000 annually, would start Sept. 1 but Chairman Tom Murray (Dem.), Tennessee of the House Post Office Committee estimated the bill's total cost would rise to $317,500,000 a year by increasing "fringe benefits" based on salaries. The committee approved the bill by a wide margin last month.

Murray Against Bill.

Murray, who fought the bill, contended its approval would either force a "drastic" cut in postal services or another supplemental appropriation of $265,000,000 for the Post Office department during the current fiscal year that began July 1. Congress already has voted one $133,000,000 supplemental appropriation to meet higher postal costs.

President Eisenhower and Administration officials object to any general increase for postal or other Government workers now on grounds it would add to inflationary pressures and postpone an eventual tax reduction.

Meanwhile, the Administration's bill to boost postage rates by more than $400,000,000 is stalled in the House Rules Committee. The Post Office Committee approved the bill two months ago but has not moved to push for its clearance by the Rules Committee.

U.S. Economy Today

NO CHOOSING IN INTEREST RATE U. S. SET

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP).

THE TREASURY'S BOW TO COSTLY MONEY is building up new pressure today for another general rise in interest rates.

Sam Dawson

The money managers credit high interest rates and tight money with holding the business boom and its traveling companion, inflation, to a crawl.

Would-be borrowers, on the other hand, charge that tight credit and costly charges are causing a personalized recession for them. In some cases, they say, it is keeping them from expanding their plants or building needed schools.

Bankers who have been wanting to raise their loan charges to merchants, manufacturers and farmers see the treasury's recognition of a high going rate for money as justification.

THOSE WHO HAVE BEEN expecting the Federal Reserve banks to hike again the discount rate they charge when lending to member banks are now asking if this won't be done after the treasury clears its 24 billion dollar financing deal in the next few weeks. The treasury is offering 4 per cent interest—twice what it did two summers ago, and the highest it has paid since 1933 ushered in the era of cheap money.

That is because the treasury is anxious for the holders of the 24 billion dollars of maturing securities to exchange them for the new offerings. Apparently it fears that, if it offers any less than 4 per cent many of the present holders will ask for cash instead — they could use that cash for investments paying higher returns. This would force the treasury to go into the market again to seek "new money," and embarrassment it would rather avoid.

THE GOVERMENT BOND market has a big influence on all interest rates, and the new high price the Treasury is paying is widely expected to give the nudge to the long discussed rise in the banks' prime rate. This is the charge that the banks' best risks pay. It is now 4 per cent. Borrowers below this top credit rating—and most small businessmen are—pay higher interest. In New York banking circles they talk of raising the prime rate to 4½ per cent, now that the Government bond rate is 4 per cent. Some think that the Federal Reserve, when and if it moves, will go from the present 3 per cent discount rate to 3½ per cent. It is widely agreed that the Treasury is offering 4 per cent because it belives it must. Doubtless it would prefer to borrow at 2 per cent as it could in 1955. But it is competing in a money market where the demand for money and credit is huge and growing.

CORPORATIONS, LOCAL governments, individuals all want to borrow, and security offerings flood the market. Investors have a wide choice of where to place their funds and can ask and get high interest. Older Treasury bonds bearing 2½ per cent interest are being sold now for as much as 14 points below their face value. Another general rise in interest rates, if it comes, likely will fire a new round of protest in some business circles and in Congress where there are wide differences of opinion on the merits and faults of tight money.

LONDON TRADE CAUTIOUS

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—Cautious trading prevailed on the London Stock Exchange today with buyers keeping an eye on Middle East developments and mounting signs of labor unrest at home.

The market's tone was satisfactory at the close, however.

Renewed demand boosted British government bonds with medium dated issues particularly favored. Dollar stocks were irregular at the opening but gains predominated at the close, particularly among Canadian issues.

Industrials were irregular.

American Zinc Curtailment.

American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. announced that it is making further reductions of slab zinc production. These reductions will all become effective by the end of July and will, it was said, together with previous announced slab zinc curtailment, bring their total reduction to approximately 2500 tons a month, or 30,000 tons a year. "This reduction is being made as a result of the present oversupply of zinc caused by excessive imports from foreign countries along with reduced purchases by the steel and automotive industries," the company stated.

Railway Express Strike Over

Effective at once, the embargo of rail and air express is lifted and we expect normal express service to be restored quickly.

During the long period of the strike, our customers have been most patient and understanding of our difficulties. For this we are very grateful.

It will be our purpose to render a good, dependable service and thus merit the continued support of the shipping public.

PLAN TO RETURN ENEMY ASSETS IS CRITICIZED

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, July 22 — Senator George Smathers (Dem.), Florida, has called on President Eisenhower to oppose a State Department plan to return enemy assets seized in this country in World War II.

Smathers made public yesterday a letter written to the President last Thursday, in which he said it was his understanding the State Department was recommending a plan for return that would be a "breach of obligation" with our allies under the Paris reparation agreement.

In this agreement, signed in January, 1946, the United States and 17 Allied nations agreed that in lieu of making reparations claims, they would retain seized assets.

Congress Decision in 1948.

In the War Claims Act of 1948, Congress ordered that the Office of Alien Property should liquidate the enemy holdings and that the proceeds should be used to pay the claims of American civilian internees and prisoners of war who had suffered ill treatment at the hands of Germany and Japan.

To return the seized assets, Smathers told the President, would not only be a breach of faith with our allies, but would be an "unconscionable giveaway, unfair to the American taxpayer and a mockery of young men who fought to defeat the Axis powers.

The Senator estimated that the State Department plan would cost the taxpayers "at least $230,000,000."

The estimated present worth of the German and Japanese property "vested" in the war is $595,000,000. Of this amount the Alien Property Office has already transferred about $250,000,000 to the war claims fund. There remains assets variously estimated between $265,000,000 and $300,000,000.

State Department's Plan.

Official sources said last week the State Department's plan called for using the remaining assets in this way:

1. To set aside $70,000,000 for the war claims fund.
2. Another $70,000,000 to be used to make returns up to a maximum of $10,000 to German and Japanese individuals as distinct from corporations.
3. The balance — approximately $160,000,000 — to be distributed to German and Japanese claimants, both individuals and corporations, on a pro rata basis.

State Department officials said Saturday that the assets question was still under consideration, and that "so far, we have not come to any concrete proposal beyond the one we made a year or two ago which would involve the return up to $10,000 a person."

Sponsors of Full Return.

This $10,000 return bill has never been satisfactory to Senator Everett M. Dirksen (Rep.), Illinois, who was chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee dealing with enemy assets in the Eighty-third Congress, nor to his Democrat successor, Olin D. Johnson of South Carolina. They are sponsoring a full return bill.

In a reply to Smathers, Frederick J. Libby, chairman of the Committee for the Return of Confiscated German and Japanese Property, said yesterday that return would be "an act of simple justice" in conformity with "the deepest ingrained desires" of the American people.

In the Bonn convention of 1952 and the Paris Protocol of 1954, West Germany agreed to reimburse its own citizens for property seized abroad. The Adenauer Government has taken no action to carry out this agreement, but has been urging the Eisenhower Administration to support full return.

SCRUBBING ON TUG GIVES TEACHER, 57, A 'REAL VACATION'

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 22 (AP)—"My knees are still sore from getting down to scrub the galley deck," Miss Ethel Evans, 57 years old, said in describing her vacation.

Being "cook, dishwasher and galley scrubber" on a logger tugboat in Alaskan waters might not be everybody's idea of fun, but it is for Miss Evans, who has spent 15 winters teaching high school English in Ketchikan, Alaska.

"It's a real vacation in spite of the work," she explained. "No telephone and about six hours a day of free time for reading and writing. I love teaching but I just like to get as far away from it as I can in the summer. I don't know anything farther."

Miss Evans, of Lebo, Kan., is flying today to Nuernberg, Germany, to spend a year teaching English in a boys' school under the Fulbright teacher exchange plan.

CAR OVERTURNS, EX-KING OF BELGIUM, WIFE BRUISED

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, July 22 (AP) — Ex-King Leopold of Belgium and his wife, Princess Liliane de Rethy, suffered shock and bruises yesterday when a high-speed car they were testing skidded off a mountain road near here and overturned.

The car was a special model which Leopold had been considering buying. He had it out for a trial spin when it skidded on wet pavement. A member of the escort said the Princess was at the wheel at the time.

Leopold and the Princess seemed completely recovered from the shock when they attended a dinner party in their honor last night. Leopold's first wife, Queen Astrid, was fatally injured in 1935 when a car he was driving struck a tree. He was slightly injured in that accident.

Girl Found Alive After 40 Hours In Wrecked Plane With 3 Bodies

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

JUDY DIEHL

ALLIANCE, Nebr., July 22 (AP)—"Complete recovery" was predicted today for 17-year-old Judy Diehl, who was trapped 40 hours in a wrecked airplane with the bodies of her parents and a friend.

Dr. O. L. Seng of Alliance said the girl was in "fair condition" and "we expect complete recovery."

Judy suffered a fracture of the upper left leg, possible fractures of the lower legs, lacerations and abrasions when a light plane crashed 25 miles south of Bingham, Nebr., Friday night.

The girl's foot was caught under a seat and she was forced to remain in the plane until she sighted a search plane overhead and waived a white scarf to attract attention yesterday.

"We were amazed to find someone alive," said Don Christiansen, photographer of the Alliance (Nebr.) Times-Herald, one of the first at the scene.

Christiansen said the bodies of Judy's father, Merritt Diehl, 45, of Cozad, and of the pilot, Milo German, 55, Cozad plastics plant operator, were in the front seat. Mrs. Carolyn Diehl, 45, Judy's mother, was beside the girl in the rear of the plane.

Judy, in "surprisingly good condition" when rescuers reached her, said she did not remember the plane crashing, but on "waking up I knew the others were dead."

Judy had only a banana to eat, but was able to use a belt buckle to open a canned beverage and to "catch some rain water" to drink.

"We flew over the site and spotted the plane near the top of a hill," Christiansen said. "We couldn't believe anyone was alive, but then we saw someone waving from it with a white scarf."

Judy was reported in "good spirts" when rescuers reached the uninhabited sand hills area when the plane had crashed, after hiking a mile from their own plane.

The girl said they had taken off from the Alliance airport Friday night and had run into a storm. They were heading back to Alliance, when the plane crashed on the top of a hill.

German, a veteran pilot, had filed no flight plan when taking off Friday night and it was not until Saturday that the Beechcraft Bonanza was reported missing. The Civil Air Patrol organized the search yesterday.

59 ITEMS LISTED ON AGENDA FOR 12TH U.N. ASSEMBLY

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 22 (AP)—The United Nations made public today a provisional agenda of 59 items for the twelfth General Assembly convening here Sept. 17.

This is about the average length of the annual work-sheet of U.N. problems. A supplementary list will be issued later for last-minute items.

The proposed agenda does not list the Hungarian situation. This is expected to be dealt with early in September when members of the eleventh Assembly reconvene to consider the lengthy report of the special committee on Hungary.

The new list does include such subjects as disarmament, Korea, Cyprus, Algeria and a host of housekeeping matters. One new subject is appointment of a Secretary General. The incumbent, Dag Hammarskjold, is slated to be named for another five-year term. Both the Security Council and the Assembly must approve him and indications are this will be done speedily in the early days of the Assembly.

SPECIALTIES ALONE PUT LIFE IN MARKET

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, July 22 (UP)—Leading groups moved in a narrow range on the stock market today while special issues ranged between gains running to more than 5 points and declines of equal scope.

The wide gainer late in the day, Richfield Oil, showed a rise of 5 at its best. Schering fell 5⅛. West Indies Sugar gained 4 points.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down .41 at 515.32 at the close. The 20 rails 151.55, off .29, and the 15 utilities 70.53, off .14.)

(Standard & Poor's average of 500 stocks was .11 of a point lower at 48.47 at the close. The 425 industrials dropped .10 to 52.53, the 25 rails slipped .09 to 31.31 and the 50 utilties fell .13 to 32.71.)

Among the wider losers in the industrials were Union Carbide off a point and International Nickel off more than a point. Chrysler, a strong spot, gained 1⅛ points. Westinghouse Electric rose 1 and National Steel nearly a point. The general run of rails held near the previous close. Utilities had one wide lower — Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, off more than a point.

Volume leadership again went to Sunshine Mining which rose more than a point to a new high and decca records, helped by a block of 50,000 shares that opened the issue at 11:45 a.m., one hour and 45 minutes after the initial gong on the exchange.

El Paso Natural Gas issues were driven down 2 or 3 points on filing of an anti-trust suit against the company's acquisition of Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp. Crown Zellerbach fell more than 3 points on an official estimate that earnings for the first half will show a decline of 25 per cent from a year ago.

Panhandle Eastern Pipeline, off a point, helped keep the utility average down. St. Louis San Francisco rose more than a point in the rails.

The Associated Press said that of 1131 issues traded, losers outnumbered gainers by 492 to 369. There were 42 new lows and 20 new highs.

Volume totaled 1,950,000 shares compared with 1,930,000 on Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 20 cents to $186.60 with the industrials unchanged, the rails down 30 cents and the utilities down 20 cents.

In the municipal field, Sacramento City Unified School District, Calif., will come to market Aug. 7 for $7,000,000 of bonds.

Albany, Ga., will put a $4,500,000 of water and revenue bonds on sale Aug. 6.

U.S. TREASURY ISSUES EASE IN SLOW DEALS

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Both corporate and U.S. Government bond prices turneed slightly lower in late trading today. The market dawled along in mid-summer doldrums.

Among the corporates, rails were firm, but industrials, utilities and investment quality issues eased.

U.S. Government bonds ease 2-32 to 6-32 in slow dealings.

Trading started on a "when-issued" basis in the treasury's new refunding 4 per cent notes and 3⅝ per cent certificate. The new issues moved to a premium of 1-32 and 2-32. Dealers said indications were that very little attrition would result from conversion of the treasury's maturing August and October securities.

Canadian and German industrial dollar bonds moved up in a mixed foreign department.

GRAINS, SOYBEANS DROP; WEATHER GOOD

CHICAGO, July 22 (AP)—The grain market turned weak after a fairly steady start today and wheat at one time was off more than 2 cents and soybeans more than 3 cents.

Favorable crop weather and lack of demand were contributing factors in the downturn, following last week's bullish market.

Wheat started the session higher but fell back later when an expected demand by flour processors failed to materialize. This, together with good growing weather and substantial overnight arrivals of cash wheat teamed up to weaken the bread grain.

Soybeans also felt the effect of favorable growing weather and fell back after showing strength in early dealings. Corn declined in sympathy with other grains and oats were mixed.

This is the last day for trading in July contracts and those remaining open after today's close must be settled by delivery of the actual (or cash) grain.

New style wheat closed 1 to 3⅞ lower, corn ¾ to 1⅝ lower, oats 1¼ lower to ¼ higher, rye 2½ to 3½ lower, soybeans 2¼ to 6¾ lower, and lard 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower Sept. $13.85.

SALESMEN WANTED 83

$25,457.89 CASH

That was my income in 1956. When I started with my present company I had no previous experience in management, I was guaranteed a liberal subsidy while training; now I know, that one does not have to be a genius to be a successful manager in our business. My income has improved steadily each year; intelligence, hard work, plus our excellent training program, caused my success. Now I look forward to much higher earnings as I gain experience. My success is due in a great measure to the guidance and teaching I have received from my manager. He did much for me now I have the privilege of returning that favor by offering men who can qualify, the same opportunity for management that was extended to me. I am interested in talking with family men, 25 to 40 who perhaps have reached a dead end because their company is not growing. If your are interested in a real opportunity to make high earnings plus the opportunity to advance to management in our expansion program, I can personally assure you the same excellent training, the same guidance, which contributed to my success. If you feel you can qualify, please call Mr. Jess Sirila, CE 1-5267 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

SALESMEN WANTED 83

TWO OUTSTANDING SALES OPPORTUNITIES IN A GROWING FIELD

OUR CLIENT: One of the oldest firms in its field with many industry "firsts" to its credit, and highest quality product and service. Constantly expanding market assures continuance of its consistent growth record. Industry projections indicate a conservative doubling of sales potential in next 5 to 10 years.

POSITION: Build sales and handle service in a protected and established sales territory. Will call on executives and administrators. Sales and product training provided at no expense. Effective merchandising support. Two territories now available covering eastern Missouri, southern Illinois, northeastern Arkansas and western Kentucky.

COMPENSATION: Typical 1st and 2nd year earnings have been between $6500 and $12,000 per year. Top men made more than $17,000 last year. Ask us for case histories.

QUALIFICATIONS: Age 25 to 40. Minimum high school education. Prefer some successful sales experience or work dealing with public. Aggressive personality and clean-cut appearance. Willingness to travel in territory.

ADDED OPPORTUNITY: Qualified candidates will receive, free of charge, a complete scientific analysis of their sales capabilities.

THE NEXT STEP: Telephone JOHN GINSLER, now at Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis. Call Main 1-4600 on Sunday, July 21 between 10 A.M. and 5 P.M., or on Monday, July 22 between 9 A.M. and 2 P.M. Our fee is paid by our client.

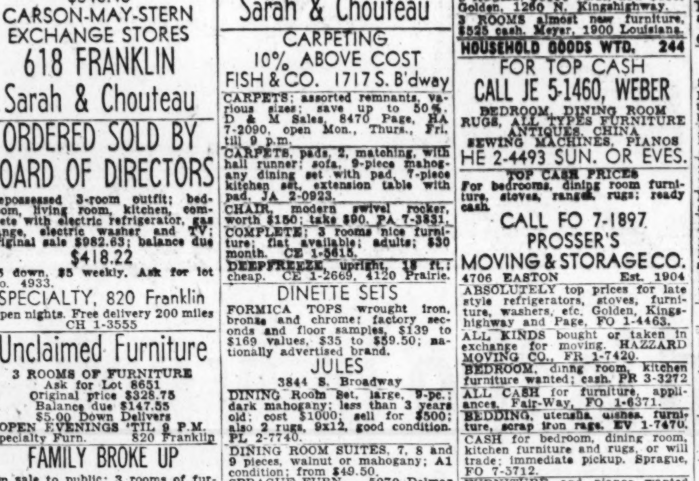
Possibility of Break in Heat



—Associated Press Wirephoto
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Warm weather is expected to continue in the St. Louis area through tomorrow, but the Weather Bureau said a front north of here could bring lower temperatures Wednesday.

Fair weather prevailed today over most of the nation except for rain in the middle Mississippi valley, Iowa and central Texas and cloudiness along the Pacific coast. Heavy rain in the 24 hours ending this morning included 3.08 inches at Macon, Mo.; 1.77 at Grand Rapids, Mich.; 1.47 at Dubuque, Ia.; 1.23 at Alpina, Mich., and 1.2 at Mobile, Ala.

Hot weather was reported yesterday in the Far Southwest with the nation's high of 109 at Yuma, Ariz.; most of Texas with 106 at Presidio and the Middle Atlantic states, where a maximum of 101 was recorded at Philadelphia and Washington. Lowest maximum was 59 at Eureka, Calif.

In Missouri, highs yesterday ranged from 89 at Kirksville, Kansas City, and Farmington to 95 at Joplin. Lows today varied from 68 at Union and Farmington to 77 in downtown St. Louis. Over the nation they were from 36 at Fraser, Colo., to 81 at Del Rio, Tex.

RESTON

6-Month Review of President's Second Term: Gains on Arms Cut, Rights, Inflation Issues

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, July 22.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER started the second six months of his second Administration this week confident that he is making progress on his three major problems: disarmament, equal voting rights and inflation.

The London talks on an arms limitation agreement, the Senate debate on civil rights and the fight against inflation are all at a critical point. White House officials think the boom is leveling off, that inflation will be brought under control by autumn and that limited agreement will be reached both in London and the Senate.

Since the President's second inauguration Jan. 20 several notable events and trends have developed, particularly in the fields of foreign and defense policy.

Involved in Mideast.

Among these are:

1. The United States, for the first time in its history, has got deeply involved and committed in the Middle East.

2. By bold political action in that area and timely use of the Sixth United States Fleet (which incidentally is now getting a major base near the mouth of the Mediterranean at Rota in Spain), the United States has succeeded in producing an uneasy truce among the contending forces. It has made little or no progress in bringing about permanent settlement.

3. In the Far East, the United States has started withdrawing its power from Japan, and in the last six months has been the target for more emotional anti-American demonstrations, both in Japan and in Nationalist China, than at any time since World War II.

4. In the Atlantic community, progress has been made in healing the wounds opened by the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt, but again, as in the Middle East, the trend has been toward more reliance on the United States and its atomic power.

5. Finally, the first six months of the President's second term ended with announcement of an impending cut of 100,000 men in the armed services, thus emphasizing the trend in the whole Atlantic community toward reliance on nuclear weapons as the deterrent against, and major means of fighting, any future war.

Moscow's Troubles Worse.

On balance the general feeling here is that, while both Washington and Moscow have had trouble at home and in their respective coalitions in the last six months, the troubles in the Communist world are more serious and enduring.

In this period Peiping has emerged more openly than before as a challenging new center of Communist ideology. The new tactics of industrial and agricultural decentralization within the Soviet Union and of greater freedom for the satellites have produced a revolt against Nikita Khrushchev's leadership in the Kremlin, one violent break for freedom in Hungary, open defiance of Soviet domination in Poland, and a general restlessness in the rest of the Communist states of eastern Europe.

The United States has modified its policy to deal with these new political opportunities. It has lifted its limited embargo on trade with eastern Europe to make substantial loans to Poland. It has moved to meet the Soviet threat of infiltration in the Middle East by increasing its political and economic aid to that region, and it has asquiesced in the demands of its allies for more trade with Communist China.

Does this represent limited progress toward an understanding with the Communists or is the President's longing for a general settlement merely leading him into a Communist trap? Washington is divided about this.

At any rate, two dangerous flareups that might have led to general wars — Hungary and Egypt—have been calmed down since the President's re-election last November, and the administration has entered a series of negotiations with the Communists that rest on maintaining the status quo.

Moreover, the President and Secretary of State Dulles are represented as believing that if they can maintain this balance for several years without an explosion from the Soviet state, the forces of freedom in the satellites and even in the Soviet Union and Communist China will eventually produce an internal Communist convulsion or force a change in Communist policy that will be more acceptable to the West.

Liberal Court Rulings.

On the home front, the developments of the last six months suggest that the most enduring decisions of the Eisenhower Administration may be the President's appointments to the Supreme Court.

For the court, partly as a result of Mr. Eisenhower's appointment of Chief Justice Warren and Associate Justices Harlan and Brennan, has shown a marked bent toward support of policies usually identified, not with the traditional Republican concepts, but with liberal Democrats or at least modern Republicanism.

Since Jan. 30, the Supreme Court's decision in the Du Pont case and the liberal Eisenhower budget have produced a flurry of criticism against the President on the Republican right. The President now finds himself attacked, not as the tool of big business—as the Democrats charged in the last election — but as an opponent of big business.

Coincidentally, the conservative Democrats in the South, who were so enchanted with the President in the first term, now find that he is opposing them on the one question that disturbs them more than any other: equal rights for the Negro in the South.

Injunction Power Sought.

If the Republicans can get the power to bring civil injunctions against anyone suspected of interfering with a Southern Negro's right to vote, and get it without having to try violaters for contempt before Southern juries, they believe they will have started a major political revolution in American politics.

They think many more Negroes in the South would vote Republican, as they did between reconstruction days and 1928, and that this would strengthen the Republican party, not only in the Negro wards of the great northern cities, but form the basis of a powerful Republican party in states such as Virginia and Texas in the South.

On the whole, though, most observers here think the President has got through the first six months of his second term about as well as expected. He has experienced, they believe, the usual rising tide of criticism that accompanies almost every second term, but his popularity with an electorate that is paying little attention to politics seems about as high as ever.

His opposition has not produced any challenger that has caught the public imagination, and as events in the Soviet Union suggest, his luck is holding up.

JAPAN DISTURBED BY SOVIET CLOSING VLADIVOSTOK BAY

© New York Times News Service.

TOKYO, July 22 — Russia's closing of the international waters of Vladivostok bay to foreign ships and planes was regarded as a violation of international law by the Japanese Foreign Office. The Ministry of External Affairs indicated that it considers the Moscow action an infringement of the principle of free navigation of open waters.

United States Navy and Air Force spokesmen here said the new Russian restriction would not affect normal flight schedules of their weather and patrol planes.

"We don't fly that close anyway," both spokesmen said.

The Navy and Air Force have had three of their planes shot down over the Sea of Japan in the general area now closed by the Russians. American planes patrol the shipping lanes and gather weather information.

Japanese fishermen are hardest hit by the Russian action. The fishing industry, with the co-operation of the Japanese government, for the first time this spring sent survey fleets into the now forbidden area.

MOSCOW CHARGES AGGRESSION IS ISRAELI POLICY

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—The Moscow radio charged last night that Israel intended to pursue a "policy of aggression based on adventures." It told Israeli leaders there are powers "capable of making them abandon the policy of intimidation" in the Middle East.

A commentator in the Arabic language said, "The provocative acts of aggression carried out a few days ago by Israeli armed forces on the Syrian frontiers came as irrefutable proof of the shameful fact that the Israeli aggressive quarters have not learned a proper lesson from the defeat of the ignominious aggression which Israel, together with the British and French imperialists, launched against Egypt."

The Moscow radio said Israel could not dare to assume warlike attitudes alone. The commentator accused United States "imperialists" of instigating Israeli action.

A series of clashes broke out earlier this month on the Israeli-Syrian frontier. Each side accused the other of provoking the incidents.

Gas Bill Vote Benefits Firm In Bribe Case

Superior Oil Stock Climbs Quickly After House Unit's Action.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1957.)

WASHINGTON.

IF YOU READ carefully what goes on in Wall Street and compare it with what happens in certain congressional committees in Washington, you get an amazing chain of events.

On Monday, July 8, the stock of the Superior Oil Co. was listless. Only 200 shares were traded.

Tuesday, July 9, the House Interstate Commerce Committee by a narrow margin approved the natural gas bill, which will increase gas rates to consumers by $800,000,000 a year.

That same day, Superior Oil stock galvanized into action. The stock shot up in value $30 a share. A total of 21,000 shares were traded.

Thursday, July 11, Superior Oil shot up again. This time 53,000 shares were traded. Other people had got wise. The price shot up another $40 per share.

Friday, July 12, showed even greater gains. The price advanced another $90 per share. Fifty thousand shares were traded.

Monday, July 15, topped them all. The price of Superior Oil went up $120, 42,000 shares traded, closing at a record high of $2000 a share.

After that profit-taking set in, the stock leveled off, but Superior Oil is still the highest priced stock on Wall Street.

Superior Oil is headed by Howard Keck, the man whose lobbyists tried to bribe Senator Francis Case of South Dakota with $2500 cash in the natural gas debate last year. For this attempted bribery, Elmer Patman and John Neff were fined $2500 each but never went to jail. They were given one year suspended sentences by President Eisenhower's newly appointed judge, Joseph McGarraghy, and they were convicted, not for trying to bribe a Senator, but for failing to register under the lobbying act. The corporation was also fined $10,000.

Howard Keck, whom these two lobbyists represented, was not tried. His money was involved, but Attorney General Brownell did not prosecute him.

Keck had given $5000 by check Jan. 10 to the Eisenhower dinner. This was right in the middle of the gas battle. The check was accepted and cashed.

You can now understand why Keck could afford to give $5000 to the Eisenhower dinner, plus $2500 for Senator Case, plus more for some other candidates.

USE OF U.S. PILOTS BLOCKS IRAN-SOVIET AIRLINE DEAL

TEHRAN, July 22 (AP) — Soviet objections to the use of American pilots by the Iranian airline have produced a deadlock in negotiations for a Tehran-Moscow commercial airlines system, a foreign ministry spokesman said yesterday.

Iranian Airways, this country's only commercial airline, uses American pilots on all its flights to other countries.

The Soviet Union proposed the Tehran-Moscow route and also a new Tehran-Paris route via Russia, saying they would cost about half as much at the present normal rate of $266.

NAUTILUS RETURNS TO PORT

GROTON, Conn., July 22 (AP)—The Nautilus, this country's first nuclear-powered submarine, returned yesterday from a two-month cruise to the Pacific.

The Navy said the Nautilus cruised a total of 13,750 miles —10,690 of these under water. Its average speed was reported in excess of 15 knots (about 17 miles an hour). The Navy has described the craft's maximum potential speed as in excess of 20 knots.

Ismaili Leader Dies.

CAIRO, July 22 (AP) — A Burmese Ismaili Moslem leader, Ghulam Hussein Jivabahi died in Aswan Saturday after collapsing Friday at the funeral of Aga Khan III—apparently of heat prostration. Ghulam had come from Rangoon with a party of 11 Burmese. He was 86 years old.

VIET NAM'S HO RANKS RED CHINA SAME AS RUSSIA

WARSAW, July 22 (AP) — President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam arrived yesterday, peddling a new line in Communist precedence — "long live the socialist camp, headed by the Soviet Union and the Chinese People's Republic."

Ho thus gave the Red Chinese equal ranking with the Russians. Previous form among Communist was to speak of the bloc as led only by the Soviet.

Ho—his name means "He who enlightens"— arrived for celebrations of the thirteenth anniversary of Soviet recognition of the Lublin committee, which established Communist rule in Poland.

Polish Commuinst leader Wladyslaw Gomulka and Premier Cyrankiewicz were among government officials who welcomed him. He thanked them for Poland's support in the Indochina war and its help now "in building a better cultural and moral life."

Shah of Iran Ill.

TEHRAN, July 22 (AP)—The Shah of Iran was confined to his bed yesterday. Doctors suspected influenza. About 500,000 of Tehran's 2,000,000 population were reported suffering from the influenza epidemic. Cases throughout Iran number several million.

Red Press Told To Give More Space to Purge

Falls Down on Job of Explaining 'Victory' Repeatedly, Pravda Says.

MOSCOW, July 22.

PRAVDA, leading newspaper of the Soviet Communist party, criticized a number of other journals yesterday for their failure to devote sufficient space to the ousting of Georgi M. Malenkov, Lazar M. Kaganovich and Vyacheslav M. Molotov from the party and the government hierarchy.

It noted in an editorial that country-wide meetings to explain the reasons for the ouster had ended. It said that was no excuse to drop the matter.

The paper said propagandists were falling down on their job of explaining repeatedly to the people why the action had been taken and also to remind them of the successes achieved under Communist leadership.

Among the newspapers singled out for attack by Pravda were Pravda Ukrainy and Sovietskaya Byelorussia, Communist party journals in the Ukraine and Byelorussia. It said the two journals carried "few articles as yet" clarifying the decisions of the June assembly of the Communist party's Central Committee which threw the three once powerful officials out of their positions.

A Militant Task.

"The meetings devoted to the plenum are over," Pravda wrote, "but that does not mean that our press should limit itself only to reports of those meetings. The militant task of our papers is to continue to clarify the decisions of the June plenum, clearly and in popular form to tell of the immense victories of the Communist party and the Soviet people during the great forty years" (since the Bolshevik revolution).

Pravda said the newspapers should invite party workers, experienced propagandists and agitators, men of science, literature and art, industrial and farm workers to contribute articles on the subject. Propagandists must never stop telling the people how well off they are and what progress they are making, the paper said.

Latvian Paper Criticized.

Sovietski Litva, in the Republic of Latvia, was criticized by Pravda for its failure recently to publish a single propaganda article on the Communist party's decision to rid itself of three men who sought to cap-

2000 Work Around the Clock On Yellow River's First Dam

Project, Due for Completion in 1963, to Dislodge 870,000 From Homes — Erosion Plays Queer Tricks.

By WILLIAM KINMOND
Toronto Globe and Mail Staff Reporter.
(ELEVENTH OF A SERIES)

SAN MEN GORGE, China.

FIRST GLIMPSE of the Yellow River came as we eased by a bulldozer on a hairpin turn of a new highway over which will travel the materials needed in the first phase of a 50-year project to tame the most notorious river in the world. We were on our way to the sight of the projected San Men dam.

It is difficult to describe the appearance of the Yellow River valley for erosion has worked queer tricks. It has fashioned what appear to be man-made walls but which are obviously not because they stand alone in a desolation of gullies. These are so deep they defy access even to the enterprising Chinese whose agriculture ingenuity is nowhere so effectively demonstrated as in the intense cultivation of pin-sized plateaus which have been left standing by centuries of erosion.

As a result of erosion, vast expanses of fertile plateau land in Kansu, Shensi and Shansi provinces have been gradually cut into steep gullies 600 to 700 feet deep. As these gullies kept increasing in number and widening, the flat land gradually disappeared and turned into countless long ridges and domes; it is eroded into a rough land.

Erosion for Generations.

In a few places where the erosion is worst, most of the soil even on some of the hillocks has been lost and they have become barren stone hills. This process has been going on uninterrupted for generations, gradually reducing the arable land in the area, cutting down the fertility of the soil and the yield of crops.

As we threaded our way into the valley from Hwei Hsing, a railway station about 20 miles up the valley which is the staging area for the mountains of equipment needed to construct the dam, we traversed mudholes in which it seemed for a moment the car would be lost. We worked our way through a long tunnel down which streamed almost as much water as in the Yellow River itself.

This evidence of the abundant moisture of the district was a carryover from a brief morning shower, all of which had found its way into the river. The excessive number of gullies—the creation of centuries of rainstorms — their steep slopes, the lack of forest and pasture to retain water, and the lack of ponds and lakes to store it were all a vivid illustration of the loss of rainfall to the river.

Deadline Near.

The car took us to within a mile of the site where 2000 workers are working around the clock to prepare the river bed for construction of a coffer dam. If the demolition of a huge rock deposit is not completed in a few weeks, and it did not seem likely this would be the case, all work will have to cease and operations moved to higher ground while the river is at flood level for four months.

We weaved our way over two bamboo suspension bridges, swinging precariously above the river. They were strung from rock outcroppings which still retain their Chinese names—Gate of God and Gate of Man, appellations given by those Chinese who have for thousands of years used the Yellow River as a route of commerce.

On the way we passed laborers with bags of cement tied on their backs; other workmen pushing and tugging to haul huge bits of heavy machinery and loads of piping to the job. Although everything is brought to the staging site by rail and trucked to the river, manpower is used to get it across to the working area.

High up on the cliffs drillers were kicking up a dust preparatory to blowing the top off a rock mound; below a steam shovel was working side by side with laborers toting two wicker baskets on a yoke to load the debris of a previous blast into trucks.

Chinese Resemble Ants.

Here and there gangs of straw-hatted workers were toiling away with shovels and their wicker baskets, eating into the cliff of loess seeking a firm rock foundation to which the dam could be attached. So deep is the gorge at this point that looking to the west, the toiling Chi-

Non-Violent Social Revolution Developing in Central America

By PAUL P. KENNEDY

©New York Times News Service.

MEXICO CITY, July 22 — Central America, caught in a stream of heightened economic activity, is undergoing a social revolution. The guns of political revolt have quieted, but in their place a less dramatic but equally volcanic force is being exerted on practically all Central American governments to bring about drastic social reforms.

A recently concluded tour has shown this to be developing into a pattern throughout the Central American region. In the majority of instances it appears as passive pressure. In others, such as in Honduras, the movement has gone beyond the passive stage and is beginning to manifest itself actively in organized resistance to capital and industry.

In any event the Government is caught between masses seeking reforms and relatively few who oppose them. Of underlying importance is that the fate of governments is placed in the balance just as certainly as if the attack were one of violence rather than of moral pressures.

Initial insistence on these reforms stems from the urban population. But prolonged pressures for their adoption come from the rural population, which is in preponderance, and where the impact would be most telling.

What Demands Are.

The basic reform demanded is social security, including liberal benefits in health and hospitalization, maternity care and survivor insurance. Included also are demands for laws to provide minimum wages and improved living conditions for rural laborers.

Generally, the rural population is trying to break away from the still pervasive system in which the strong man of the region dictates the social, economic and political fate of those within his territory. There is increasing demand for more participation in government decisions. There remains the old agitation for increased educational facilities in rural areas.

The irony is that politically right-of-center presidents like Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. of Panama, Luis Somoza de Beyle of Nicaragua and Carlos Castillo Armas of Guatemala are engaged in virtually similar struggles for social reforms and with the same political risks as is the left-of-center president of Costa Rica, Jose Figueres.

Panama, like all other Central American countries, is undergoing great changes. This is mainly attributed to the stepped-up economic activity.

Forced to Back Down.

The Panamanian president encountered the first big test of his nine-month-old administration recently when he attempted to push through sweeping reforms of the republic's antiquated social security program. The opposition was so swift and so great that he was forced to back down, at least temporarily.

De la Guardia's presidential campaign was based largely on economic and social reform. There is a question now whether capital and industry will support him on any part of this program.

The working classes were surprisingly slow to rally to him at the outset, probably because of lack of information. Now, however, they appear to be taking hope that he is trying to give substance to their aspirations for reforms.

The social program of Costa Rica is likely to provide a major issue in the forthcoming presidential campaign. The party of Figueres has been under heavy attack on the ground that expenditures, primarily for his social program, have been unrealistic in the light of the nation's fiscal situation.

Situation in Nicaragua.

On the surface at least, Nicaragua has shown the most startling changes in recent months of all the Central American countries. These are causing consternation among moderate and conservative elements in the country.

President Somoza, whose public life has been spent in the shadow of his politically strongman father, the late Anastasio Somoza, has begun alienating large sections of wealthy planters and industrialists with whom nominally he would be closely associated. In the face of their strongest protests, he has continued to support liberalization reforms and has continued his opposition to devaluation of the currency.

The people generally have adopted a wait-and-see attitude toward the President's program, although they have accepted gladly the liberalization changes made thus far.

The President's social security program has got off to a fairly good start in the face of opposition. However, its true test is still to come, and there is no question but that the opposition will stiffen.

El Salvador Opposition.

President Jose Maria Lemus of El Salvador apparently is committed to sweeping social reforms, especially in rural areas. There, any reforms will be opposed by a majority of coffee planters, exporters and industrialists who traditionally form the balance of political power in the country.

Lemus was one of the great question marks when he was elected to office last year. As a strict military man and as a former director of the police, he was expected by some to put more iron into his administration than he has done thus far.

His first liberalization of the administration's stern view of the more radical opposition occasioned surprise. Many still believe that the tolerant attitude he has displayed thus far will cause trouble, as the radical groups are growing stronger daily.

He will have the assistance of these groups and of all the laboring classes, it is noted, when the apparently inevitable labor and social reform questions are brought up for discussion. But the opposition is forming even before the projects have been openly mentioned.

Lemus, unlike Presidents De la Guardia, Somoza and Figueres, rose from humble beginnings and is not considered a member of the ruling class socially or financially.

The same is true of Guatemalas' President Castillo. He, too, is caught in the middle of a social reform struggle. The support of his administration for minimum wages and for rural labor unionization has made him suspect in the eyes of the powerful landed class.

Guatemala has been the scene of enormous changes in the last three years. The millions of dollars that have been poured into the country by the United States to bolster the economy have had their effect in many ways.

One of these has been to create considerable wealth among relatively few persons. Another has been to stir up among the people—even to some extent the hill-country Indians—a desire to advance the social reforms with the same speed as the economy is increasing.

This pressure, thus far held in reasonable control, is giving social ferment to the Guatemalan scene.

In Mexico the prevailing Central American pattern is broken. Here, as a result of revolution, social reforms still undreamed of in most Central America have long been in force. The struggle is directed at maintaining these reforms in the face of what appears to be persistent pressures from ultra-conservative elements.

Why Ford is the "only-est" wagon of 'em all!

FORD is America's best-selling station wagon and your best buy, because for so little money Ford is:

. . . the only wagon with wrap-around liftgate to give you greater visibility and wider loading space
. . . the only wagon with a liftgate that gives itself a "lift"
. . . the only wagon with a liftgate that "holds" in any position and can be released with one hand!
. . . the only wagon with sturdy support arms that hold tailgate solidly in open position and, at the same time, give full load support
. . . the only wagon with 2-stage front door checks and spring assists that help you open and close rear doors
. . . the only wagon with 6 steel roof braces for extra rugged strength
. . . the only wagon with swept-back ball-joint suspension that "rolls" with the punch when you hit a bump
. . . the only wagon to bring you the Thunderbird's own V-8 power
. . . the only wagon that offers you a truly modern short-stroke six cylinder engine!

That list of "onlys" on the left gives a lot of reasons why Ford tops the "tote 'em" poll. But that's only the beginning! Take Ford's sculptured styling. No other wagon at any price can match it. And Ford is the only wagon that sports this sculptured look.

The "inside story" is another best seller. The all-new "Inner Ford" is America's No. 1 construction job. Its new wide-base frame lets you ride safer within the massive frame side rails. Under the hood, you get a famous Ford engine. Whether you choose the Mileage Maker Six or the Thunderbird's own V-8, you'll love the satin-smooth performance. Yet, in spite of all these "onlys," Ford wagons are still the lowest priced* of the low-price three!

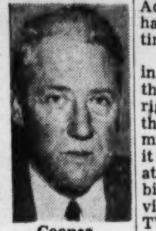
Eisenhower 'Punishes' a Backer

WASHINGTON.

THE MOST RECENT CASE of a "modern" or "Eisenhower" Republican getting cuffed by the White House is that of the able and amiable Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.



Cooper.

It was he who was persuaded by President Eisenhower to give up a more relaxed assignment as ambassador to India and come home to run for the Senate last November. He got elected, as did another Republican from Kentucky, now Senator Thruston Morton. But Republicans failed to win control of the Senate. They were not strong enough elsewhere. Cooper is kindly disposed toward the Tennessee Valley Authority, that great conservation project which also reaches into his state with its benefits.

That is his crime, at least to Sherman Adams, White House major domo, who has constantly revealed his deep-seated antagonism to such public projects by doing everything possible to restrict their operations, prevent their expansion, and stop any new ones. That comes before "modern Republicanism" with Sherman Adams.

So he—and the President—ignored Cooper in choosing a new third member of the TVA board of directors. The Senator had recommended a Republican House member from Tennessee, Representative Howard H. Baker, to fill the vacancy created by expiration of the term of Dr. Harry Curtis, former Dean of the University of Missouri engineering school.

Instead, the President nominated Arnold R. Jones of Kansas, now deputy director of the Budget Bureau and, before that, professor of accounting and comptroller of Kansas State College and one-time member of the Kansas corporation commission, the state utility, railroad and mineral regulation agency.

Democrats Resent Adams.

Cooper is unhappy about that appointment, though it was pleasing to his Republican colleague, Senator Morton, who had followed the wishes of Sherman Adams in the last big public power issue to come before the Senate. That was the proposed high federal dam at Hell's canyon in the Snake river.

Morton voted against it. Cooper voted for it. Morton was advised by the White House in advance of the Jones appointment, while Cooper first heard about it from a newspaper correspondent who called him to get his reaction.

The Jones-TVA-Sherman Adams issue is of concern now because Democrats interested in TVA are laying plans to make it uncomfortable for Jones and Adams. The new appointee will have to cool his heels for some time.

Consideration of Jones's nomination necessarily must await the end of the current civil rights fight in the Senate; but the Senate Public Works Committee does not intend to take it up thereafter until the Senate has acted upon the pending bill, sponsored by Cooper, providing for self-financing by TVA through issuance of bonds up to a limit of $750,000,000 outstanding at any one time.

Source of Dixon-Yates.

When the Public Works Committee gets around to the Jones nomination, it plans to give him a thorough going-over about his views on TVA.

The first count against him is that he served in the Budget Bureau, a circumstance sufficient in itself to aroused devoted champions of TVA, since it was in the Budget Bureau that the famous Dixon-Yates scheme to throttle TVA was cooked up.

Jones was not there at the time, but he has dealt with TVA self-financing plans in his tenure which began in April, 1956. As a matter of fact, in a letter to the chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee, Dennis Chavez (Dem.), N. Mex., he opposed the $750,000,000 bond limit proposed by Cooper and suggested it be cut to $200,000,000.

Risk of Rejection.

Beyond that he recommended other restrictive provisions in TVA self-financing which, according to experts in TVA affairs, might compel the raising of rates to consumers as well as circumscribe its operations, both ardently desired and sought by private utilities.

In view of his attitude, Jones will be pressed as to whether he really believes in TVA, which is required under the TVA Act.

Cooper says he is withholding his decision about how he will vote on the Jones confirmation until he hears all the testimony.

It may turn out that the Senate just won't get around to Jones at this session.

That will confront President Eisenhower—and Adams—with a decision as to giving him a recess appointment. Such an appointment would hold only until the next session of the Senate—in January unless an extra session should be called—when the nomination would have to be submitted again.

Whether Jones or Adams wants to take the risk of ultimate rejection in the next session is a question.

KINNEY HAS OPERATION, CONDITION REPORTED GOOD

State Senator Michael Kinney was reported in good condition at St. John's Hospital today following a prostate gland operation which he underwent Saturday. He entered the hospital Thursday, and is expected to remain about 10 days.

Senator Kinney, 82 years old, has been in the Legislature 45 years and a dominant figure of long standing in Democratic politics.

TWO BOYS TIE FOR $32,000

NEW YORK, July 22 (UP)—Two 11-year-old boys waded through a maze of questions on electronics last night to tie for $32,000 on a television program.

The tie between champion Robert Strom of New York City and David Junchen, Sherrard, Ill., increased to $64,000 the amount they will be competing fot next week on the Columbia Broadcasting System program, "The $64,000 Challenge."

CATHOLIC AID CASES SHOW JOB LEVEL HIGH

Msgr. Butler Reports on De Paul Society—Address By Archbishop Ritter.

Employment in the St. Louis area stayed at a high level in the second quarter of 1957, and the number of Catholic families needing economic assistance was small, Msgr. John J. Butler, executive secretary of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, reported yesterday.

Msgr. Butler told 500 members of the society, meeting at St. Anthony's Church, Michigan avenue and Meramec street, that expenditures through the Catholic Family Service and 90 parish conferences totaled $61,812 in the three months ended June 30.

Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter said humanity could not achieve progress unless the supremacy of the spiritual over baser matters was maintained. Recalling recent utterances of Pope Pius XII, he said:

"We rightly seek those material advantages whereby human misery is alleviated and Christian gladness is promoted, but we must also be aware of the great temptation that things have to consume our entire energy and interest.

"Materialism animalizes man, leads to a vulgar cult of the body, to greed, to the disregard of justice and love in one's dealing with his neighbor.

"When the general tenor is to abandon any dedication to a higher life, men think only of how they can use one another for selfish pleasure and interests. Materialism is the maker of wars and can destroy Christian civilization. Personal love and sacrifice is our greatest need."

Another speaker was George E. Heneghan, president of the society, who discussed the life and example of of Vincent de Paul. St. Vincent organized charitable activities in France in the seventeenth century, establishing the Daughters of Charity and the Vincentian Congregation of the Missions.

"The society in France today," Heneghan said, "through its efforts in factories and the business world, represents one of the most potent influences in combating Communism."

Members of the society also heard the Rev. Ethelbert Harms O.F.M., pastor of St. Anthony's Church; Albert G. Backer, president of the parish conference, and James J. O'Connor, vice president of the Metropolitan Central Council.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR MRS. MARY KENNEDY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary O'Madigan Kennedy, daughter of Col. Daniel O'Madigan, who published an Irish newspaper here at the turn of the century, will be tomorrow at St. Luke's Catholic Church, 7230 Dale avenue, Richmond Heights, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Kennedy, a former St. Louisan, died Saturday of infirmities at McFarland Nursing Home in Rolla, Mo. She was 86 years old. She is survived by three sons, Col. Daniel Kennedy of the United States Geological Survey in Rolla, William of Denver, Colo., and John of St. Louis.

Our sad-faced friend is Bill McGoo,
Who thought he'd bought a car brand-new;
And while he got a "special deal"
His disappointment he can't conceal!
While others drive in Swept-Wing style
Poor Bill just mutters curses vile:
"They got new styling, features, too—
"I bought a 'deal'—boo-hoo, boo-hoo!"

Moral: Yesterday's looks and features are no bargain at any price!

No car is a bargain if it's obsolete in styling and engineering features. And the Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field with its low, low look of tomorrow and revolutionary advances like Torsion-Aire Ride, Push-Button TorqueFlite and Total-Contact Brakes. So don't get "bargain-talked" into yesterday's styling and features. The same money buys the car that's years ahead. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge.

MRS. TERU SATOW of Tokyo displaying a bolt of silk at Japan merchandise show which opened today at Hotel Statler.

2000-ITEM EXHIBIT OF MADE-IN-JAPAN GOODS OPENS HERE

About 2000 items of Japanese merchandise, including a cigarette lighter that plays "O Suzanna," went on display today at Hotel Statler.

The exhibit also includes a woman's compact that plays a Japanese song and artificial flowers made of feathers. For childern or adults there is a steam shovel which is operated by remote control.

More than 20 different kinds of silk are on display, Mrs. Teru Satow of Tokyo, advertising manager of Lovable Brassieres of Japan, Ltd., said.

The merchandise show, sponsored by six Japanese cities, will continue through Thursday. It will be open to the public from 4 to 6 p.m. each day starting tomorrow.

The Japan Export Trade Recovery Organization helped to organize the display which has already been seen in Chicago and will also be shown in New Orleans, Houston and Dallas.

ARMOR ARCHBOLD, U.S. OIL EXECUTIVE, DIES IN SCOTLAND

OBAN, Scotland, July 22 (AP) — Armor Archbold, wealthy American oil man, died here yesterday at the age of 48. He was stricken Friday, a few hours after announcing his engagement to the Countess of Seafield.

The countess, one of Britain's wealthiest women, and Mr. Archbold planned to be married in New York next New Year's day. The 51-year-old countess was with her husband-to-be when he collapsed aboard the yach Torlundy off the Hebrides. They had set out on cruise with friends after announcing their engagement.

The yacht raced for this port and Mr. Archbold was taken ashore to a hospital. A doctor said he suffered a stomach hemorrhage. Mr. Archbold was connected with Standard Oil Co. His father, the late John D. Archbold, was president of Standard.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. JAMES M'BURNEY

Funeral services for Mrs. James E. McBurney, wife of the chief engineer for Owens-Illinois Glass Co., were held today in Maumee, O. Burial will be tomorrow at St. Peters Cemetery, here.

Mrs. McBurney died in Maumee Saturday. She lived in Alton until about two years ago when her husband's company transferred its engineering headquarters to Toledo, O.

MARGARET'S NEW FAVORITE ESCORT 'EXILED' TO CYPRUS

LONDON, July 22 (UP)—Lord Patrick Beresford, currently the favorite escort of Princess Margaret in the current season, has been transferred to Cyprus.

He is the second of the Princess's friends to be sent abroad. The first was Group Capt. Peter Townsend who was named air attache at the British embassy in Brussels when news of their romance filled the gossip columns. Beresford's "exile" brought the comment from the London Daily Express today that "being a friend of the princess seems to be a qualification these days for a ticket to far off places."

The 23-year-old Beresford, nearly four years Margaret's junior, is a lieutenant in the Royal Horse Guards regiment. British sources said his assignment abroad will solve a palace problem because constant association of his name with the princess has caused acute embarrassment.

Informed sources said the "exile" of Beresford and that of Townsend was far different. Townsend was sent to Brussels because strict British royal protocol forbids royal marriages with divorced persons. Beresford remains highly eligible. He is young, handsome, titled and there is no taint of divorce.

KENNETH ROBERTS, NOTED AUTHOR, DIES

Wrote 'Northwest Passage' and Other Historical Novels.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., July 22—Kenneth Roberts, author of "Northwest Passage" and other historical novels, died yesterday at his home. His niece, Miss Marjorie Mosser, said he "had not felt good for several weeks." She gave the cause of death as coronary thrombosis. He was 71 years old.

Mr. Roberts, author of 26 books, including eight novels, was a successful newspaper and magazine writer before his fifth novel, "Northwest Passage," brought him his first best seller in 1937. He wrote three other novels after it—"Oliver Wiswell", "Lydia Bailey" and "Boon Island," but none of them approached the fame of "Northwest Passage."

In "Northwest Passage," as in all his historical novels, Mr. Roberts labored for complete accuracy. He spent three years of research to establish the authenticity of the novel's background in the period of the French and Indian wars, 1754-63. He regarded existing histories of the era as "slovenly" and based his novel on historical documents.

Earlier Novels.

Critics also had high praise for Mr. Roberts's "Arundel," "Rabble in Arms," "The Lively Lady" and "Captain Caution," which preceded "Northwest Passage" as well as for the novels which followed it.

Last May Mr. Roberts received a special citation from the Pulitzer Prize Award Committee "for his historical novels which have long contributed to the creation of greater interest in our early American history."

Mr. Roberts wrote at a steady pace of 1200 to 2000 words a day, keeping regular business hours but saving plenty of time for his hot-tempered feuds with politicians and historians. His private "causes" included the water-dowsing powers of Henry Gross, to which he devoted two books: "Henry Gross and His Dowsing Rod" and "The Seventh Sense."

In his autobiography, "I wanted to write," published in 1949, he describes writing as "the only form of expression that becomes increasingly painful and difficult the more one knows about it."

In World War I.

He was born in Kennebunk, Me., and was graduated from Cornell University in 1908. For eight years, he was a reporter, special writer and humor columnist for the Boston Post. He worked briefly for "Puck and Life before joining the Army in World War I to become a captain in the intelligence section of the Siberian Expeditionary Force.

He became a correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post, resigning in 1930 to write "Arundel." Most of his novels were serialized in that magazine.

He recently completed proofreading of his latest book, "Water Unlimited," which dealt with dowsing.

Several of Mr. Roberts's ancesters fought in the American revolution, and family stories of their activities helped to turn him toward historical writing.

CROWD WELCOMES SCOUTS RETURNING FROM JAMBOREE

About 350 tanned, excited and happy Jamboree Scouts arrived at Union Station yesterday and were warmly greeted by their parents, brothers, and sisters.

The large welcoming crowd also included a five-piece Explorer Scout band, which was serenaded in turn by the St. Louis Scout band which returned with the group from the Jamboree.

As the Scouts began coming through the gate into the concourse, it became obvious that Jamboree "swapping" was not merely an empty tradition. Most Scouts carried twice their weight in duffel bags and luggage, much of it crammed with "swaps" and mementos of their 17-day trip.

The only hitch in the festivities was the two-hour delay of the train, which was detoured around a train wreck in Indiana. But there was general agreement among Scouts and parents that two hours made little difference after a full 17 days of adventure at Valley Forge, Pa.

'NAUGHTY MARIETTA' AT OPERA TONIGHT

Victor Herbert Musical to Be Revived Ninth Time in Park.

Victor Herbert's classic musical "Naughty Marietta," with its full complement of well-known songs, will be revived for the ninth time at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Municipal Opera in Forest Park.

The story, laid in the New Orleans of the 1780s, concerns a captain of American rangers and an escaped countess. Songs include "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Italian Street Song," "I'm Falling in Love With Someone," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," and "March, March Along the Highway."

Peggy Bonini, who starred last year in "The Great Waltz," will head the cast as Marietta, along with Brian Sullivan, Metropolitan Opera tenor, who will play the ranger captain Dick Warrington.

Jack Goode, a Municipal Opera veteran of 16 years, will appear as Silas Slick. Other principals in the cast include Dorothy Greener as Lizette, Jean Sanders as Adah, Jon Silo as Rudolpho, and Robert Eckles as Lt. Gov. Grandet.

Melissa Hayden, a member of the New York City Ballet Company, will appear as premier danseuse. The book and lyrics of the play, last here in 1952, were written by Rida Johnson Young.

Tickets are available at the Municipal Opera box office in Forest Park, and at the Arcade building ticket office. Prices are 75 cents, $1.25, $2, $2.75, and box seats, $3.50.

MRS. SARAH ROLLINGS DIES, MOTHER OF LABOR LEADERS

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah E. Rollings, mother of two St. Louis labor officials, will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church at Spokane, Mo., with burial in the Spokane Cemetery.

Mrs. Rollings died yesterday of heart disease at a Spokane hospital. She was 75 years old. Her husband John W. Rollings, a retired farmer, died about two months ago. She had been a Democratic precinct committeewoman in South Galloway Township, Christian County. Two of her sons are John I. Rollings, president of the AFL-CIO Missouri State Labor Council, and Robert A. Rollings, president of the St. Louis Barbers Union Local 102.

Other survivors are seven sons, Jake F., Burl D., William P., Edward C., Neil N. Lemond and Lewis; and three daughters, Mrs. Cora Saltzman, Mrs. Rose Botalfson, and Miss Bertha E. Rollings.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

That's Eads Bridge

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

We read Dr. John Kouwenhoven's story in the June 7 Post-Dispatch "The Author Takes a Look at Eads Bridge Story."

In accordance with his request for further information for a book he is writing, we are pleased to furnish him with this information.

The Eads Bridge saw the decline of the great river steamboat traffic, which helped to make St. Louis great. In its prime, during the '50s, there were three rows of steamboats lined up side by side for over a mile on the St. Louis levee, taking on and disgorging freight.

The old St. Louis levee gave W. C. Handy the inspiration to write "The St. Louis Blues," now known and sung all over the world.

Eads Bridge saw the era when the horse-drawn vehicles were replaced by the automobile. Thousands of horse-drawn wagons and trucks crossed its top deck every day, hauling coal, freight, and wares from east to west and vice versa.

The bridge saw the demise of the great trolley electric street railways, which crisscrossed the states of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. The west end of the bridge was the terminus of many lines.

It saw the transition of the steam locomotive to the diesel engine. No locomotive was too heavy for the bridge to hold.

It felt the ravages of the great St. Louis cyclone of May 27, 1896, one of the worst tornadoes to strike any place in the U.S.A. It stood like a great oak during this storm. Its east approach was damaged and scarred but this soon wore off and was forgotten. The great giant was as it has always been.

The writer was born and raised within a stone's throw of the bridge. It always was and always will be a source of charm and magic to me, right down through the 72 years of my life, and longer, I hope.

During my boyhood, I played on the levee under the tall arches of the bridge. When the river was frozen over, I walked on the ice around all of its piers. I marveled at the huge chunks of granite that made up its foundations. As a young man, I worked on the lead-covered telephone cables strung on the side of the bridge, walked the trestle from one approach of the bridge to the other, worked in the great tunnel at the west end of the bridge. This tunnel runs underneath the downtown busy streets of St. Louis, out into its railroad yards.

The more I know about this old bridge, the more I love it.

In the Cool of the A.M.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The joys of daylight "saving" time. Oh how we love to get up in the morning—5:20, sun time, just when it gets cool enough to sl-e-e-e-p.

Oh, and at 4 o'clock (by the sun), to be decanted from an air-conditioned building into the molten stream headed home.

Some future generation may learn to conform to a sensible living pattern to fit our St. Louis climate, and not try to buck it. Or to build a plastic dome from Granite City to Gray Summit. HOPEFUL.

University and Armory

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Mildred Weiler writes in to denounce St. Louis University's offer to buy the Armory on Grand avenue. She calls it a "grab," insinuates that the university would rob us of public property, and implies that the city's finances would in some way suffer.

Now if the university buys the Armory for $100,000, will the city be richer or poorer for the deal? Is anyone willing to pay more? Is the Armory profit-making, or a drain on the public till?

How is the public benefitted by the Armory—a hideous blot in an already blotty landscape? But St. Louis University maintains almost 25 clinics that give medical service to thousands of people for nothing, or next to nothing. In contradistinction to socialized medicine, this costs the taxpayers nothing.

Now the university intends to expand its humanitarian services—which have helped make St. Louis one of the country's medical centers—by buying up an unwanted eyesore for $100,000, which it can ill-afford (thank God for the thoroughly capitalistic Ford Foundation).

Stop and think: the city benefits more from the university than the university does from the city.

Rep. Curtis on Fallout

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have had called to my attention a letter by Ann Rice Ludlow which appeared in this space July 2, under the heading "Fallout Not a Red Scare."

That letter contained an unjustified and slanderous statement about me, i.e., "I would like to say to Mr. Curtis that I am not impressed by the guilt by association implication of groups who might by chance share the viewpoint of the Communists."

I made no such implication of guilt by association in my remarks to which Mrs. Ludlow refers and partially quotes. Quite the contrary. I closed my discussion of atomic fallout with this sentence: "The matter will continue to remain a serious one, however, and even though we know the Communists are waging a propaganda war on it, the matter cannot be dismissed in such a negative fashion."

THOMAS B. CURTIS,
United States Representative, Second Missouri District.
Washington.

Brickers and the Bombs

A dozen years ago the nations, friendly and unfriendly, were shocked by the "mystery" bomb which demolished Hiroshima. It was used to end the slaughter of World War II, to win the peace which otherwise might have been achieved only at the cost of far more lives than were taken by the bomb.

But Hiroshima was only the beginning of the nuclear era. This already has worked vast changes in world politics and in the minds of men. For a time, our exclusive possession of the new weapon was a reassurance. Even when Russian scientists made it available to the Kremlin, it remained a deterrent. At least men might have, in the phrase of Winston Churchill, peace through terror. Yet few would live gladly in a world in which the nuclear sword of Damocles hangs not over one head, but over all.

Enrico Fermi and the other physicists under the University of Chicago grandstand, however, gave mankind more than the black fear of universal cataclysm. They also open unmeasured possibilities for the exploitation of nature and for the betterment of lives which again seemed destined to be short and brutish. There is redemption from catastrophe: the power need not be used for death; it can be made to serve life.

This always has been the hope of those most closely associated with nuclear energy—scientists like Niels Bohr and statesmen like the late Senator McMahon. The cold war has been an obstacle. But even in the early days of the AEC, under David Lilienthal, radioactive isotopes were sent abroad to aid medical research.

President Eisenhower in 1953 suggested the formation of a United Nations atoms-for-peace agency. This was done, and the Senate last month ratified American participation. But the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committe now would forbid the President to allocate American nuclear materials to this co-operative agency without approval of Congress. The State Department is stunned. This could keep the United States out of the effort. Why did the committee strike out against man's hope?

Somehow, it allowed itself to be led by Senator Bricker of Ohio. He raised the old fear that we might be tricked into helping the Communists. Yet who can still believe that the United States enjoys some unbreakable, basic "secret" about nuclear energy? The Russians have demonstrated their knowledge. So have the British. The six nations of continental Europe are launching a common atomic program. Indeed, only poverty can keep a nation from exploiting the 12-year-old discovery.

Senator Bricker also urged that only Congress has a constitutional right to dispose of the assets of the United States. But surely Congress should not try to shape the day-in, day-out activities of the atoms-for-peace agency. It should authorize the Executive to delegate this to suitable experts.

What really seems to motivate Senator Bricker is a stubborn atavism, the same emotional drive behind his efforts to destroy the President's treaty power, a desire to bend the President—and the world—to a backward minority.

The 14-2 committee vote in favor of Bricker's proposal—only Representative Melvin Price of Illinois and Representative Sterling Cole of New York opposed it—seems to suggest that this is a majority view. The committee, howver, is far from being the whole Congress. That was demonstrated by the Senate's ratification of the atoms-for-peace agreement. So there is hope that Congress will not adopt implementing legislation which might make this a nullity.

The world has the bombs and their terror. It hungers for the advances which alone can offset that terror. And no nation dare follow mastadon minds down the way of the mastadon.

What the Press Wants

Secretary of State Dulles should have known that his offer to lift his bar a bit on American reporters going to Communist China would not be satisfactory. There was no reason at all to hope that his offer to allow a limited number of reporters to enter Red China for six months might be snapped up. But his 90-minute parley with five representatives of news media should by now have convinced him that he will have to make a much better offer.

The chances for reaching an agreement still exist. The next step is a State Department survey intended to learn how many organizations want to be represented and on what terms. It is a very good assumption that the State Department will find that all organizations which want correspondents in Red China want them to be unrestricted except under military necessity.

By now Secretary Dulles should have a far better concept of the American press than he had when he inflicted his bar a year ago. His rigid stand at that time made clear that he felt it was his right to abridge the freedom of the press and to use the press as an instrument of diplomacy. Such concepts are abhorrent to the press in any democracy. A reporter in a democracy does not serve the Government. He exists to inform—with complete objectivity—the American people.

Back to Normal

Now that Miss Universe has been shakily crowned and Miss-Mrs. America has wept her last tears we can go back to mundane things like the civil rights filibuster, the argument over an invitation to Marshal Zhukov and the necessity for getting out the vote for a new Charter for St. Louis.

Olympian Nonsense

The illogical fear of things foreign, as expressed in United States immigration policy, produces some of its major absurdities in the field of sports. Witness Avery Brundage's war with the State Department.

Mr. Brundage is chairman of the International Olympic Committee. He is also an American. As Olympic chairman, he is supposed to attend a meeting of the committee in Bulgaria in September. But as an American, he was not supposed to go to Bulgaria because the United States does not recognize the Bulgarian Government. Mr. Brundage finally won a State Department dispensation to go to Bulgaria, but he is not through with the officials.

A similar situation exists, in reverse, with regard to the 1960 Winter Olympics, scheduled for Squaw Valley, Calif. Athletes from Red China, Bulgaria and Albania all would be barred from entering the United States, though all three countries may engage in Olympic games.

Then there is the fingerprinting business. Under our immigration law, athletes from foreign countries—in fact, all foreign visitors—are supposed to be fingerprinted before entry into the United States. Russia recently canceled a proposed track meet with an American team partly because of objections to this fingerprinting condition. Russia does not require fingerprints of visitors, distrustful as Moscow is. Europeans tend to regard fingerprinting as an indignity imposed only on criminals.

The world of sports is one which belongs, of course, to the whole world. Italians, Russians and Indians all read sports pages. What happens in connection with a few athletic events may not be too important, but when these happenings give the Communists a ready-made propaganda line against America, that is important. And even if the Communists do not say so, Washington's seeming distrust of foreign skiers and hurdlers is downright silly. Here is one more reason to reform immigration policy.

Modernizing Municipal Business

The City of St. Louis is a corporation whose principal business is municipal service. In return for a fee (taxes), the city provides such diverse services as fire protection, drinking water, traffic engineering, planning, hospitals, parks and airport facilities, among many, many others. The municipal corporation is a vast complex of businesses, some only remotely related.

As with any giant corporation, the city's efficiency is dependent in large measure on its organization. Proper organization is essential to smooth and economical operation of its many parts. And where this is lacking—as it is in St. Louis today—municipal business is carried on in an atmosphere of forced inefficiency. That means the municipal corporation is more costly to operate than it ought to be.

The present City Charter, written in 1914, did not contemplate municipal activity in operating health clinics, collecting rubbish, inspecting restaurants, checking milk supplies or traffic enginering. When the need arose for the city to operate in these fields, the new activity was assigned to one of the existing agencies, some of which now are unmanageably large.

The proposed new City Charter would produce a much-needed and long-overdue reorganization of the administrative departments and other agencies that operate municipal services. It sets up 10 major departments that match today's areas of municipal business. Each of the 10 departments would be headed by a qualified director; advisory commissions of citizen members are attached to six of these departments. The Mayor would be directly responsible to the voters for the operation of the municipal corporation. If it did not function to their satisfaction they could dismiss him.

Typical of the reorganization under the new Charter is what has been done with the unwieldly Department of Public Welfare, which currently handles such diverse business as hospitals and the City Workhouse, rat control and recreation. The new Charter abolishes this department and in its place creates three new departments: Health and Hospitals, Parks and Recreation, and Welfare. Thus the Charter paves the way for making each of these activities more manageable and therefore more efficient.

City government in St. Louis now is unwieldly, old-fashioned and excessively costly. The remedy is to reorganize and modernize along lines of the new Charter. This is the essential preliminary to assuring the best in municipal service for each tax dollar laid out. St. Louisans who want to get their money's worth from the city will approve the new Charter Aug. 6.

Windermere as a Microcosm

A most interesting story of racial integration in St. Louis, going back several years, was told in the Sunday Post-Dispatch in an article reprinted from The New Leader of New York. It described the arrival of the first Negro families in Windermere place, off Union boulevard, three to four years ago, and the experiment that has been in process since in which owners of the property in the private place meet for business and social purposes as neighbors with common concerns in the character and condition of their neighborhood.

The article necessarily told the story of the West End Community Conference which began its activities two years ago in an effort to prevent the deterioriation that so often accompanies racial change in residential areas. The conference, under informed as well as determined leadership, appointed committees on zoning and real estate and other aspects of the problem. Housewives worked with their business-men husbands at night on plans and execution. Slowly they began to achieve results.

One of the most encouraging of these results is the designation of a 150-block segment of the West End as a "conservation project" area. This means that the section will receive a face-lifting over a two-year period with help from the municipal bond issue. But the story of the "holding action" on Windermere place deserves to be read in its entirety. For that group of old homes, set back among their trees, is a microcosm that all St. Louis needs to know about and understand.

Plain Talk to the President

The kind of voice President Eisenhower has often said he wants to hear has spoken to him from the Tennessee valley.

It is the voice of people making decisions about their future in their own local communities, and taking the initiative to bring that future about.

Some of the electric systems in the Tennessee valley belong to municipalities. Some of them belong to co-operatives owned by farmers and other non-profit-making groups of citizens. All distribute TVA electricity.

The municipal systems came about because the people in their own local communities decided to own their own systems and issue the bonds to finance them. They made these decisions in free and democratic elections.

The co-op systems came about because these other American citizens made the same decision, and borrowed the money to carry it out.

Now these municipal and co-op systems serve some 6,000,000 customers. They are banded together in the Tennessee Valley Public Power Association. And the association, speaking with the voice of local decision and local self-help, tells President Eisenhower it does not like his choice of Arnold R. Jones for the second vacancy on the TVA board.

The association points out that it is in partnership with TVA and that its member systems have half a billion dollars invested in it.

It does not therefore want to see anything go wrong with its source of supply. And it is concerned lest Mr. Jones might be something wrong.

It feels that a TVA board member should be better qualified, that the people should know more about him. Moreover, Mr. Jones "knows little or nothing about the TVA itself." The valley association is fearful Mr. Jones may be hostile to TVA, since he is deputy director of the hostile Budget Bureau, and is the hand-picked choice of Presidential Assistant Adams, No. 1 foe of public power.

The President must know how important it will be to his new TVA director to have the confidence and support of the people he must work among. And as we said before, he has spoken repeatedly and with evident feeling of his deference to "the people, locally," making their own decisions in their own communities.

His handling of the Jones appointment will show how these principles are put into practice.

ANTI-CHARTER WHISPERS

Press on Alaska-Hawaii Statehood

Hartford (Conn.) Times

Both Alaska and Hawaii deserve statehood. They are important factors in our national economy and should be allowed their just place in our political life.

The Los Angeles Examiner

Prolonged injustice has attended our national handling of this matter.

The consequence has been that the condition of second-class American citizenship has been imposed upon the people of these flourishing and vital territories, a rank injustice to them and a grave discredit to the American people as a whole.

St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times

Alaska, where thousands of American citizens are carving out the future of a last frontier, has been administered almost like a colony for 89 years. The citizens of the territory have shown their desire for true self-government by electing two "senators" and a "representative" to press the statehood case before Congress.

Macon (Ga.) News

The Alaska Statehood Committee says that disenfranchised American citizens in Alaska are living in a status almost identical to that endured by American colonists prior to the revolution. They pay taxes but are unable to vote for the President or Governor. They supply members of the armed forces but are without voting representation in the Congress. In other words, it is the old story of taxation without representation.

Salina (Kan.) Journal

The overriding issue is whether peoples who are willy-nilly irrevocably tied to the destiny of the United States should not be entitled to a voice in directing that destiny.

Louisville Courier-Journal

If Alaska does not acquire statehood at the hands of this Congress, something will have gone out of the old American fealty to the brave, the bold and the resolute.

Boston Herald

It's time that the fine promises of election became something more than shameful campaign oratory. The knocking has grown so loud that America cannot afford to listen with a deaf and partisan ear.

Duluth (Minn.) Herald

Both parties have pledged their support of statehood for the two territories. It will always be possible for someone to imagine a disadvantage to one party, the other, or both, in the addition of four members to the Senate.

We can survive control of the Senate by one party or the other, since that is the normal state of affairs. We cannot be so calm about anything which causes disillusionment as to the common honesty of two vital partners in government, our major parties.

Portland (Me.) Press-Journal

There may be other issues in Alaska, but the one that counts is statehood. Alaskans have clearly demonstrated their capacity for statehood. Statehood appears to be a question not of whether but of when. And that goes for Hawaii too.

Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune

The Tribune favors admission of Alaska to statehood without further delay. This, we believe, is also the desire of a substantial majority of Montanans. Montana legislative sessions have on more than one occasion passed resolutions urging federal enactment of Alaskan statehood. Our present Montana representation in the United States Senate and House can be counted on to give active support to the Alaskan petitioners.

Claremont (N.H.) Eagle

There are few good reasons for continued refusal to admit these territories to the Union of States and to grant them full representation. Here's hoping that the incoming Eighty-fifth Congress may have the honor of conferring the statehood so long and so unjustly denied.

New York Times

Gov. Gruening and many others have repeatedly pointed to the discrimination under which Alaska suffers in respect to two of its vital interests: transportation and the salmon fisheries. Achievement of statehood would end the special-interest exploitation that keeps shipping costs unduly high and that deprives the territory of control over its dwindling salmon catch. Even more important, it would give to a vigorous body of Americans—over 160,000 of them—the right to that full participation in our democracy that has been denied them far too long.

Cincinnati Post

Charlotte (N.C.) Observer

Alaska has all the qualifications of statehood. The argument about remoteness has been disposed of by modern transportation and communication. The chief remaining objection is political, which ought not to be valid.

Pittsburgh Telegraph

Inaction and indecision, delay and procrastination have too long kept Alaska and Hawaii out of the American union and their people in a condition of second-class American citizenship, and the remedy of this injustice should be high on the schedule of the new Congress.

Portland (Ore.) Journal

The loyal residents of these two territories are conscripted without representation. They pay for federal-aid highways, but do not get them. They are bound by legal and commercial fetters. They have more than served their apprenticeship and should become full-fledged American citizens.

Grafton (W. Va.) Sentinel

There should be no further delay in adding them to the roster of states.

Mitchell (S.D.) Republic

If the American people could vote on the question of statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, we believe that the proposition would receive overwhelming approval.

The ruling consideration in this matter should be the fact that America would be better off with Alaska and Hawaii in the Union and that the citizens of those territories have richly earned and are rightly entitled to membership in the American family of states.

San Antonio (Tex.) Light

Alaska and Hawaii in the Union will give military and economic strength to the nation, enhance American prestige throughout the world and attest the solidarity of all our people.

News-Virginian, Waynesboro, Va.

The preponderant majority of average citizens favors statehood for Alaska now. But statehood remains a political football in Congress. Effective lobbying, appalling ignorance and selfish disinterest and a desire to maintain a status quo in the Congress—these are the real impedimenta.

Every tenet of American democracy calls for granting statehood to Alaska—the last of our frontiers. Now is the time to speak courageously for freedom, liberty and man's individual dignity.

Nashville Banner

Surely by now the majority sentiment for Alaskan statehood is self-evident; the justice of it, the desirability of it as a practical tie with the Union of which it is a part; and the importance of it in view of Alaska's essential relation to national and hemispheric security. Resting on its merits, the case has sufficient justification to press to swift consummation."

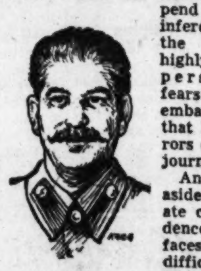
Power for Power's Sake

A HISTORY OF SOVIET RUSSIA, by George von Rauch. (Praeger, 493 pgs., $6.75.)

In spite of the widely prevalent interest in the Soviet Union, no American scholar has attempted to trace in detail its over-all development from 1917 to the present. The best account thus far ("From Lenin to Malenkov," also published by Praeger), is part of a history of world Communism, by Hugh Seton-Watson, an Englishman. Our first full-length history solely of the Soviet Union now comes to us via translation from Germany.

Any serious scholar would be reluctant to attempt what von Rauch has done. The professional historian likes to start his interpretation only after an agreeable amount of documentation is available. It is true that the sources of information about the USSR at least until 1928 are much more extensive than is commonly believed. But from then on the historian must depend so much on inference and upon the testimony of highly prejudiced persons that he fears he may be embarking upon that horror of horrors of this trade—journalism.



Stalin

And even putting aside his inveterate caution on evidence, the historian faces an extremely difficult and time-taking enterprise. A spate of controversial materials and monographs in many languages must be studied without the advantage of much hindsight and of ideological distance. The conscientious historian knows that no matter what he writes, he cannot completely satisfy himself and will certainly arouse the objections of many, ranging from McCarthyites at one extreme to orthodox Leninists at the other.

Prof. von Rauch's ideological involvement appears greater than Seton-Watson's, and his account thus far less balanced. Von Rauch's hostility to the Soviet Union and to Communism is expressed by an all-pervading emphasis on its shortcomings. He is at his best in dealing with the struggle for power within the Community party and between the party and its enemies at home and abroad. Such pre-occupation with power gives us a picture of a movement led by men devoid of idealism or any legitimate self-interest.

According to von Rauch, the primary task of the Five-Year Plans, begun in 1928, was to render the USSR independent of foreign powers, not to improve the lot of workers and peasants. From 1935 industry was advanced by the "merciless exploitation of human labor." Agriculture, von Rauch contends, was simultaneously collectivized to consolidate Stalin's power, since his party rivals then believed in small private production, including peasant farming. All Five-Year Plans led to a "pauperization" of the masses. "A show of improvement but no true rise in the living standard of workers has been brought about."

In spite of the limits to von Rauch's work, it is high time for such a study. It is too one-sided, in this reviewer's opinion, to lead us to adequate value judgments, but the disagreeable story of power for power's sake must be accounted for in any conclusions we do reach. HAROLD E. HAYE.

The Mile in 1:55

THE DAN PATCH STORY, by Fred A. Sasse. (Stackpole, 172 pgs., $3.95.)

As every oldtimer who ever held a rein or went to the race track knows, Dan Patch was a horse, a wonderful, handsome, brave and pampered pacer who made the mile in 1:55. And one reason Dan Patch was so famous was that his owner, M. W. Savage, let no stone go unturned in doing things for, and exhibiting, Dan Patch.

Hebert's Big Gamble Pays Off—He Beats Finsterwald for PGA Title

He Likely Will Make Cup Team

DAYTON, O., July 22 (UP)—The biggest gamble 29-year-old Lionel Hebert ever made has paid off with the Professional Gold Association championship.

The golfer from Louisiana's Bayou country gave up his job as a club pro at Erie, Pa., a year ago, determined "to make a name for myself." He did it yesterday when he defeated Dow Finsterwald, 27, of Athens, O., 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final match for $8000 first-place money.

And he did it like a champion too. Having breakfast with his brother, Jay, who is five years older, Wednesday before teeing off in the first round, he promised "I'm going to win this one."

"I sort of apologized to Jay, too," Lionel said. "After all, I started out in this game using his beaten-up old driver when I was a kid. So I told him "It's too bad you aren't going to win—because I am."

Jay finished seventh—a difference of $6500.

"But I owe anything I'll ever be in golf to Jay," Hebert added. "He encouraged me and kept me going."

First Big Title for Either.

Jay never has won a national title; Lionel now has one. And he won it in a tournament in which such stars as Sam Snead, Jackie Burke, Doug Ford, Gene Littler and Ed Furgol couldn't even make the quarter-finals. Lionel is almost certain of a place on the Ryder Cup team, which will play Britain's top pros in October. Jay probably won't make it.

Driving well and using a putter which he picked up only after arriving in Dayton Monday, Lionel was six under par as he closed out the lanky Finsterwald yesterday over the sun-baked 6773-yard Miami Valley golf course.

Admitting he was "a little nervous" on the first tee as he went up to Finsterwald to wish him good luck, he drove into the rough to the right. Dow, who replied "I'm a little nervous, too," drove into the rough to the left.

But they both wound up with birdies and it wasn't until the third hole, when Hebert trapped his approach, that either gained an advantage. That 1-up edge for Finsterwald lasted until the eighth where Finsterwald three-putted for a bogey 4, then the chunky, dark-haired Hebert went 1 up on the ninth with a birdie as he spun his approach shot eight feet from the pin and rammed it in. That gave him a one under par going out, the same as Finsterwald, because of that bogey on the third.

On the second nine they matched par for halves until the sixteenth where Finsterwald put his approach a foot from the pin for a winning birdie. When they halved the next two holes, they finished the morning 18 all even, Finsterwald with a 3-under-par 68, Hebert with a 69.

Three Straight Birdies.

Then came a stretch of birdie golf that paid off for Hebert. He birdied the nineteenth, twentieth and twenty-first holes to go three up. Finsterwald had hit the rough on the nineteenth. Hebert sank a 20-foot putt on the twentieth and a three-footer on the 598-yard twenty-first after putting his eleven-iron approach to within three feet of the cup.

"Those three winning holes gave me a world of confidence, and also a margin for error," Hebert explained later. "And I made a couple of errors when I lost the next two holes, but luckily I got back on the beam in time."

Finsterwald went on to win the next two holes, cutting his deficit to 1 down. He won the twenty-second with an eight-foot birdie putt and the twenty-third when Hebert three-putted. They halved the next four holes, putting Hebert out in 34, two under par, and Finsterwald in 35.

Finsterwald evened the match when Hebert trapped his approach on the thirtieth. But on the 145-yard thirty-first, Hebert put his eight-iron tee shot 18 feet from the cup and sank the putt. Finsterwald, also using an eight iron, was 15 feet away and missed the putt.

Hebert Plays It Safe.

Both birdied the next two holes but Hebert made it 2 up at the thirty-fourth when Finsterwald drove into the rough and put his second under a foot bridge. Although given a free lift, Finsterwald was too strong with his third, while Hebert was on in two and two-putted for his par. But Dow chipped past the pin and missed the putt. That put Hebert 2 up with only two holes to go.

Hebert, deciding "I'll play it safe," used a five iron on the 170-yard par-3 thirty-fifth. "I'd been using a six iron before, but decided to choke a five for I figured if I put the ball on the green and two putted, I'd close it out."

As it turned out, he did just that. Finsterwald's tee shot went over the green about two feet. He chipped on to within four feet. Hebert's first putt was three feet short, but after Dow sank his four-footer, Lionel canned his for victory.

Red All-Stars Rally To Defeat Blues, 6-5

The Red Division, scoring four runs in the home ninth after the Blues broke a 2-2 tie with three in their half, gained a 6-5 triumph in the annual Inter-City baseball league all-star game yesterday at Troy. Howard Etherton broke up the game with a three-run triple.

The Lecces and Troy Red Crowns, made up of players from the 1933 squads, tied, 4-4, in a three-inning preliminary.

Here is putt giving LIONEL HEBERT a 2-1 victory over DOW FINSTERWALD and the Professional Golfers Association championship at the thirty-fifth hole of a sub-par duel over the Miami Valley course at Dayton, O. In the next sequence, the winner tosses his cap and salutes the crowd. Finsterwald then congratulates him as spectators move in—and Lionel's brother, JAY—left in final photo—is among them. Lionel was a 100-1 shot at the start of the tournament.

Both Thoman-Boothe and Aubuchon Knocked Out of Legion Baseball Tourney

By John J. Archibald

Both St. Louis area teams involved in the state-wide phase of the American Legion Junior baseball tournament were knocked out of competition in weekend games. Aubuchon-Dennison of St. Louis lost two out of three games to Shelbina at Hannibal, and Thoman-Boothe of Overland went out in two straight losses to Washington, Mo.

The folks in Washington feel their baseball honor has been avenged.

Just two months ago a team from Washington's St. Francis Borgia High fought its way to the state high school final, only to be beaten by Ritenour of Overland. Now, another Washington club, containing some of the players from the St. Francis Borgia team, has knocked out a Thoman-Boothe team that was built largely around state champion Ritenour, including that squad's pitching staff. Last year it was high school champion Beaumont players who helped Stockham Post win national legion honors. Ritenour had hoped to duplicate that feat.

But, the Washington team followed up its come-from-behind victory Saturday with a 1-0 triumph yesterday on the Maplewood field. Ken Dyson, 16-year-old curve-baller who had pitched and won only once previously for the Legion team, had the Thomans beating the ball into the ground all afternoon as he scattered four hits.

Washington Coach Henry Voss, in his pre-game plans, had considered bringing in Saturday's 4-3 winner, Gerry Wehmueller, if his team had a lead in the late innings, but Dyson turned out to be even more baffling to Overland than Wehmueller had been.

Wildness Beats Gurley.

Thoman-Boothe won nine of its 10 games in the county's Legion league. On five occasions the Overland squad had to tie or score the winning run in the ninth inning, but the generally strong pitching in the county was expected to make early tournament play easier by comparison.

Lefthander Harry Gurley, who had pitched so splendidly in key high school and Legion games, again baffled enemy batters, but a spell of wildness in the fourth inning gave Washington a run, and that's all the visitors needed.

After retiring the leadoff batter in the fourth, Gurley walked Jim Wunderlich. The situation seemed in hand when Bob Dieckhaus forced Wunderlich at second, but Jim Coons then singled—one of the three hits Gurley permitted. Bill Coons, Jim's brother, walked to load the bases. That brought up Dyson, and after working the count to 3 and 2, Dyson walked, forcing in Dieckhaus.

Gurley retired Jim Voss on a fly ball and ran his string of consecutive outs to 11. A walk to Ed Hambach and a hit by Tom Dill in the eighth then caused Coach Ed Evans to replace Gurley with Dick Burda, and Burda got out without any further difficulty.

Dyson in Control.

Thoman-Boothe had no scoring chances worth mentioning. Two of the hits were of the infield type. Dyson walked no one.

Bill Scerba, long-ball hitter who bats in the fifth spot even when pitching, sat out the game so he would be rested enough to pitch the third game of the series last night. Scerba was going to try to hurl a second time in as many days because the team's other starter, John Hollingsworth, was too ill even to dress for the game.

The third game never came, however. Washington swept here.

Women's Title To Fay Crocker And Miss Smith

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 22 (UP)—Fay Crocker and Marilynn Smith saved their lowest bid for the fourth round and shot an eight-under women's par 66 yesterday to win the Homestead women's four-ball golf championship.

Final standings and earnings:

Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., and Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif., 71-70-69-75—285—$1050.

Gloria Armstrong, Oakland, Calif., and Vonnie Colby, Hollywood, Fla., 70-73-74-75—292—$750.

Betty Dodd, Louisville, Ky., and Peggy Kirk Bell, Southern Pines, N. C., 70-74-75-75—294—$500.

Shelbina Hurler Fans 37 Aubuchon Batters

HANNIBAL, Mo., July 22—Either Aubuchon-Dennison batters were afflicted with astigmatism over the weekend or the Shelbina team has one of the greatest pitchers in American Legion Junior baseball annals.

Southpaw Larry May, in pitching Shelbina to its two victories over Aubuchon (one Saturday night and the other Sunday afternoon) fanned 37 batters. He didn't pitch the first game of the Sunday doubleheader, so the St. Louis Aubuchons won that one, 14-4.

In going out of the national tournament, Aubuchon lost the opening game of the series here, 6-5, won the first game Sunday and then lost to May, 5-4. May struck out 22 in his first game and 15 in the clincher.

Trailing, 4-0, in the eighth inning of the final and decisive game, Shelbina rallied for five runs to win. The collapse of Aubuchon pitcher Dick Werley was spectacular. He had allowed one hit and no runs for seven innings and looked like a sure winner. But in the eighth, he was pounded for three singles; he hit one batter and walked another before he was taken out. Mike Farris, who relieved him, hit two batters and gave up one single and Shelbina had all the runs it needed.

Shelbina now advances to the eastern Missouri playoffs at Ballwin, next Saturday and Sunday.

Buchholz Wins From McKinley In Title Match

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 22 (AP)—Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, and Judy Pilsbury of Daytona Beach, Fla., walked off with the big titles in the Kentucky junior invitational tennis tournament.

Miss Pilsbury, just turned 18 and ranked seventeenth nationally, surprised with her easy 6-1, 6-3 victory over Sue Hodgman, twelfth ranked girl from Kalamazoo, Mich., in the 18-and-under girls' singles.

Buchholz captured the boys' 18-and-under singles with a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 win over Chuck McKinley, also of St. Louis.

In the boys' 15-and-under singles, unseeded Dennis Ralson, Bakersfield, Calif., took just 45 minutes to polish off Hugh Lynch, Bethesda, Md., 6-1, 6-2.

Buchholz teamed with Eddie Sledge of Dallas, Tex., for a 6-4, 5-7, 8-6 win over Rudy Hernando, Modesto, Calif., and Richard Ogden, New Canaan, Conn., in the boys' 18-and-under doubles.

Two Kalamazoo, Mich., girls, Sue Hodgman and Sue Metzger, won 5-7, 9-7, 6-4 over Judy Hagan, Middletown, O., and Sandra Loubat, New Orleans, in the girls' 18-and-under doubles.

County Defeats City In Legion Star Game

County All-Stars pushed over a run without a hit in the tenth inning to defeat City All-Stars in the annual post-season American Legion Junior baseball game at Ballwin, Saturday night. The score was 6 to 5.

After Gary Ozment of County had twice driven in the runs that tied the score, in the eighth and ninth innings, City Stars lost in the tenth on a succession of mishaps. Pitcher Sterling Parson, of City opened by hitting a batter. Then, on an attempted sacrifice, all hands were safe when Parson's throw to second was late. The next batter sacrificed the runners to second and third. Parsons was removed but his successor, John Kieley unleased a wild pitch and the winning run scored.

Sam Cigno's two triples helped County's attack. . . . Bob Hardcastle tripled for City. . . . Each team collected 11 bases on balls. . . . About 400 persons watched the game under the lights.

Weekend Golf

Ties were the fashion at Algonquin. In a two-man team event, Herb Patton and John Sears and the team of Curt Vahle and Bob Rush tied at 134. In a mixed two-ball foursome Ralph Metcalf and Mrs. George Metcalfe, and Jack Bauman and Mrs. Russ Savage, tied for low gross with 80s. In the handicap competition, three teams tied with net scores of 63. They were Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stevenson, Jim Johnson and Mrs. Charles Moran, and Wes Nash and Mrs. Harvey Owen.

After a 20-year wait, Ben Neubeiser scored a hole-in-one again, the third in his 31 seasons of golf. Neubeiser made ace No. 3 at Glen Echo, using a three-iron on the 176-yard No. 6 hole. R. A. Kinsella was with him.

An 82 by Hope Anderson and Frank Crespi won the mixed two-ball foursome event at Normandie Golf Club. In handicap play, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sauer won with a 63.

DOWN THE STRETCH

by Herman Wecke

Off to Fast Start.

CLARENCE MEAUX, the Abbesville, La., jockey, who is seeking his fifth riding championship in the St. Louis area, got off to a fast start at Fairmount last Saturday night when he piloted three winners, including both firsts in the daily double.

This coupled with his two wins on closing night at Cahokia, gave him five firsts in two nights.

The 21-year-old rider, who was developed by Felix DeMary, the Orange, Tex., horseman, who until this year was a regular at the local tracks, rode his first winner at Fairmount, June 30, 1954. Since that time, Fairmount and Cahokia have really been kind to the Louisiana jockey, who passed up the Cahokia meet to ride at Chicago and Ohio tracks.

He hit his stride at Cahokia in 1954, when he won the jockey title at the East St. Louis Jockey Club track with 80 wins. He also won at Cahokia in 1955, winning 68 races. He topped the Fairmount riders in 1955 with 46 trips into the winner's circle and in 1956 with 76. Plagued by illness and injuries, he lost his title at Cahokia last fall, finishing with 43 firsts.

Thus, since he piloted his first winner, Meaux has been up on 318 winners at the two area courses.

Rode 6 Straight Winners.

HIS combined total of 114 in 1955, topped all riders in Illinois. His greatest feat came at Cahokia, Oct. 6, 1954, when he piloted six consecutive winners, starting with the fourth race. They were as follows: Subjected, $16.40 Screen Star, $6.40; Imperial War, $7.00; Freedom's Pride, $10.20; Ricco, $6.60, and Ripton, $7.

Meaux's victories Saturday night came with War Red and Vandanell, which made up a double worth $104.80 for $2 and Imurguy, $3.40. The victory for Imurguy, owned by Thurman Gammon, was the sixth in a row for the eight-year-old gelding. Previous to Saturday, he won one at Sunshine Park, Florida; three at Ascot, Ohio, and the other at Thistledown, Ohio. He earned $15,385 last year and is over the $7000 mark for 1957.

HOOFBEATS: Full sisters, Shift On and Shifting In, competed in Saturday's races . . . They are by Sceneshifter-Intended and are owned by V. Watson and trained by J. Patton . . . Shift On, a two-year-old filly, won and paid $20.20 for $2 . . . Shifting In, four-year-old filly, was an also ran . . . Harry Wells' Calloway K, which won the Inaugural and paid $119.60 for $2, had previously won only one race in 11 starts this year, that at La Mesa, New Mexico. A crowd of 7987 wagered $276,666 on the opening night program . . . Followers of the "sport of kings" at the Collinsville track this season, will be aided by the color of helmet caps worn by the riders . . . It will be a red cap for all No. 1 horses; white for No. 2; blue for No. 3 and so on down the line . . .

Althea Gibson, Vic Seixas Win

RIVER FOREST, Ill., July 22 (UP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, and Althea Gibson of New York, newly crowned United States clay courts tennis champions made contrasting plan stoday.

Seixas, who captured his title by knocking off defending champion Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 1-6, 8-6, 6-1, 6-3 yesterday, said he was going to shoot for the Pennsylvania State grass courts championship.

But Miss Gibson, who became the first Negro to win a national tennis title in the United States, said her plans were "only some rest."

Miss Gibson gave high praise to Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., who finished second to Miss Gibson in both the Wimbledon and the clay courts tourney. The score yesterday was 6-2, 6-3.

"I consider Darlene Hard the best of the present crop of girls in tennis," the champion said. She also said Mimi Arnold and Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., have "great potential."

Bob House's Pitching Wins for McMackins

Bob House of McMackin outdueled Nick Rallo of Reliable, 1-0, in a Ban Johnson baseball league game yesterday.

Bill Ihlenfeldt's single and Harlan Schiebel's double produced the only run in the fifth. House allowed four hits, Rallo five as McMackin took first place with a 3-0 record.

Pistol Champs Retain Crowns In State Meet

Champions in both men's and women's divisions retained their crowns in the Missouri State pistol championships conducted yesterday at the Lindbergh boulevard shooting range. Sgt. Paul Spavor of the St. Louis Police Department and Mitzie Dreyer of St. Louis were the successful defenders.

An important change in the roster of champions came when the St. Louis Police, led by Sgt. Spavor, dethroned the State Highway Patrol in the team competition. The Police scored 3405 out of a possible 3600. Other members of the winning team were Sgt. Frank Stubits, Corp. Chris Anton and Patrolman Donald Sarrells.

High total score honors went to Bart Schmidt, a United States Marshall of Springfield, Ill. He turned in a score of 2591.

High aggregate: M/Sgt. Arthur Purser, 2564.

State championship (Men): Sgt. Spavor, 2584.

State championship (Women): Mitzie Dreyer, 1597.

Sharpshooter: Capt. Claude Bennington, 2511.

Top Civilian: Gil Heberd, Knoxville, Ill., 2563.

Unclassified: Sgt. Robert Jerry, 2344.

Belleville Is Legion Leader On East Side

Belleville took the upper hand in the 22nd District playoffs of the American Legion junior baseball program with an 8-to-2 victory over East St. Louis yesterday. Alton became a two-time loser, and thereby dropped from the playoffs, in a 9-to-5 defeat by Edwardsville. Belleville is 2-0 in the playoffs.

Tonight, East St. Louis will be at Edwardsville, and the winner of the game will meet Belleville tomorrow night for the District title. East St. Louis and Edwardsville both are 1-and-1 in the playoffs.

Tigers Recall Small.

DETROIT, July 22 (UP)—The Detroit Tigers, slumping at the plate, recalled Outfielder Jim Small from their Charleston farm club. The former bonus baby had a .319 average at Charleston after being sent down two months ago. Larry Osborne was sent to the Senators on 24-hour recall to make room for Small.

Cards Puff Up Pennant Hopes Again, With Jones the Key 'If'

Curfew Delays Sweep Of Doubleheader as Eastern Trip Ends

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., July 22—Fred Hutchinson, his Cardinals having made a handsome recovery onto the fairway of championship hopes, crossed his fingers today as the ball club headed home and expressed the opinion the Redbirds could continue to compete for the pennant if Sam Jones overcomes his elbow ailment.

"He's the stopper, the big man of the staff now," said Hutchinson, as the Redbirds interrupted an exciting flag chase to play the big leagues' annual mid-summer Cooperstown exhibition before beginning a 21-game stand at Busch Stadium tomorrow night.

The giant Jones is scheduled to open against Brooklyn's defending champions, still regarded as the team to beat. If he can't make it, however, Larry Jackson, who owns the most Redbird victories, will be the St. Louis hurler.

"Pitching still will tell—it's Brooklyn's strength and Milwaukee's—and we've got to have it," said Hutchinson of a five-club race now tighter than a size-15 collar on a 16 neck.

"It would be too much to expect Von McDaniel, a boy just out of high school, to continue to give us the lift he did," Hutch went on, "so we'll have to have help. Herm Wehmeier looked good yesterday and, remember, he was a strong second-half pitcher last season. But right now, Sam is the big guy and we need him taking charge."

Penalty of Success.

Emperor Jones is bothered by a chronic right elbow condition described by Trainer Bob Bauman as slightly arthritic, an apparent result of the grinding effect produced by repeated use of his jug-handle curve, the best in baseball.

Except for uncertainty over the big pitcher, Hutchinson could afford to smile over the way his Redbirds played out of the rough on their third Eastern swing, recovering to record what officially can't be considered three straight victories only because the ninth inning of yesterday's doubleheader ran into Pennsylvania's 7 o'clock Sunday curfew.

After the Cards had used slump-shackled Don Blasingame's timely hitting and the Pirates' fielding fold-up for a 7-3 victory in a 10-inning opener, the Redbirds built up a robust 11-2 margin in a second contest that was within five outs of completion when the clock stopped 'em far more effectively than had Pittsburgh pitching. The if-coming victory can't be counted in the standings until the game is finished as a preliminary to the Aug. 27 contest at Forbes Field.

The expected St. Louis triumph, when officially achieved, would bring to 5-7 the won-and-lost record of a trip that began with Hutchinson's athletes three games in front and ended with them even with the league's best on the critical defeat side.

Five Weeks From Victory.

In the wind-up ball game Lindy McDaniel will have to wait five weeks for his ninth victory to go into the official figures, but the 21-year-old sinkerball righthander, as happy to hit as any frustrated slugger wearing a pitcher's toe-plate, can count his part in grabbing the brass ring on the offensive merry-go-round.

Lindy got almost as many hits as he allowed, hammering out four blows while yielding six, and drove in one more run than he allowed. In the 17-hit St. Louis attack on Bob Purkey and replacements, Ken Boyer belted a homer, double and two singles and, in fact, all Redbirds participated except the first-game hero—Blasingame.

The Blazer, playing with a bruised hand, drove in four runs in the opener, the Cardinals' first two with a third-inning homer off Ronnie Kline and a tie-breaking pair in the tenth with a single off reliever Bob Friend.

With a fourth-inning run on a walk to Stan Musial, a double by Wally Moon and a sacrifice fly by Del Ennis, the Cardinals frugally had produced three markers on only four hits over the regulation distance. And the game went into extra innings because Herm Wehmeier, doing a good job in his first start since May 20, served a two-run homer to Frank Thomas in the sixth, then was relieved in a touch-and-go eighth, an inning of brain-whirling strategy.

After Dee Fondy singled and reached third with two away on a sacrifice and an infield out, Hutchinson brought in his controversial compatriot of the Brooklyn debacle, Vinegar Bend Mizell, to face lefthanded-hitting Bill Virdon. Opposing manager Bobby Bragan countered, however, by sending up right-handed-hitting Gene Baker, whose sharp single through Mizell's long legs immediately tied the score.

Sorry, No Repeat Show.

Hutchinson, who let Mizell stay in at Brooklyn to face a right-handed hitter, quickly replaced him this time with Willard Schmidt.

Schmidt, a two-legged talisman, retired the side and stayed on long enough to record his eighth straight victory, the season's longest winning streak by a National League pitcher, when the Pittsburgh defense collapsed in the tenth.

With one down, Dick Groat fumbled Hal Smith's grounder. Eddie Kasko, whose sharp hitting on the trip boosted his average to .298, singled for only the second hit yielded in four-plus innings by former Redbird southpaw Luis Arroyo. Walker Cooper then batted for Schmidt.

Here, Bragan brought in Friend, his floundering bread-and-butter pitcher. Joe Cunningham batted for Cooper and walked, filling the bases. With three on, one away, the Pirates couldn't afford to gamble for a double play because of Blasingame's speed. Pittsburgh's infield pulled in and the Blazer punched a sharp ground single to right for two runs.

When the Pirates began handling the ball as though it was as hot as the National League lead, the Cardinals wound up the inning with four runs and an economy-sized conquest in which they tallied seven times on seven hits while the young Bucs scored only three runs on 11 blows.

Honoring Yesterday's Heroes Today

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Posing with plaques that give an account of their deeds in baseball, JOE McCARTHY (left) and SAM CRAWFORD posed happily at Cooperstown, N.Y., as they were formally installed as members of the game's Hall of Fame. The plaques will be mounted in the Hall. McCarthy was the long-time pennant-winning manager of the Yankees, and Crawford is a former Detroit outfield star.

'Marse Joe' and 'Wahoo' Thrilled by Ceremony at Baseball Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., July 22 (AP)—Marse Joe McCarthy and Wahoo Sam Crawford agreed today "it's the biggest thrill I ever got" as they were formally entered into Baseball's Hall of Fame as a reward for managing ability and service on the field of play.

The 77-year-old Crawford, who reached his greatest heights as a slugging outfield mate of Ty Cobb with the Detroit Tigers, was so overcome with emotion when introduced by Commissioner Ford Frick in a special ceremony that he couldn't deliver a prepared speech he had brought with him.

"Thank you, thank you. I want to thank all my friends who helped me get into the Hall of Fame," was all he could say. "This certainly is the biggest thrill of my life."

McCarthy, who managed nine pennant winners, eight with the Yankees, and won seven world championships, spoke for nearly 15 minutes.

"I spent 43 years in baseball," said the 70-year-old McCarthy, "and I wish I could do it all over again. "I'm greatly honored, of course, but the men mostly responsible for my being elected to the Hall of Fame were the players I had—and I had my share of good ones."

Also introduced to a gathering of some 5000 home folks were Hall of Fame members Frank (Home Run) Baker, Ray Schalk, Ty Cobb, Frank Frisch and Carl Hubbell. The five all-time greats received lapel buttons identifying them as Hall of Fame members. Buttons also were presented to the widows of Lou Gehrig, Christy Mathewson and Roger Bresnahan.

A certificate was presented to 17-year-old James Harwell of New Orleans, designated as the outstanding American Legion player of 1956. Also attending the ceremonies were league presidents Warren Giles and Will Harridge.

Musial in the Lineup.

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., July 22—Stan the Iron Man Musial, who remained out of the Cardinals' second game at Pittsburgh yesterday, was in the lineup of the Cardinals as they faced the Chicago White Sox in the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game here this afternoon.

For the first time in 863 games—since the final contest of the 1951 season—Musial was not in the Cardinals' starting lineup when they played the second game of yesterday's doubleheader at Forbes Field. Since the contest was suspended, however The Man conceivably could prolong his streak by playing when the game is resumed in the ninth inning before the encounter regularly scheduled for Aug. 27, and Manager Fred Hutchinson indicated he'd use Stan then.

Musial, whose mother was in the stands, decided yesterday that the combination of the doubleheader and hot humid weather was too formidable and Hutch agreed. Joe Cunningham, Stan's eager young understudy, was at first base in the nightcap.

There's a flaw in the baseball law when a man-made curfew contest is subject to the same five-inning legal minimum of a weather-curtailed encounter. If yesterday's extra-inning game at Pittsburgh had gone longer, preventing the second one from going five full frames, the second game would not have been resumed, but would have been wiped out and the Cardinals deprived of a large lead.

John W. Galbreath, president of the Pirates, gave the folks in his old home town a day to remember. He invited the people of Mount Sterling (Ohio) to the ball game here yesterday, as his guests, and more than 900 of the town's 1200 residents came. They made the trip in 25 big busses. Galbreath's hospitality included free tickets to the game, round trip bus fare, and refreshments.

Pass Medalist In Juvenile Golf With 37

TRIPLE A CLUB, July 22—The medalist habit Jeff Pass has acquired in the District Juvenile golf tournament asserted itself for a third successive time here today. Pass scored a 37, two over par, to win the medal in a field of 66 boys competing in nine-hole qualifying play.

Pass, a 14-year old 10th-grader at Ladue high school, was medalist in the Juvenile tournament last year with 38, and in 1956 he tied for medalist honors with two other boys.

Jim Greber of Westwood was runner-up today with a 42. Gordon Ziegler, Wayne Kellman and Bob Koob were next with 43s. The low 16 qualified for championship class. A 32-golfer draw for Class A also was formed. The youthful golfers were paired immediately for an afternoon of first-round matches.

Medalist Pass had successive pars, from No. 1 through No. 7. He went a stroke over par on No. 8, and again on No. 9.

The title is without a defender. Charles Ziegler, who last week won the District Junior title, held the Juvenile title but has passed the age limit for it. The age limit is 14, and under.

The Championship qualifiers:
Jeff Pass, Meadowbrook, 37.
Jim Greber, Westborough, 42.
Gordon Ziegler, Westwood, 43.
Wayne Kellman, Norwood, 43.
Bob Koob, Normandie, 43.
John Reidelberger, Glen Echo, 44.
Ken Renaud, Norwood, 44.
Kim Gregory, Norwood, 44.
Mike Shaughnessy, Creve Coeur, 44.
Jeff Sher, Westwood, 45.
Mark Sertl, Sunset, 45.
Mike Messmer, Westborough, 45.
Mike Mooney, Sunset, 46.
Tom Walter, Glen Echo, 46.
John Sher, Westwood, 46.
Carl Spoeneman, Normandie, 46.

Gonzales Wins From Lew Hoad In 4-Set Match

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., July 22 (UP) — Pancho Gonzales proved again that he is king of the pro tennis world and now promoter Jack Kramer can only hope that Big Pancho doesn't turn out to be a financial prophet, too.

Gonzales completed a 5-0 clean sweep in Kramer's "tournament of champions" yesterday by whipping Jack's new rookie gate attraction, Lew Hoad of Australia, 9-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

That was the third beating in five matches in the tourney for Hoad. And Kramer must remember painfully that Gonzales warned him this might happen. Pancho didn't want to play in the tournament because he thought losses suffered by Hoad might hurt the gate for the Gonzales-Hoad world tour starting next winter.

Kramer talked Pancho into playing, and Pancho is richer by $3500—the $2500 first prize plus a $1000 bonus.

The 29-year-old Gonzales left little doubt that right now at least he's the master of 22-year-old Hoad. The Aussie Wimbledon champion hit a hot streak in the third set as Pancho made repeated errors, but otherwise the Yank was in charge.

Former pro star Bobby Riggs summed it up: "Gonzales can do everything Hoad can do and he's got more height, reach, power, and speed to do it."

Tony Trabert and Sedgman won the doubles title, beating Kramer and Hoad, 6-4, 6-4. The winners' record was 3-0. Gonzales and Ken Rosewall finished with 2-1, Kramer and Hoad 1-2, and Segura and Dinny Pails, 0-3.

Dreyfus and Miller Win Fourth Straight Handball Crown

Harry Dreyfus and Henry Miller won their fourth successive handball title at Forest Park Field House yesterday, defeating Jack Briscoe and Jerry Kern, 21-12, 21-7.

In Class A, Marty and Ziggy Goffstein won from John Gioia and Sam Guttin, 21-12, 16-21, 21-14.

Ability to Win Doubleheaders Keeps Redlegs in Flag Chase

NEW YORK, July 22 (UP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs were being counted out of the National League race a week ago, but they're right back in the thick of it today because of their surprising ability to cope with doubleheaders.

The experts figured Birdie Tebbetts's "patch-work" pitching staff would buckle under the pressure of the bargain bills. Didn't Tebbetts's pitchers have enough trouble coping with one game a day—much less two?

The Redlegs, however, roared back into solid contention when they whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2 and 6-4, yesterday and now show a remarkable .818 won-lost record for doubleheaders. They've swept eight and split two of their 11 bargain bills—in sharp contrast, for example, to the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have won only one doubleheader, and the Milwaukee Braves, who have won only three all year.

Trail By Two Games.

The latest sweep—giving the Redlegs seven wins in nine games since they ended a seven-game losing streak on July 12—lifted the Redlegs into fourth place two games behind the first-place Braves. The Phillies, jolted by six losses in their last seven games, fell three and one half games off the pace.

The Braves bounced back from a 5-4 loss to down the New York Giants, 7-4, and retain their one-game lead over the Dodgers, who beat the Chicago Cubs, 7-2, after a 5-4 setback, while the third-place Cardinals downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, and led, 11-2, when their nightcap was suspended in the ninth inning by the Pennsylvania curfew law.

The Chicago White Sox defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3-0, and moved to within four and one half games of first place in the American League, when the New York Yankees split a doubleheader with the Cleveland Indians. The Yankees won the opener, 4-3, but bowed in the nightcap, 7-4, before 51,670 fans. The Detroit Tigers beat the Washington Senators, 6-5, and the Kansas City Athletics scored a 3-2 victory after losing, 7-2, to the Baltimore Orioles.

No. 11 For Lawrence.

Brooks Lawrence gained credit for his eleventh win for the Redlegs in the opener with the aid of homers by George Crowe and Gus Bell and Art Fowler picked up his first win in the nightcap as Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post and Roy McMillan had three hits each. Robin Roberts was tagged with his seventh straight loss and thirteenth of the year, while Harvey Haddix dropped his seventh decision.

Shortstop Johnny Logan lashed out five straight hits to spark the Braves to their victory after Hank Sauer's two-run, ninth-inning single enabled the Giants to take the opener. Willie Mays and Ray Jablonski homered to kayo Lew Burdette in the nightcap, but Ernie Johnson came on to win his sixth game. Stu Miller won his fourth game for the Giants.

Three Hits Off Wilson.

Jim Wilson followed up Saturday's one-hitter by Dick Donovan with a three-hitter that gave the White Sox their second straight shutout victory over the Red Sox. Wilson had a no-hitter for six innings before Frank Malzone broke the spell with a single. It was Wilson's tenth win.

Bob Avila's bases-filled triple in the sixth inning was the big blow for the Indians, who played before their biggest home crowd in two years. Homers by Gil McDougald and Elston Howard, plus Bob Grim's classy relief job gave the Yankees the opener and they led into the last of the sixth of the nightcap with the help of Mickey Mantle's twenty-fifth homer of the year. Ray Narleski, relief ace of the Tribe, went all the way in the second game to win his sixth game.

Rookie Jim Heise walked in the winning run in the tenth inning after the Tigers tied the score at 5-5 with three ninth-inning runs. The victory went to Harry Byrd, his third for the Tigers.

Bob Cerv's two-run pinch homer in the seventh inning gave the Athletics their triumph after Hector Brown scattered six hits for the Orioles in the first game. Tito Francona and Joe Ginsberg hit homers for the Orioles in the first game, while George Kell and Bob Nieman homered in the nightcap.

BIGGEST BLAST

Dust and smoke boiling over scene of the biggest non-atomic blast—the detonation of 1,790,000 pounds of explosives near Little Valley, Utah. Blast loosened 3,000,000 tons of rocks from a 200-foot cliff. The rock is to be used on a 13-mile fill to carry Southern Pacific Railroad tracks across Great Salt Lake, replacing a wooden trestle section of the Lucin cutoff. Biggest previous blast was a 1,362,000-pound explosion in Tennessee.

Contest officials, jolted earlier by disqualification of the winner of the Miss U.S.A. title, were shaken again Saturday when it was learned that Miss Zender, at 17, was under the age limit for contestants. She retained the title, however, when it was determined she would be regarded as 18 in Peruvian society.

Albrecht Again Puts Out Fire, Villas Keep Lead

Unearned Runs Beat Faszholz

By Neal Russo

One old Brownie yesterday called for and got help from another old Brownie for the second successive afternoon and kept the Red Villas on top by four percentage points in the Muny Meine Baseball League. Eddie Albrecht (of the 1949 Browns) turned in another sparkling relief stint for Manager Johnny Tobin (of the 1914-25 Browns), beating Cupples, 2-1.

Not so fortunate was another former big leaguer, Jack Faszholz, who was up with the Cardinals. "Preacher Jack" of Carondelet lost a 3-2 heartbreaker to Webster because of three unearned runs in the seventh inning. The setback dropped Carondelet two full games behind the South Side League leader, Kimacks, who downed Kutis South, 9-7.

In the North Side League, Kutis North was upset for the second straight week, 10-3, by the Union Printers, with Pitcher Bob Loddeke holding the leaders to seven hits and getting four safeties himself. The Polish Falcons went 14 innings before beating Borbein-Young, 9-7, as winner Bob Lauer hurled the distance.

Carter Whips Kniffens.

Carter No. 1, pacing the Berkeley circuit with a 7-1 record, avenged its only defeat with a 9-5 triumph over the Kniffens. Frank Moore's easy victory was disturbed most by the Kniffens' Norm Frossard, who had five straight hits, the first three of which were doubles.

Because the Hoffmeisters handed the Goldes their fourth straight loss in eight days, 9-5, the Villas needed Albrecht's rescue work to stay in first place. The race shapes up like this: Villas 11-6, Hoffmeisters 9-5 and Goldes 7-7. The Villas' percentage is .647, the Hoffmeisters' .643. They play a 21-game schedule.

After protecting a 6-4 victory over the Goldes Saturday in his first mound appearance since early in the season, Albrecht again was summoned in the eighth Sunday with the score 1-1, the bases filled by starter Marv Meyer and only one out.

A strikeout and a ground-out removed that threat and the Villas then broke the tie in the home half when Tom Forst was safe on an error, stole second and scored on Don Kettelkamp's single. Albrecht stranded two more Cupples runners in the ninth, making it 13 for the game. Tough-luck loser was Bob Mallon.

Bob Horneyer of the Hoffmeisters ended his two-year retirement with a bang, tripling his first time up, then driving in a run in a five-run sixth inning. Teammate Frank Ortmann sent three men across the plate with two singles. Relieving Bob Boehlow with Hoffmeisters ahead, 4-2, in the fifth, Dick Armbruster struck out seven Goldes.

Carondelet Strands 15.

Faszholz, who gave up nine hits, walked only one and fanned three, retired the first two Webster batters in the seventh. After Glenn Brickey singled, Hank Kuhlmann reached first on an infield error. Then Lee Keefer got a home run on a line drive to left when a shoe-sting-catch attempt failed.

Carondelet, which spoiled its annual picnic day by leaving 15 runners on base, scored twice in the fifth on four walks and a hit batsman. Brickey replaced Bob Cooper at this point, checking Carondelet on five hits.

Mel Anderson of Kimacks survived a shaky start and got eighth-inning help from Erv Liberton. Tom McCormack hit a home run for Kimacks and Neal Fiala had a triple among his three hits for Kutis South.

Collecting 15 of their 17 hits off Ed Gerken in the first six innings, the Printers tallied three-run clusters in the third, fourth and fifth innings. Bob Murphy and Stan Mann joined in the assault on Kutis with three hits apiece. The Falcons clubbed out 18 safeties with Golden Dace getting four.

A five-run outburst in the third inning against Rich Wright carried Carter to victory. Chuck Barbaglia touched off the big frame with a two-run homer and Stan Grossman closed it with a two-run single. Howard Bierman and Norm Wielansky each had three singles for Carter and Hank Kane tripled. Moore fanned eight, walked nobody.

Republicans Defeat Democrats, 6 to 0

Rich Jakul, allowing only four hits, pitched the 27th Ward Republicans to a 6-0 victory over the Second Ward Democrats in Khoury senior baseball yesterday. He and Paul McMurry were hooked up in a scoreless tie until the Republicans broke loose with four runs in the fifth.

International's Ron Riaff blanked Missouri Boiler on three hits in an 18-0 triumph.

Four-run rallies in the ninth gave the Orlando Brothers a 6-5 victory over Winthrop and Robinwood a 5-4 win over Normandy.

The Yanks scored six in the sixth to tie the Vets, 10-10, but the Vets got seven runs in their half en route to a 17-12 victory.

Costello Stars In Holy Cross' 5-to-0 Victory

Don Costello of Holy Cross, stopped Holy Rosary, 5-0, on five hits yesterday to help St. Engelbert close in on the Bishop Helmsing title in C.Y.C. senior baseball.

Routing All Souls, 9-1, behind Jim Reidy's six-hitter, St. Engelbert has a two-game bulge in the loss column over Holy Rosary, the defending champion. Ed Hilke whacked two doubles and two singles for St. Engelbert.

St. John crept within one game of first-place St. Aloysius in the Bishop Winkelmann League with 9-0 and 6-2 victories over St. Raphael. Al Klein yielded four hits and famed 14 in the seven-inning opener. Manager Bernie Tighe cleared the loaded bases with a double and Carl Handte tripled with two aboard. In the nightcap, three Als stood out: Westrich hurling a three-hitter, Weis pounding two home runs, each with a man on, and Klein getting three singles.

Sacred Heart is alone atop the Bishop Cody League, following 6-4 triumph over St. Joseph on Tom Leonard's two-run homer in the sixth with the score 4-4. Homers by Jack Reiter and Jim Burrows helped St. Augustine down Mt. Carmel, 10-6.

St. Agatha, only unbeaten senior sandlot team in the area, made it 10 straight, beating Resurrection, 11-2, behind ace Joe Gummersbach.

Heintzelman Hurls Shutout

Ken Heintzelman, the ex-major leaguer, allowed 10 hits, but was unbeatable in the clutch yesterday as he pitched Ballwin to a 4-0 triumph over Ellisville in the County Baseball League. Ballwin made better use of nine hits off Ralph Hartnagel.

Creve Coeur and Twin City remained unbeaten. After scoring a run to tie in the ninth, 2-2, Creve Coeur tallied three in the eleventh for a 5-2 victory over Olivette. Les Mueller homered for the losers. Twin City trailed, 8-5, then scored two in the eighth and three in the ninth to down Florissant 10-8.

A. G. Beckmann collected four hits and Carl Kramer three including a home run to enable Righthander Len Klaus of Vigus to coast past Bridgeton 12-4. Glencoe outhit Carter 16 to 6, but needed two runs in the eighth to sneak by, 6-5.

Marusic-Douglas Team Beats Harrison-Webb

Par took a beating as four leading local golf professionals played an exhibition match yesterday at Creve Coeur. The golf pros kept the contest close among themselves, as Milon Marusic of Algonquin and Dave Douglas of St. Louis Country Club defeated Dutch Harrison of Old Warson and Gene Webb, 1-up.

Individual scores all bettered par 71. Webb was 34-32—66, Marusic had 33-34—67, Douglas 34-33—67, and Harrison scored 33-36—69.

Remember? 5...15...25 YEARS AGO

1952—The Cardinals and Red Sox played a 9-9 time-limit tie in an exhibition game at Rochester, N.Y., a benefit that raised $15,000 for blind George (Specs) Toporcer, 53, former Redbird infielder and one-time Boston farm director. . . . Bob Richards shattered the Olympic pole vault record with a leap of 14 feet 10.16 inches, Sim Iness set a new standard of 180 feet 6.6 inches in the discus and Mal Whitfield tied the 800-meter dash mark he set in 1948 (1:49.2). . . . Yugoslavia defeated Russia, 2 to 1, in a replay of a 5-5 Olympic soccer tie. . . . John B. Kelly Jr., son of the only sculler ever to win both the singles and doubles in one Olympiad (1920), was eliminated in the semifinals. . . . Gene Webb's 139 took the eastern Missouri P.G.A. title at Meadow Brook.

1942—Athletic Director Bob Kinnan completed Washington U.'s 10-game football schedule with a Sept. 19 opener at Iowa. . . . Homers by Walt Judnich and Harlond Clift gave the Browns a 4-3 victory over the Athletics. The triumph, the club's eleventh in the last 12 games, opened a long home stand. . . . Howard Krist's pitching record with the Cards became a fabulous 20-2 after the spot man of the Redbird staff topped the Phillies, 6-1.

1932 — When Quincy, Ill., folded its franchise, the Three-I League quit for the year. . . . South Bend, Ind., and Canton, O., also feeling the depression pinch, dropped out of the Central League, which was reduced to four clubs.

DR. SHEPPARD'S LIE TEST HELD UP BY OHIO GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, O., July 22 (AP)—Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill said today Dr. Sam Sheppard will not receive a lie detector test until the "confession" of a Florida prisoner that he killed the doctor's wife is determined to be true.

O'Neill announced his position after a telegram from the unofficial "Court of Last Resort," headed by mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner, cast doubt on the validity of a confession by Donald Wedler.

Wedler said he bludgeoned a woman during a burglary on the same night that Dr. Sheppard's wife, Marilyn, was killed in her Cleveland suburban home. Sheppard, who protested his innocence, is serving a life sentence for her killing.

O'Neill gave permission last week for a lie detector test. He changed his position after receiving this telegram from the "court of last resort." "We are still not prepared to take as true the confession of Donald Wedler. But following our examination of him in Florida we admit to a growing conviction that he may well have committed the murder of Marilyn Sheppard. However, no one should form any final opinion on this man until after there has been a lot more investigative work done and until there has been a psychiatric investigation."

TRUMAN IS GIVEN AMVETS' TENTH ANNIVERSARY PLAQUE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., July 22—National and state officers of the Amvets presented Harry S. Truman, who as President signed their federal charter in 1947, with a plaque in observance of the organization's tenth anniversary today.

Presenting the plaque on behalf of the organization was Vincent H. Castelli, commander of the Missouri department, who lives at 6909 Willow Wood drive, Northwoods.

Others from the St. Louis area at the ceremony were Henry W. Simpson, first Missouri department commander; Harold Koch, past department commander, and Andrew Sgrel, department service officer and national bugler.

Egyptian Submarine Display.

CAIRO, July 22 (AP)—Cairo papers said yesterday that Egyptian officers and crews have completed their training on submarines recently purchased from the Soviet Union and the submarines will be displayed publicly in a naval festival at Alexandria tomorrow.

NICARAGUA TO END RIFT WITH HONDURAS

© New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 22 — Honduras and Nicaragua agreed yesterday to put their 50-year-old border dispute up to the world court.

Any portion of their differences not settled by the court, they further agreed, will be decided by arbitration.

The Foreign Minister of Honduras, Jorge Fidel Duron, and the Foreign Minister of Nicaragua, Alejandro Montiel Arguello, signed the formal agreement in the presence of the assembled Latin-American diplomatic corps at the Pan American Union yesterday. The diplomats considered it an important precedent for the settlement of disputes among states of the Western Hemisphere.

At issue in this case is a swampy, mosquito-infested strip of territory between the Segovia and Patuca rivers, which empty into the Carribean. It is believed oil may be located in the controversial area.

Half a century ago the two countries appealed to King Alfonso of Spain to arbitrate their dispute. In 1906 he awarded the entire area to Honduras, thereby increasing its area by about one-third. Nicaragua never accepted the decision.

Early this year Honduras stirred up the old dispute by announcing it had set up a new state in the disputed area. The Nicaraguans protested, charging Honduras was getting ready to attack their territory. Honduras made counter charges alleging the Nicaraguans were preparing to attack. Both countries took their cases to the Organization of American States.

Meanwhile, in May there were a number of minor clashes in the frontier area. The investigating committee succeeded in getting both countries to agree to a troop withdrawal plan and set up a system of military observers in the trouble zone. Now Honduras and Nicaragua have decided on a procedure for reaching a permanent solution.

Yellow River

nese resembled ants patiently filing up and down paths worn smooth by the padded feet of men who had made thousands of such trips.

The ant analogy seemed even more appropriate as I watched other Chinese popping in and out of holes in the wall of the cliff, for here a good part of the population lives in caves carved out of the solid loess.

Some, but not all, of these cave homes have brick fronts. For the most part their occupants have relied on the traditional tenacity of loess which hardens to a solid mass when worked with water.

In 1963 when the dam is completed it will create an artificial lake with an area of 1400 square miles. In the process it will dislodge from their homes 870,000 persons. At the current rate of population increase in China this figure will be close to 1,000,000 in 1963.

When I suggested to Wung Ching Fu, chief of the technical department of the dam project, that this presented a difficult problem in human relations, he shrugged his shoulders and replied: "What does it matter when it is for the good of the 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 people who live in the Yellow River plain?"

IN THIS Wung was simply reflecting the official view that regardless of the immediate discomfort of what after all is a comparatively small portion of China's huge population, nothing must stand in the way of successful completion of the most important project now being undertaken by China.

Most of the men involved in the planning of the project and many of those now actively working on it will not see its completion, even if it takes no more than the 50 years it is estimated will be needed to finally control the Yellow River.

The San Men dam is the first phase of the huge project and it has four purposes, of which flood control is the most important and will be the first completed. Then will follow a power plant capable of producing 1,100,000 kilowatts to supply the energy which will be required by the new industrial area being developed to the north and west of the gorge. Third phase of the dam will be a spillway and lastly, a retaining wall.

Gradual Shift of Farmers.

Initially the population of this new area will be the people to be uprooted by the flooding of this area. They will be farmers and will be shifted gradually. As a matter of fact, some of the younger men are already in the new area constructing an irrigation system which is a prime necessity in Chinese agricultural activities.

So far as moving the people is concerned, the government, Wung explained, will provide for that. Materials for constructing new houses will be supplied by the government; the prospective occupants will supply the labor.

China sees the problem of the Yellow river as the concern of the whole nation. The Yellow is the second greatest river in China. It is more than 3000 miles long and its basin has an area of almost 290,000 square miles.

The Yellow river has vast untapped sources of cheap electric power which could be developed at a tenth of what it costs to produce thermo-electric power in China today.

Wooden Boats.

Its possibilities as a source of irrigation water have been barely tapped and there is no modern river shipping, so important in China, along the Yellow. Only wooden boats capable of carrying 10 to 75 tons and inflated skin rafts, are in use on separate and isolated sections.

What is more, the Yellow River often becomes a menace not only to its own basin but to all of China.

Most of the floods caused by the Yellow are the result of heavy summer rains. High water is sometimes caused by heavy rain in September and October. In March and April melted snow often results in flooding.

But the extraordinary seriousness of the Yellow floods is not due only to the summer rains in its basin, but even more to the silt deposited in the lower reaches.

The river brings down more silt than any other stream in the world. Its silt concentration is 34 times that of the Nile and 10 times that of the Colorado in the United States.

The amount of silt carried to the sea by the Yellow River on an average every year is 1,380,000 tons or enough to build a wall a yard high and a yard wide around the world 23 times.

Can't All Reach Sea.

In the lower reaches where the drop is gentler, this silt cannot all flow into the sea, but settles in large quantities. As a result the river bed has gradually risen until its mean level between dikes is now higher than the surrounding country. It is, in fact, an elevated river in many places.

Because of the continuing deposit of silt the river frequently changes course in its lower reaches and this is where the most serious floods occur.

In 1933 floods caused more than 50 breaches of dikes affecting more than 3,640,000 people, of whom 18,000 were killed. Property worth about 230,000,000 yuan (about $90,000,000 at today's rate of exchange) was destroyed.

Although the government is attempting to hold the flood line with temporary dikes until the major project is more advanced, it is admitted that the Yellow's rapid silting cannot be dealt with by piling up and reinforcing dikes.

The government proposes to build a series of dams and reservoirs on the main river and its tributaries. By doing so, soil and water can be conserved, flooding prevented, volume of water regulated and irrigation, navigation and power developed.

Soil, Water Conservation.

The second phase is soil and water conservation work on a large scale, chiefly in Kansu, Shensi and Shansi provinces where loss of water and soil is most serious.

Everywhere, section by section, from highland to gully, from tributary to main river, water is to be stored and soil retained. Everything possible is to be done to use the river water for industry, agriculture and transport and to leave loess and rain water where it is needed—on the farmland.

The main feature of the comprehensive plan is what the government calls the Staircase Plan for the Main Yellow River. The plan is to build a series of dams on the main river so levels form a sort of staircase. This work will be done in four sections, with 46 dams to be constructed.

San Men is the first step in this staircase and is designed to hold all of the silt that would normally be carried down the river over a period of 50 to 75 years. That is the reason for its height—about 350 feet.

Ever since ancient times the Chinese have longed to harness the Yellow and turn it to good use. It is the hope of its creators that on completion of the 50-year plan for the Yellow River it will no longer be known as China's Sorrow; that the age-old dream will come true—the Yellow River will run clear.

ture party control. Nor did the newspaper find room on its pages to print a single letter from workers, farmers or intellectuals "reflecting the rise in labor and political activity."

A number of labor papers were similarly attacked, including Trud, journal of the Soviet trade unions. Trud, the Teachers Gazette and the Journal of Water Transport all were said by Pravda to be propagating decisions of the June party meeting "weakly." Pravda said that Soviet "reality" provided splendid material to boast of achievements which the "gripers and unbelievers of the anti-party group of Malenkov, Kaganovich and Molotov tried to belittle."

BODY OF BOY WHO DROWNED WITH HIS BROTHER IS FOUND

The body of Michael Jowett, 15 years old, who drowned Thursday with his brother Thorman, 13, was recovered Saturday night by the Alton Volunteer Emergency Corps about five miles south of Alton in the Mississippi river. Thorman Jowett's body was recovered by the corps Thursday.

The boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Jowett, 2203 Benton street, drowned when Michael waded into the river to free his fishing line, and got into trouble in the swift current. Thorman was drowned while trying to save his brother.

Alton Police Lt. Robert A. Brown, corps president, said fishermen spotted Michael's body at Maple island on the Missouri side of the river. St. Charles County Deputy Sheriff Otto Boeckemeier said Coroner Morris Muschany will conduct an inquest at 7 p.m. today at St. Charles county court house, St. Charles.

1000 ATTEND CONVENTION HERE OF DEAF ASSOCIATION

About 1000 members of the National Association of the Deaf are in St. Louis today for the Association's twenty-fourth triennial convention, which opened at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel yesterday.

Byron B. Burnes of Oakland, Calif., president of the association, said that the convention this year would be devoted primarily to a reorganization of the state and national groups to provide better ties between them.

The association, which represents about 100,000 deaf persons in the United States, is engaged in the promotion of educational and employment opportunities for the deaf, and also works to improve their general social welfare, Burnes said.

Secret Mail

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP).

ONE of the great delights of growing up when the world was young—I keep telling myself, now that the world is old—was getting secret mail.

HAL BOYLE

Every adult is sure in his heart he did something when young that no one else ever did before or since. One of the things I am surest of in my heart is that, as a child, I must have been responsible for the fact the United States Post Office ran so deeply in debt to the public. Certainly it complains to this day that the stamps it sells don't buy it out of the red ink.

Looking back now, I find it hard to figure just why I went overboard for secret mail. I think that basically, as one of the junior citizens in a seven-member family in one-bathroom house, I was reaching for some kind of privacy. If so, I never got it. My private mail got to be pretty public in our neighborhood. The mere size of it was hard to hide on a street where a postcard from out of town signed by a stranger would stir more lives than the influenza.

SINCE NOBODY had ever written to me in my lifetime, I decided to write to them first. The magazines of that day—as some still are to this day—were full of advertisements which invited correspondence. Once I started answering these invitations I hardly knew where to quit. Opportunity didn't seem to knock at one's door. It merely awaited the lick of a two-cent stamp.

I began by deciding I wanted to be a ventriloquist. My mind was made up by seeing an ad which showed a man carrying a heavy box on his shoulder, and a muffled voice supposedly from the box startled bystandesr, by calling: "Let me out!"

Naturally the voice came from a ventriloquist on the sidelines, just having fun. The idea of being able to do this appealed to me then (it still does), and I spent at least 12 cents in stamps investigating the price of becoming a ventriloquist by mail. The cost came to more than I could afford at the time, but even now when I pass someone carrying a trunk, I always halt and murmur, "Let me out!" Fortunately, no one pays any attention.

This has gone on for so many years that in my own mind I have reached the conclusion it's not a matter of ventroliquism at all: There is somebody in that trunk!

OTHER INVITATIONS I explored by mail were how-to-build-yourself-from-a-skinny-joke-at-the-beach - into - a - muscled-man-who-could-whip-any-bully, how-to-become-an-electrical-engineer-in-12-easy-shocks, how-to-grow-chinchillas-for-profit-in-grandfather's-beard-during - the - unseasy - summer-months, and how-to-make-quick-money-by-selling-Christmas-cards-to-the-neighbors just-before-Easter.

The postman got interested in some of these situations himself. I remember the day I got the reply to the ad saying send-one-dollar and receive-12-different-pictures-of-12-beautiful-girls-in-12-different-poses. The postman opened that letter himself, looked at the inclosed pictures (harmless photos of old movie stars), sighed in disappointment, and marched bravely forward on his rounds.

Those were the magic days of enchantment, however, to a small eager boy anxious for learning. All that I ever know (or even suspect) I owe to the United States postal service. I still regard every stamp I bought as a worthwhile investment. Never since has the world seemed quite as glamorous.

THIS WHOLE GOLDEN AGE OF YOUTH collapsed when my mother intercepted the reply to an ad on how-any-girl-can-develop-bigger-busts-in-the-privacy - of - her - own - home. Mama tore up that letter, and to this day I wonder what it said.

Anyway, after that, the postman wasn't allowed to knock once (let alone twice) for me, and I went back to studying algebra, whatever that is.

Boy's Dilemma

By Elinor Williams

"DEAR MISS WILLIAMS: A girl and I are very much attached to each other, but I am going to move out of town and we won't be able to see each other any more. My parents want me to go with them, but I have grandparents who still live here. Should I try to stay with them so I can still be with my girl friend (we date regularly) or should I live with my parents? I'd like to stay here."

ANSWER: You didn't mention your age, but what you do depends partly on how old you are. Unless you're about 18 and have nearly finished high school, it would be wiser to go with your parents.

If you're almost 18 and have perhaps one more year of high school and if your parents and grandparents consent, you could consider staying and finishing school with your class and continue dating this girl—that is, if you two believe it's the "real thing" and you plan to be married eventually.

BUT if you're in the early or mid-teens, your first consideration is for your parents.

They have invested 14, 15 or 16 years in you and it would probably hurt them deeply if you made a big fuss about leaving them for the sake of a girl who might change her mind about you at any moment. She might decide to date somebody else and you might, too, although you don't think so now. Then you'd be sorry that you left your parents and a normal family life for the sake of this girl.

THE THINGS you're thinking of giving up—parents, family home, etc.—are the permanent elements of your life. If you're under 18, it's too early to be sure that your feeling for this girl—or hers for you—is lasting.

So go with your parents, have a normal family life, finish your education—and get a part-time job, if necessary, so you can earn money to visit your grandparents often and see the girl. Keep in touch with her in this way, and if it's love, it'll last.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A PRINCETON graduate, who inherited a cattle ranch out West, soon discovered that the ornery galoot on an adjoining ranch was rustling his stock. "Be careful," he was warned. "That old crook is liable to drill a couple of holes in your hide." So this is the note the Princetonian typed out: "Dear Sir: I'd appreciate it if you'd stop leaving your hot branding irons where my fool cattle can sit down on them."

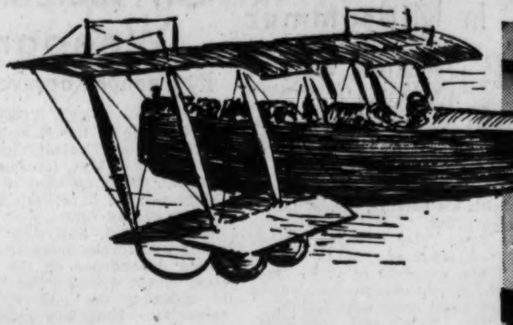
THE VILLAGE DOCTOR examined an ailing vacationist and said, "Eat a lot of meat for a week. Go down to Joe's butcher shop and load up."

"Will that cure me?" asked the patient anxiously. "I'm not certain of that," said the doctor, "but it sure will make my brother Joe feel good."

From Jennys to Jets



Memories of the Early Days Linger During Fast Flight in Missouri Air Guard Plane

By Theodore P. Wagner

THE voice in the control tower issued a terse command and the powerful jet trainer swung into the runway and roared along the heat shimmering concrete.

As the plane, with its oil-burner sounding engine, left the runway, the passenger in the rear seat gained the impression that a giant hand was hoisting the jet into space. The hour was 2:25 p.m. The place, Lambert-St. Louis Field. The pilot, Col. Charles H. DuBois, commander of the 131st Fighter-Interceptor Wing, Missouri Air National Guard. Communication between pilot and passenger is by radio, built in the plastic helmets and rubber oxygen tubes.

Four minutes later and five thousand feet higher, Lambert Field spread below. Encompassed by a vast manufacturing plant, a Terminal Building of internationally famous design and many lesser structures, the St. Louis municipal airport was an impressive sight. Air traffic of every description, from the odd shaped helicopters of the military to the sleek airliners of Trans World, Eastern, American and other scheduled carriers stopped here.

In mind's eye the passenger turned back time to 1923. Corn stalks were still protruding from the landing area, when the Pulitzer Trophy Race was held that year. A youth named Lindbergh arrived in a battered biplane to pick up some of the loose change that was being handed out for almost any type performance at the air races. And a flying unit called Thirty-fifth Division Aviation, predecessor of the 131st Fighter-Interceptor Wing, was formed with Maj. William B. Robertson, pioneer St. Louis flyer, as commander.

World War I pilots flocked to the new air unit. So eager were they to be airborne that they bought a plane before the first JN-4 Curtiss Jenny was received from the Government. The new National Guard flyers formed a club and the members flew their club plane, an Eaglerock or craft of similar design, at every opportunity. On many flights a third club member tied himself prone on a wing and accompanied the two friends in the fuselage.

The Missouri river is on our right as the jet trainer continues its climb, 8000, 10,000 feet. In eight minutes we reach 20,000 feet, an efficient altitude for jet engines, and Col. DuBois levels off the trainer. Except for some "popping" in the eardrums, the steep climb has caused no discomfort to the passenger sitting behind the pilot. The canopied cockpit is pressurized and air-conditioned. In the early stages of the climb the air-conditioner belched snow, the result of moisture accumulated on the ground and freezing during the steep climb.

The jet seems almost at standstill in the bright blue sky, although the instruments indicate a speed of 350 knots. Hermann, Mo., is off the left wing, and Col. DuBois reports over the radio intercom that he sees Columbia dead ahead. Columbia is 100 air miles west of St. Louis. Time is 2:35 p.m., 10 minutes after takeoff.

At 2:37 p.m. Jefferson City is on our left. In 18 minutes after takeoff we are over Columbia. At 20,000 feet there is little to distinguish the seat of the State University from any other cluster of buildings in a rural landscape.

As the plane makes a precise left turn toward Jefferson City, headquarters of the National Guard, the initial encampment of the 110th Squadron, Missouri Aviation, at Camp Clark, Nevada, Mo., in 1924, comes to mind.

Highlight of National Guard camps of that period was "Governor's Day." Ground forces paraded, bands played and crowds of relatives and friends assembled for the military show. The 1924 encampment was the first for the new air unit and they liven things up.

Among the unit non-coms was a Sgt. Douglas, a professional wing-walker. To entertain the governor, Douglas went aloft in a Jenny piloted by Capt. C. Ray Wassell. Several thousand feet up, Douglas slid down a rope, and went through a series of acrobatics. Unfortunately, he was unable to climb back up the rope, which was knotted around his body.

Capt. Wassell tossed out a first-aid packet containing a note. The message read: "Douglas can't get back. Send up a knife and he will cut the rope and drop in the reservoir."

There was a scramble for the 110th squadron kitchen where a sharp knife was obtained. A jockey-size airman named Jeddy Sharp was tied to the outer strut of the DH-4 of the squadron instructor, Lt. Fred Nelson. Sharp, clinging to the strut, hurtled aloft, butcherknife in hand. Lt. Nelson, a skillful flyer, maneuvered his plane underneath the dangling Douglas.

Sharp handed over the knife. Wassell turned toward the nearby Nevada reservoir as Douglas made tentative cuts in the rope. Almost stalling the Jenny, Wassell crossed the reservoir. Douglas slashed the rope and tumbled into the water.

There was a comic anti-climax to this daring life-saving effort. Douglas, a strong swimmer, struck out for the nearest shore. Several good Samaritans, eager to help, put out in a skiff that had been lying beside the reservoir. Summer sun had opened the seams of the skiff, which promptly sank. Other onlookers swam out and helped the volunteer rescuers to safety.

THE 33 miles from Columbia to Jefferson City are flown in minutes. The Lake of the Ozarks, appearing as it does on Missouri's map, lies south of the capital in plain view. The air is smooth, the roar of the jet engine muffled. White puff-ball clouds are hundreds of feet below. We turn east over Jefferson City and head for St. Louis with the wind on our tail.

In its second summer camp at Nevada, the Thirty-fifth Division Aviation made no attempt to entertain the Governor by swinging from a rope. This was disappointing to the writer, who was sent to cover the encampment on the chance the reservoir might again be a source of exciting news.

Life was not too dull for the reporter, however. First there was a trip to an air race at Kansas City. The flight was made with a lieutenant who wore a crash helmet similar to the modern headgear now in vogue for jet pilots. Also, he refused to fly in the rear seat, where the compass was installed.

The reporter-passenger drew compass bearings on bits of paper, shoving the slip through a hole between the cockpits, to the pilot. With this shaky navigation, the Jenny zigged and zagged along the Missouri-Kansas line to Kansas City. How the Jenny reached Kansas City, well behind the other Jennys, is still a mystery.

The second junket of the 110th Squadron was to a State American Legion convention at Springfield, Mo. The takeoff was in the forenoon, the landing on a turf field outside Springfield shortly before noon. The visitors were taken to convention headquarters, in a Springfield hotel. There were drinks, despite Prohibition, and perhaps some food.

A summer storm blew up and the squadron, which had a designated takeoff hour, flew out of Springfield in a rain storm. The reporter, flying with a jolly ex-bomber pilot of World War I, wondered if the OX engine would be affected by the dashing rain. The prop continued to turn, and the Jenny soon flew out of the storm.

Later, turning to peer at the pilot, the reporter found that worthy dozing against the side of the cockpit. He apparently had the stick between his knees. The Jenny was flying on an even, if leisurely course.

Pounding on the fuselage, the passenger aroused the pilot, who opened an eye. He maintained this comfortable position until the Jenny was over Camp Clark. Then, obviously revived, he put the plane into a series of banks, turns and spins, until the passenger whirled dizzily in the cockpit. Between alternating views of sky and ground, the passenger caught a glimpse of figures running to the squadron ambulance and cranking the engine. At that point the pilot flew in for a conventional landing.

Those were the beginning days, like all beginning days. Despite such zany antics, the 110th Squadron, and its associated units, developed into a well-trained and fine element of our national defense.

In the mobilization prior to World War II, the 110th Squadron went into Federal service at Camp Robinson, Ark. Many of its officers and non-commissioned officers received responsible assignments in the subsequent world-wide theaters of war. Officers became base and unit commanders. Many non-coms were recognized as officer material.

The 110th, as a unit, became a Tactical Reconnaisance Squadron of the Fifth Air Force in the Southwest Pacific. Starting with P-39 and P-40 fighters, the squadron distinguished itself in the New Guinea fighting. Moving on to the Philippines, the unit became the 91st Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, flying F-51 Mustangs. For its work in the war against the Japanese, the St. Louis unit received credit for participation in the Luzon, Leyte and Ryukyus Campaigns and the offense against Japan.

IN exactly 15 minutes the T-33 covers the 110 air miles from Jefferson City to Lambert-St. Louis Field. We had flown 250 miles in less than 35 minutes, or nearly 500 miles an hour. With the F84 fighter-interceptors, of which the 110th Squadron will receive 25 this year, the time will be greatly diminished, flying at 40,000 to 50,000 feet in the jet stream.

The Jennys and their airmen have long passed from the scene. Many of the booted, swaggering figures have gone to that happy land the old pilots sang about—

"Where everything is right,
You do not work at all,
And you stay out every night."

The Jenny days were a long time ago. Truly, Tempus fugit on jet wings.

Secrets of Charm

Quick Hair-do Tricks

HURRYING your hair-do need not detract from good looks. If your regular hair care is right and followed on schedule, an occasional need to look beautiful on short notice can be met with great success in a minimum of time.

HURRYING YOUR HAIR-DO NEED NOT DETRACT FROM GOOD LOOKS.

Don't refuse a sudden summer invitation just because there's not enough time for your hair. Some of the best evenings, especially on vacation, start on the whim of the moment—and you don't want to miss a thing. Get set right now with the tricks that make hair look freshly set in no time. Here are two which do wonders; choose the one that's right for your type of hair.

For dry or normal hair: Brush vigorously, until every strand has been separated from the rest and feels live and clean. Then rub a sparing amount of pomade or brilliantine between your palms and work it into your scalp with your fingertips. Next, give every strand a shine-up treatment by polishing it between your palms. Now, with light strokes, brush waves and curls into place.

For oily hair: Apply hair freshener or a tonic for oily hair to small pads of cotton and use them to refresh your scalp. Disarrange the hair as little as possible. Lift locks and rub the scalp, but try not to dampen waves and curls. Don't use a comb or brush at this point; just let the lotion dry undisturbed. Then press a dry, clean absorbent towel against your head to take up surface oil. Next, starting at the scalp and moving down to the ends, brush your hair with long, even strokes. Arrange your hair with a brush.

Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

HERE are three bidding problems composed by The Bridge World editors. How would you handle them? The answers are presented below.

1. You are South, with both sides vulnerable at duplicate, and hold these cards:

♠A7542
♥Q643
♦J5
♣A7

The bidding has gone:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	?

What call do you make?

* * *

2. You are South, with both sides vulnerable at duplicate, and hold these cards:

♠K108652
♥AQ109
♦54

The bidding has gone:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	1N.T.	?

What call do you make?

* * *

3. You are South, with both sides vulnerable, and hold these cards:

♠AKQJ864
♣A72

The bidding has gone:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♥	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♦	Pass

What call do you make?

Answers.

1. South bids two hearts. This suggests a five-card spade suit and also allows for the chance of playing a no-trump or heart game.

* * *

2. South bids two spades; it is better to take action than to pass. By bidding spades he may miss a better spot at hearts, but he isn't strong enough to double one no-trump.

* * *

3. South bids four spades. He doesn't make a stronger bid, such as five clubs, for if the diamond call was a cue bid, North will continue bidding, while if it was merely showing a two-suiter, four spades will be high enough.

Brain Game

1. In what year was Joan of Arc burned at the stake?
2. How many yards are in a bolt of cloth?
3. A hexagon has how many sides?
4. A vice admiral rates how many stars?
5. A pentathlon comprises how many events?

Answers.

1. In 1431. 2. Forty. 3. Six. 4. Three. 5. Five.

and mail to CASH-CROSSWORDS, Box 1603, Central Station, St. Louis 1, Mo. Or bring it to the puzzle box in the Post-Dispatch lobby, Twelfth Boulevard and Olive Street. Remember, it must be received not later than 9 a.m. Thursday, July 25.

NOTE: The Bell Syndicate, Inc., originator of this puzzle, has mailed the correct answers directly to the Mercantile Trust Company, St. Louis, where they will be kept sealed in the vault until after 9 a.m. Thursday. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch did not prepare this puzzle and does not have the answers in advance. The Official Rules of the contest are as follows:

1. Solve this puzzle as you would work any crossword puzzle, printing in the blank spaces the missing letters to form the word which you believe BEST fits the definition.
2. Fill in your name and complete address on the entry form, and print the first letter of your last name in the square indicated. Then cut along the dotted lines and paste the complete entry on a 2-cent postcard. Address the postcard to CASH-CROSSWORDS, Box 1603, Central Station, St. Louis 1, Missouri.
3. All entries for Puzzle No. 8 must be received not later than 9 A.M., Thursday, July 25. Entries may be mailed or may be delivered in person to the Cash-Crosswords box in the Post-Dispatch lobby.
4. $1,000.00 in cash will be paid for the correct solution to Puzzle No. 8. If more than one contestant submits the correct solution, the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If no correct solution is received, the $1,000.00 will be added to the prize to be awarded for the correct solution to Cash-Crossword Puzzle No. 9.
5. Only correctness of solution will count, not decorations. There is only ONE answer that in the judges' opinion is the BEST word to fit the definition in each clue. Decisions of the judges are final, and all contestants agree to accept those decisions as a condition of entry.
6. There is no limit to the number of entries a contestant may submit. Accurate hand-drawn facsimiles will be accepted, but not carbon copies or reproductions made by mechanical processes. It is not necessary to buy the Post-Dispatch to compete in this contest.
7. Any resident of Missouri, Illinois (excluding Cook County) or Arkansas may enter the contest, except employees of The Pulitzer Publishing Company, its advertising agency and members of their households.
8. Names of winners, if any, and the correct solution to Puzzle No. 8 will be published together with a new puzzle in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, July 28.
9. The Post-Dispatch is not responsible for entries that are lost, illegible, incorrectly filled out, or arrive too late. It also reserves the right to correct typographical errors and to discontinue the contest at its discretion.

Popular Music

Off-Key Appearance Of Crazy Present

By John Crosby

NEW YORK.

IN "Love Me to Pieces" on "Studio One" the other night, a 15-year-old girl, tormented by puppy love, turns out a rock 'n' roll number which more or less expresses her inner turmoil ("Hold Me, Thrill Me," and so forth) which sweeps the country.

JOHN CROSBY

This, you might well say, is wildly implausible farce designed strictly for the summer trade and you would be right. But there were two aspects of this particular show which vastly amused me. For one thing, it was a throw-back to the old "Room Service," "Three Men on a Horse" type of farce which has not been seen for a long time. For another, the weird goings-on may very well be an exact rendition of the way business is conducted in the popular music dodge these days. For instance, a young man trying to persuade his father-in-law to stop publishing Francis Scott Key and other "patriotic songs for all occasions" and to get onto the popular bandwagon, declares: "Where do the popular tunes come from these days—nowhere, unknowns, the great unwashed, hillbillies." That statement hits pretty close to the truth.

IT REMINDS ME, in fact, of Abe Burrows's observation about the unpredictability of the music business. A book publisher, he pointed out, is not likely to find "War and Peace" coming in unsolicited from the ranks of the amateurs. Whereas a song publisher's biggest hit—at least in the crazy present—is most likely to be the biggest hunk of tripe that drifts in the mail. In "Love Me to Pieces," it is the conceit of the author, Romeo Muller, that the young lady has a young brother who knows all about the music business through reading Cash Box, Variety and Billboard. He wangles a recording contract which specifies that his sister shall sing the song ("She Got 'A' in Choir Three Time Running.") And that she shall also have the right to lay down the ground rules for her accompaniment.

She immediately demands a harpsichord in an echo chamber. ("You buy it?" asks the brother. "I buy everything these days," says the arranger hopelessly.) Somehow, through the convolutions of plot, the harpsichord and a couple of bass fiddles wind up in the bathtub, the teen-age singer and her accompanying vocalists—the Four Birds—wind up in the living room of her home, all mercilessly attacking "Love Me to Pieces." Well, sure, it sounds idiotic but the record they cut under these circumstances sounds just exactly like all the other records that teen-agers are listening to these days. In fact, if anything, it sounds a little better. If Mitch Miller hasn't tried a harpsichord in a bathtub, I'm sure he eventually will. He's tried everything else. Actually, the record used in the show is on sale and sold 100,000 copies in two days.

THE ACTING AND DIRECTION that accompanied these crazy imaginings were, to put it mildly, broad—perhaps a little too broad. But I don't know that there is any other way to handle the music business these days. I took what may be a wholly malicious pleasure in some of the digs at popular recordings. When a couple of movers dropped the harpsichord in the bathtub, the woman who plays it says indignantly:

"You knocked it out of tune."

"It matters?" asks the mover.

"Not much," says the harpsichordist, and settles down to play it.

Nothing matters except that you come up with a new sound. Years ago, George Kaufman and Ring Lardner wrote a satire on the popular music business called, "June Moon." But in the light of current happenings it is as quaint and old-fashioned as "The Winning of Barbara Worth." In Radio Age, RCA-Victor reveals that the first vocalist to sell a million records was Enrico Caruso with "Vesti la Giubba" in 1907. And the last one on the RCA-Victor label was Elvis Presley—which is as melancholy a history of popular music as anything I've ever read.

Cause for Concern

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

DEAR Dr. Steincrohn: I have always been interested in what causes "yellow sickness," which you physicians call jaundice. But I've been especially curious lately. I have a brother, 52, who has been well all his life until about one month ago when he began to get yellow. But he has no other complaint. Ask him how he feels and he says "fine." He has no aches or anything else bothersome. I guess it's for that reason he has been stubborn and has not gone to our doctor. But it has me concerned. I believe I read somewhere that the absence of pain can sometimes get us into trouble. It lulls us into a false sense of security and we lose valuable time. I'm really worried about him.

Sincerely, Mrs. L. B.

ANSWER: You have good cause for concern. But first let me generalize. The differential diagnosis of jaundice (getting down to its real cause) can sometimes be a difficult job. Usually, however, the doctor can pinpoint the offending mechanism.

THE YELLOWNESS is due to the inability of the body to "metabolize" the bile pigment that results from the disintegration of the red blood cells. These broken-down red blood cells—and this is a normal process when they become old—liberate hemaglobin which in turn becomes bilirubin. If the body can eliminate all of the bilirubin then there is no evidence of jaundice; if not, then comes the yellowish discoloration of the skin and mucous membranes.

Here are the three main causative groups of jaundice. (1.) Jaundice due to trouble in the blood. There is a breakdown of too many red blood cells and we get what is called hemolytic jaundice. (2) Hepatic jaundice is due to trouble in the liver itself. The liver cells are unable to handle all the liver itself. The liver cells are unable to handle all the bile pigment. (3.) Obstructive Jaundice. Everything is working well in the blood and liver; but something is interfering with the liver ducts that carry the bile into the intestines. A roadblock has been set up against normal movement of bile.

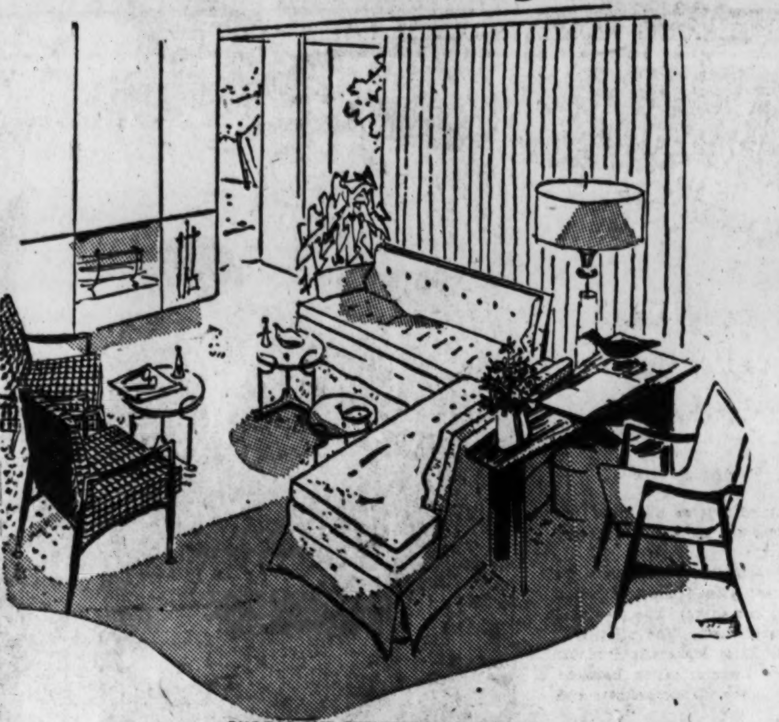
KNOWING THESE THINGS, the doctor sets out on the diagnostic trail. In addition to X-rays, special blood tests and other examinations he has a number of specific "liver function tests" to fall back on. Here are the names of some of these "jawbreakers": thymol turbidity; cephalin flocculation; bromsulphalein.

Now, Mrs. L. B., how about your brother? I think he should go to his doctor right away. When a patient comes with "painless jaundice," the doctor rules out hemolytic and hepatic jaundice that I have mentioned.

If your brother has no evidence of these conditions, the doctor usually will narrow the trouble down to "something pressing on the bile ducts"—either from within or from without.

I have seen many middle-aged patients with painless jaundice whose trouble was due to stone in the bile duct—so called "silent stone." (Usually, this is not serious.) But most often such trouble is due to a growth pressing on the duct from without. I need not emphasize, I suppose, how important the time element becomes in such cases.

Something Different For a Living Room



CHOOSE THE FURNITURE WITH CARE

By Elizabeth Hillyer

THE something different about a living room that makes it individual and proud can come to the room with its basic equipment—the furniture. But be careful there, if you're looking for the unusual—the "something different" in furniture must be especially well chosen.

Difference alone isn't worthwhile. Most furniture must live with the family too long to risk wearing out its welcome in a short time. Its original appeal must last—and this means that it must have the fundamental qualities of design that endure.

While fresh and wonderfully varied design catches your eye at every turn as the new furniture for fall comes into the stores, here's what to look for:

1. Subtle shaping—the graceful curves and sculpturing that designers use so well now make the simplest of shapes look different. Find the design that's sparked with inspiration but is never extreme. Avoid furniture that strains to be different; the freak table, the startler chair, the upholstered seating unit which angles aimlessly. Choose the kind that uses its lines purposefully no matter how unusual they are.

Good example of subtle and purposeful design that looks very different is the shaping of the backs of the two sofas sketched. Norman Fox MacGregor designed the foam rubber in a handsome new molded shape to make it extra comfortable to lean against.

2. Interesting materials—the wealth of woods (more varied than they ever have been and in more finishes), fabric-soft leathers, marble, brass, new plastics, magnesium, cane, pewter and ceramics (the latter two now used for some parts of furniture as well as for trim). Many of the others are used in new ways and in new combinations. Find those which increase the usefulness and/or durability of the piece of furniture in addition to varying its design. Look for unusual upholstery fabrics, too, and you'll find them in abundance especially in new man-made fiber categories, which aim for duty no less than for beauty. But avoid the spectacular fabric that bedazzles in itself rather than enhances the furniture—meaningless novelty of any kind quickly grows tiresome.

Live Alone and Like It

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

"I AM 22 years old and, frankly, hope to marry before long. My parents insist that I should take an apartment with two or three other girls. It would be cheaper and I'll have companionship, they say. But frankly, Dr. Popenoe, that's not the kind of companionship I want! Wouldn't I be handicapped by being tied down with these other single women? My parents seem to think there would be something unnatural, dangerous, even immoral, in living alone! What do you think, Dr. Popenoe?"

No single plan has all possible advantages with no possible drawbacks, Miss U., but many women with whom I have discussed this agree that you should live alone. If you have a roommate, it will be too much of a temptation to stay at home with her when you ought to be going out. And if you went out, it would be too easy to take her along. That would make it more difficult for you to meet men. The commonest and sometimes the most fatal mistake of unmarried women is to travel in pairs.

People would sometimes hesitate to invite you out because they would think they had to include your roommate. The latter might become too dependent on you and protest bitterly against being left alone. In such a position many a woman becomes a real slave to a roommate. So on general principles my advice is: Live alone and like it.

GET a small room of your own, and don't stay in it any more than necessary. Your job is to go out to places where you can enjoy a normal social life, places where you might find fine, eligible men.

Sometimes a case of three girls living alone is even worse than two because two of them are likely to join together against the third. Of course, I don't say that this always happens. Any reader probably knows or has actually taken part in a very successful partnership. But there are too many failures, and the risk is too great in my opinion to make it worthwhile in your particular circumstances.

The arrangement might seem more feasible for older women since the question of finding a husband is not likely to be involved. Even there, however, one is pretty likely to become dependent on the other and that's not good.

You may be able to get into a Y.W.C.A. dormitory or some home for business girls where you will have the advantage of companionship when you want it but not be tied down exclusively as when you take an apartment with a roommate.

Fix It Yourself . . Crawl Space . . By Hubbard Cobb

PLENTY of fresh air is a wonderful thing for us humans and it's also a good thing for certain parts of your home.

It's particularly important for such areas as a crawl space under the house or the area under porches and stoops. If you seal off these areas that are close to the ground you'll encourage dampness in the house and also decay in the woodwork.

If your house is one with crawl space then the crawl space must be adequately vented. The general rule is to have two square feet of opening for each 100 linear feet of foundation wall.

The vents, of course, must not be all along one wall. The best rule is to have at least one at each corner and then additional ones, if required, between the corners. This provides a good cross ventilation of the crawl space.

If you live in a cold climate, the underside of the floor will have to be insulated when the openings are made. If you don't apply insulation between the floor joists you're going to have some rather cool floors. Blanket insulation is usually used for this job and it should be tacked between the joists with the vapor barrier side facing up.

In many homes with crawl space you'll find water pipes running in the crawl space and these should be insulated to prevent them freezing in cold weather. When crawl space is tightly closed there isn't much chance for pipes freezing, but when you vent the area the pipes will have to be insulated. The openings, by the way, should be covered with screening to keep out rodents—¼ inch mesh hardware cloth is adequate for this job.

Areas under wood porches and stoops should be provided with maximum amount of opening.

Preserving Is Easy With Quick Method

By Edith M. Barber

EVEN our housekeeping seasons have changed in these modern times. Weeks are no longer set aside for house cleaning when the vacuum cleaner can be put to use regularly.

Preserving weeks, which usually took place in early summer and fall, have also practically gone by the board.

Most of us have adopted the quick method for jams and jellies that calls for the use of powdered or liquid pectin. When we find summer fruit at a reasonable price, we may purchase a couple of boxes of berries, or perhaps a good-sized pineapple. We will put them to use sometimes while we are preparing a meal and in a short time we will have half a dozen or more shining glasses of jelly or jam ready to be sealed with paraffin.

By the way, it is much more satisfactory to use jelly glasses rather than small jars with "necks" for these products. Paraffin is easier to remove and jelly can be unmolded before serving. There are, however, some excellent jars with straight sides and screw tops with which paraffin is not necessary.

If you have on hand the small jars with necks, they can be put to use for that old-time traditional recipe for jam or preserves which you may like to use for some products. These are also appropriate for use with pickles.

Combinations of fruits are very good for jams. Currants and raspberries, and pineapple and strawberries are among our favorites, and these fruits are in season at the same time. Or, crushed canned pineapple may be used. This is a fruit that seems to retain its natural flavor during the canning process. Frozen strawberries may, of course, be combined with it.

Currant and Raspberry Jam.

Ingredients: four and one-half cups prepared fruit (about one quart each ripe red currants and raspberries), one box powdered fruit pectin, five and one-half cups (two pounds, six ounces) sugar.

Stem and crush thoroughly about one quart fully ripe red currants. Crush about one quart fully ripe red raspberries. Combine fruits and measure four and one-half cups pulp into large saucepan. Add powdered fruit pectin and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to hard boil. Stir in sugar and bring to full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir and skim by turns for five minutes. Ladle into glasses, and seal at once. Yield: about 10 medium glasses.

Strawberry Preserves.

Five cups whole strawberries (about one and one-half quarts ripe small to medium strawberries), seven cups (three pounds) sugar, one-fourth cup lemon juice (two lemons), one-half bottle fruit pectin.

Hull about one and one-half quarts strawberries. Measure five cups whole berries (firmly packed without crushing) into very large saucepan. Add sugar. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring carefully to keep fruit whole. Remove from heat and let stand at room temperature four to five hours. Add lemon juice and place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard two minutes, stirring carefully. Remove from heat and stir in pectin. Stir and skim by turns for eight to ten minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle into glasses and seal at once. Yield: about nine medium glasses.

Most of us aren't fortunate enough to have an old lacquered leather chest to use as a cock-tail table. But, you can cover an ordinary one in simulated leather of vinyl fabric and add your own interesting hardware.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

I AM miserable. My husband goes out in the evening and stays until 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning. He says what he does is his business. He works for his money and can do as he pleases with it. Two months ago I got a job to buy the children and myself some clothes. I gave him money to pay bills with but he went out and got drunk. Now that my twenty-first birthday is coming up, I asked him to take me out. He said he wouldn't take me, that if I could find someone crazy enough to take me out to go ahead. Martha, I am tempted to do just that. I know I have thought of it many times but my two babies always come to my mind. I am about to get fed up with the whole deal.

FED UP.

I can understand why you would. This is a sad substitute for what a real marriage should be. Of course, it's your business where he goes, how long he stays out. If he had no intention of considering someone else in his plans, he shouldn't have married. If you are earning a part of the family income and have it earmarked for certain bills, pay them yourself until he proves he can be trusted. There's no sense in giving him your hard-earned money to get drunk on. However, I can't encourage you to assert your independence any further and find someone else to take you out, no matter what he does. It's bad enough when one cheats in marriage, but when both give up all semblance of loyalty, then there isn't much chance. Instead, go to a marriage counselor. From what you say, I doubt if he would go with you, but that shouldn't stop you. You and he must have loved one another when you married. Surely, that marriage is worth fighting for.

I AM THE ONLY WOMAN working in my office, along with five men. Three of those men are most considerate but the other two are always asking me to run errands for them. For awhile, when I first came, I did get them coffee but the boss found out and asked me not to leave my desk for so long. So now they don't ask that, unless he is out of town, but they are always dictating personnal letters and asking me to make phone calls for them. If I refuse, they get mad. Sometimes, I have plenty of time. Sometimes, I'm too busy. But I'm supposed to work for the boss, not for them. What should I do?

STENOGRAPHER.

If you're the boss's stenographer, then by all means concentrate on his work and don't worry if the others do get mad at you. Occassionally, if you have the time, you might want to take a letter or a telephone call, but there is no reason whatsoever to let them impose on you and you certainly shouldn't put aside any of your employer's work to help them. If necessary, talk to the boss. Your first responsibility is to him.

The Dean Speaks Up

By Adele Starbird

TWO articles in the American Scholar (Autumn, 1956) which have no apparent relation, do seem to bear upon the same subject. The first, by Harlow Shapley, the astronomer, entitled "Man's Fourth Adjustment," is tremendously exciting. It asks the question, Are we alone? and answers confidently, Of course not!

DEAN STARBIRD

Mr. Shapley thinks there are thousands of planets like Earth in the universe, that they have produced life, and that there life may take a higher form than the human race. "There is no reason to believe that our own mental stature has not been excelled by that of sentient beings elsewhere. There are a million variations on the animal theme."

This would seem to corroborate Gerald Heard's explanation of flying saucers—that on some other planet creatures more intelligent than we are watching us with concern now that we have nuclear fision.

Mr. Shapley hints that mankind will be shocked to learn that the planet Earth is not unique, that man is not the peak of creation, and that the universe is millions of times larger than he supposed.

THE IMPLICATION IS, I think, that man has been greatly reduced in importance. But Pascal understood three centuries ago that man was poised between two infinities, the infinitely great and the infinitely small, and that the contemplation of either caused the mind to reel.

If you postulate infinity, it doesn't matter how many million new suns with their planetary systems are discovered, you cannot touch bottom or come to the end. You may view through a telescope the farthest frontiers of the universe, or you may read about them with awe and excitement. You know that they will be pushed farther out within the next few years, or rather, that man's knowledge of them will be extended.

However, you, as a member of the human race, do not feel diminished because there is a lot more time and space than primitive man suspected. On the contrary, you feel exhilarated—and that, too, is indefensible, since the importance of man derives from his spirit, and not from the spatial relations of his planet to the rest of the universe, nor from its position in time. Man has always known that he was a mere mote at the intersection of time and space. It does not further reduce him to extend the intersecting lines indefinitely.

BUT THIS MERE MOTE is a creature capable of loving his Creator; he believes that he is the son of that Creator and that he can enter into relationship with Him. Furthermore this mote has an intelligence which enables him to measure the material universe in terms of time and space and weight and to analyze its component parts. No discovery made by the intelligence of this mote can diminish either his human dignity or his spiritual significance. As to the populations of other planets, I think that possibility is also exhilarating. A "reading of earth," to use George Meredith's phrase, seems to prove this above all—that the Creator delights in diversity.

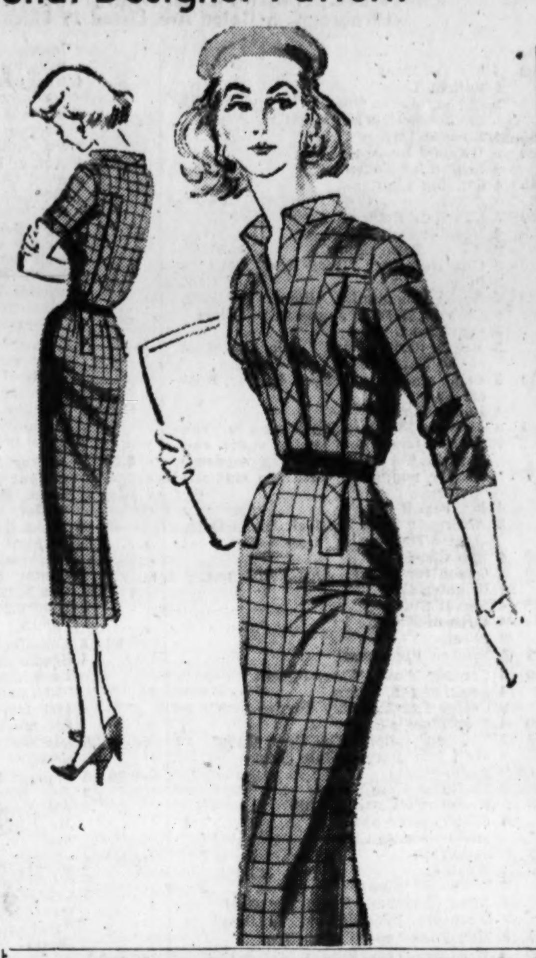
This diversity has always been for me a cogent argument for the persistence of personality after death. Rather than the absorption of all differences into One, it seemed more likely that the One would still find joy in infinite variations.

Therefore it seems plausible that the other Earths are swarming with intelligent beings quite different from ourselves. And it would be truly anthropomorphic to assume that He who created us and those still hypothetical creatures, could not encompass the whole of His creation, could not still value and love Man.

King David, who undoubtedly thought that the world was flat, cried out "What is man, that Thou art mindful of him, or the son of man that Thou visitest him?" What, indeed? (The second article in the American Scholar will be the subject of my next column.)

Dress for Autumn

International Designer Pattern



CHECKED out for your first fall dress, perfect for the career, college or charity board girls is this Lachasse model with clever handling of bias-cut self trim.

A simple dress, mainly for glen plaids or checks, it is simple to make thanks to the precisely perforated, designer sized pattern, and has the kind of fine couture detailing that distinguishes this famous London salon.

From stitched-back yoke slots, come open-edge bias bands extending below the waist and which, in self-material, make for subtle contrast. The banded stand-away collar is continued into the open neckline which continues into the belted waistline.

Pork Chops

Brown pork chops in a heavy iron skillet, then arrange in a baking dish. Spoon some applesauce over each chop, dust with nutmeg and bake in a moderate oven until the meat is fork-tender.

Basement Hint

When installing plywood over basement masonry walls, it's wise to apply asphalt building paper over the furring strips before the plywood is nailed in place. The building paper will prevent any moisture coming from the masonry wall damaging the plywood.

Riverfront Memorial Planned by U.D.C. Group

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

WITH the ultimate objective of constructing a riverfront memorial to Gen. Robert E. Lee, the Confederate Dames Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, is planning a series of fund-raising projects to be held intermittently in the next few years.

The first, for which several hundred invitations have been sent, is to be called "An Evening in Gettysburg," consisting of two films, with refreshments during a 30-minute intermission, Wednesday night, July 31, in the gardens at the home of Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman, 5399 Lindell boulevard.

The first film, "Lee at Gettysburg," which runs 80 minutes, is in black and white and depicts the entire Battle of Gettysburg, beginning with the march of the Army of Northern Virginia, Lee's headquarters and his conference with Gen. Longstreet and Gen. Stuart. The film, made especially for the Confederate Dames Chapter through the courtesy of the Ford Foundation, will be shown with the consent of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

The second film, called "Gettysburg" is in full color but only 30 minutes long. There is no cast, but a narrator who tells of the battle as scenes from the battlefield roll forward. The shouting of orders, the crack of rifles and the tramping of booted feet provide drama. This film is shown with the co-operation of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and the Films division of the Encyclopedia Brittanica. Recorded Conferedate music and songs will be played.

Clock Tower Is Proposed.

THE proposed historic marker to Gen. Lee will take the form of a tall tower topped by a four-faced clock if the committee has its way. It will be placed near Main and Vine streets, on the site of the two-story brick house built in 1818 and formerly occupied by William Clark of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Gen Lee and his family lived there for four years while he achieved the engineering feat of changing the course of the Mississippi river. He was the first engineer to use a pile dike, with which he connected Bloody Island with the Illinois shore.

Mrs. Henry Frost Chadeayne, the guiding spirit back of the memorial project, is Missouri Division president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Murray L. Horn, president of the Confederate Dames Chapter, will be assisted in giving the benefit by Mrs. W. K. Brown, Mrs. Tobin Carlin, Mrs. Bernard F. Dickmann, Mrs. Waller Edwards, Mrs. Howard Young, Mrs. Peter A. Fons, Mrs. Rollo Horwitz, Mrs. Lionel Smith Gordon, Mrs. James B. Peddle, Mrs. Carl Stockstrom, Mrs. Albert K. Swan and Mrs. George Shelton.

Late August Wedding Scheduled.

MISS ALICE ELIZABETH HURFORD and Robert Charles Lucas, whose engagement was announced a few weeks ago, have selected Saturday, Aug. 24, as the date for their wedding. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Phelps G. Hurford, 1450 Rankin drive, Richmond Heights, and the late Dr. Hurford.

MISS HURFORD . . . TO BE AUGUST BRIDE.

The ceremony will take place at 11 o'clock in the morning at St. Luke the Evangelist Catholic Church in Richmond Heights. Msgr. Joseph A. McMahon will officiate. The bride-elect has asked her sister-in-law, Mrs. Grant E. Hurford, to serve as her matron of honor. Mrs. Hurford's daughters, Christine and Cynthia, will be flower girls, and Mr. Lucas's nephew, Joseph M. Renard, will carry the ring.

The prospective bridegroom will have a brother, George J. Lucas, as best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lucas, 1426 Silverton place, Richmond Heights. Miss Hurford's two brothers, Grant E. and Phelps G. Hurford, will serve as ushers.

A list of prewedding parties will be announced later.

Miss Boone Names Wedding Attendants.

MISS NANCY ANN BOONE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold C. Boone, 7020 Lindell boulevard, University City, whose engagement to Wilbur Fiske Warner was announced in January, will be married Sept. 28 at Our Lady of Lourdes Church at 11 o'clock. Msgr. Edward A. Rogers will perform the ceremony. A breakfast for the bridal party and immediate families will be followed by a reception at the Missouri Athletic Club.

MISS TUTHILL . . . TO BE BRIDESMAID.

Miss Boone has chosen her sister-in-law, Mrs. John A. Boone (Mary Ann Stangler) of Washington, Ill., for her matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Ann Sullivan, Miss Molly Rooney, Miss Carroll Tuthill, Miss Judith Ann Sullivan, Miss Donna Spitze and Miss Jane Bourke. Two nieces of Miss Boone will serve as flowers girls. They are Christy and Cherie Boone.

Mr. Warner, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. John B. Warner, former residents of Kirkwood who now live in Nashville, Ark., has chosen his brother, Patrick K. Warner, to be his best man. Two other brothers, John B. Warner Jr. and Edward W. Warner, will be groomsmen with Joseph Gross, Thomas Collins, William Brennan, Daniel Lynch, William Nord and the prospective bride's brother, Mr. Boone.

Miss Bourke gave the first party for Miss Boone May 5 when she invited her Maryville College classmates to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon J. Bourke, 7229 Forsyth boulevard, University City.

Mrs. John M. Wolff gave a luncheon and shower for Miss Boone June 26 at her home in Chesterfield.

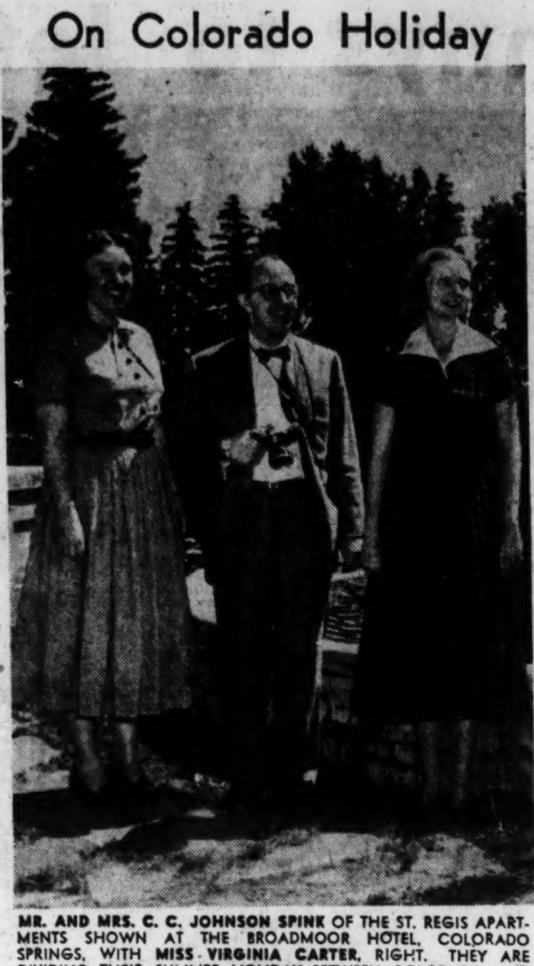
Mrs. R. Forder Buckley and her son, Raymond, 44 Willow Hill road, Ladue, and Mrs. William C. Lindsley and her three children, 1 Westerly lane, Ladue, are vacationing at Epworth Heights, Ludington, Mich. Mr. Buckley and Mr. Lindsley joined them Saturday. Raymond Buckley is a student at St. Louis Country Day School and William Lindsley attends John Burroughs School.

On Colorado Holiday



MR. AND MRS. C. C. JOHNSON SPINK OF THE ST. REGIS APARTMENTS SHOWN AT THE BROADMOOR HOTEL, COLORADO SPRINGS, WITH MISS VIRGINIA CARTER, RIGHT. THEY ARE DIVIDING THEIR SUMMER HOLIDAY BETWEEN COLORADO AND WYOMING.

Pre-Wedding Party For Carol Gilmore

IN ADDITION to the many prewedding parties already announced for Miss Carol Lee Gillmore before her marriage Saturday to Graham Torrance Flint Jr., a breakfast was given yesterday. Hostesses for the party, which took place at the Gatesworth Hotel, were two of Miss Gillmore's bridesmaids, Miss Suzanne Gay Collins and Miss Patricia Ann Zook. Guests were seated at a table decorated with a long centerpiece which was composed of individual nosegays for favors.

The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock at night at the Normandy Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Grant O. Jennings officiating. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Charles Gillmore, 4604 Nelson drive, Normandy. Mr. Flint's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Graham Torrance Flint, 20 North Hanley road, Clayton.

Webster Groves Visitors, Trips In Midsummer

PVT. AND MRS. CHARLES A. BIER (Mary Tyler) will arrive the end of the month from Pine Bluff, Ark., for a brief visit with her mother, Mrs. Simeon Ray Tyler, 145 South Gray avenue. They will be en route to Hillsdale, N.J., where they will spend August with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Bier.

Mrs. Tyler is expecting her granddaughter, Miss Pam Tyler, daughter of S. R. Tyler Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa., to be her guest early next month.

Mrs. Tyler and Mrs. Matt McCaskill of Alton returned home a few days ago from a two-month holiday through western Europe. They landed in New York abroad the Queen Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Conrad, 214 Spencer road, will join the colony at Macatawa, Mich., Aug. 1, where they have taken a cottage for the remainder of the summer. They are expecting their sons, Oscar Conrad Jr., 608 East Monroe avenue, Kirkwood, and John F. Conrad III, 9540 Clayton road, Ladue, and their respective families to join them at the resort.

* * *

Dr. James H. Mason, a lieutenant commander in the Navy, and Mrs. Mason and their children, Russell and Daniel, have concluded a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Russell, 39 Algonquin Woods, and are living at Oceanside, Calif., while he is on duty at Camp Pendleton. The Masons lived in Chicago the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Russell, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Mason, with their three children, Laurie, Donna and Judy, were also visiting here. They stayed with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Hoffman, 211 Parkhurst terrace, before returning to their home in Louisville, Ky.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gushaw, 1107 Pine Tree lane, were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Nance, who were en route home to Dallas, Tex., from the East. Mrs. Gushaw's sister, Miss Louise Marilyn Nance of Leicester, Mass., joined the visitors here and accompanied them home.

Comment On Nuclear Weapons

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

AN article in the New York Times last Thursday by its military expert, Hanson W. Baldwin, points up some of the things which I have been fearing for a long time.

Mr. Baldwin, analyzing how military cutbacks increase the Allied dependence on the nuclear bomb, writes: "The West is reducing the size of its forces, for budgetary reasons, prior to any disarmament agreement. The future British force levels, already announced, are far below the levels suggested at the London talks. We would like the Russian conventional forces reduced. Russia would like our nuclear deterrent reduced and eliminated; the likely result is an impasse."

As far back as last autumn I tried to point out that, with an increasing reliance on nuclear weapons and a reduction in our conventional weapons and our manpower, we are traveling a dangerous road. The Soviets have more manpower and more conventional weapons than we have. They wish to cut down in the development of more nuclear weapons for they are conscious that that is where our strength lies.

THE RUSSIANS know as much as we do about the power for destruction of nuclear weapons, and for that reason they are probably no more anxious for a nuclear war than we are. Their military strength and production of military materials makes it comparatively easy for them to incite small wars wherever they think it will be embarrassing to the United States and its Western Allies.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

TWICE during the past few months, waterspouts have appeared along the coast of Florida, between Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach. In each case the "twister" part of a tornado cloud sank down to the surface of the ocean and picked up water.

Neither of those waterspouts caused any loss of life. One boat, whose pilot wanted to get out of the way, was helped along by waves and wind.

Q. Are waterspouts dangerous?

A. They are a danger to boats of small or medium size. The captains of large ocean liners don't like them, but their vessels could cut through an ordinary waterspout without harm.

Some sailing vessels have been wrecked by waterspouts, and there has been loss of lofe. The whirling wind in a waterspout, however, is less rapid than a land tornado wind.

Q. Were sailors fearful of waterspouts during past times?

A. Yes, they believed that demons or monsters were trying to harm them. Sometimes the waterspouts were described as dragons.

Cannons were fired at some waterspouts, and it became the custom to read a passage from the Bible as a protection. A French writer who lived 300 years ago set down words with this meaning:

"One of the vessel's company knelt down by the mainmast and (while holding in one hand a black-handled knife) read the gospel of St. John. When he came to the words 'et verbum caro . . .' he turned toward the waterspout and cut the air, as though to cut the demon. . . ."

William Dampier, a British sea captain, lived at the same time, and made a note that men at sea would "fire shot out of their great guns" in the hope of destroying waterspouts.
